100 State Employes Fight Mandatory Retirement

DENVER (AP) — One hundred Colorado state employes who have reached the mandatory retirement age of 68 are seeking to stay on their jobs at least another six months.

Tuesday was the deadline for workers of retirement age to file requests for extensions.

The Colorado Civil Service Commission said it had postponed retirement for 56 workers at the request of their department heads. Forty-four others are seeking on their own initiative to retain their jobs.

Thirty-eight in the latter category have made oral arguments to the commission, which is expected to begin announcing decisions soon.

Extensions will start the first of next year, and most of them will be for six months or less.

The agency has received word from at least 131 employes of retirement age that they do not intend to work after the end of this year, when the new retirement law becomes effective.

Among state employes who earlier retired voluntarily or announced plans to retire are Mark U. Watrous, chief highway engineer; S. T. (Ted) Parsons, ports of entry director, and Thomas Allen, chief coal mines inspector.

Moscow-U.S. Hot Line Is Tested Every Hour

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once every hour a bell shrills and the "hot line" teletype connection between the Pentagon and the Kremlin springs to life.

A message chatters across that line—across the 5,200 miles separating the center of Soviet power and the U.S. capital.

It's not a life-and-death message from President Kennedy to Soviet Premier Khrushchev, or the other way around.

It's a test, made hourly around the clock to be certain the circuit—which has another outlet at the White House — is working and ready in event of an emergency requiring instantaneous communication between the Russian and U.S. heads of state.

This has been going on since the line was declared open on Aug. 30.

If there have been any communications between Kennedy and Khrushchev during the six weeks the "hot line" has been in business, they are being kept secret. The Defense Department and the White House refuse to discuss the subject.

There is reason to believe the hot line was not used during last week's brief tension over Soviet

Progressive Wing Dominant at Vatican Council

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council's progressive wing appeared today to have achieved a dominant influence at the Roman Catholic conclave following this week's votes to modernize the Mass and the sacraments.

A member of the Vatican Curia, the church's central governing body, described the votes as "a victory for the progressives" — the modern-minded element among the 2,500 church fathers.

He also said the voting showed that conflict and misunderstanding between progressives and conservatives had eased.

"The council is working hard now and getting a lot done," said the Curia member. "The progressives, who want to get the church in step with the times, are having their way."

On Monday, the council approved in principle a proposal to allow use of local languages in place of Latin in parts of the Mass. The changes would be at the discretion of regional conferences of bishops.

The proposal is contained in the second chapter of a seven-chapter schema or topic on liturgy, or public worship.

J. Stanley Hoddy Retires From Industrial Post

J. Stanley Hoddy, prominent area civic and business leader, has retired as president of the Colorado Springs Emerson-Western Division of the Emerson Electric Manufacturing Co.

Civic and business leaders and members of the Emerson-Western Management Club were on hand to pay tribute to the man who founded the Universal Western Electric Co. here in 1948.

C. F. Craig, vice president for Industrial Relations of Emerson Electric, which merged with Hoddy's company in 1959, represented the company at the dinner.

"Emerson Electric reluctantly accepts the decision of Mr. Hoddy to retire," Craig said. "Mr. Hoddy has shown a deep dedication to the growth of the plant and to the welfare of the people associated in the plant since he founded the business in 1948.

"We pay tribute to him not only as a leader, but as a great humanitarian dedicated to the best interests of his friends and associates and the community."

Hoddy's retirement comes after 33 years in the engineering

Record Number Of Job Holders Reported in State

DENVER (AP) — The balance in Colorado's unemployment compensation fund has dropped more than $6 million during the past year. It stands at $48,969,445 compared with $55,118,673 at the same time a year ago.

The Department of Employment made this announcement as it reported late Tuesday that a new all-time record had been set during September in the number of job holders within the state.

Bernard E. Teets, department director, said 746,160 Coloradoans were at work in September, including 90,835 on agricultural jobs.

Unemployment, he said, had dropped 2,500 from August to 23,650, or 3.1 per cent of the labor force.

September was the third consecutive month to eclipse the pre-1963 high for employment—734,960 set in September, 1962.

Fort Morgan had the best labor picture of any city in the state in September, with unemployment amounting to only .7 per cent of the potential workers. Walsenburg had the highest unemployment rate, 7.6 per cent.

Teets said unemployment benefits paid by his department last month totaled $961,683, a drop of 16.3 per cent from August and down 22.6 per cent from September, 1962.

His figures came in a regular monthly statement, which made no reference to charges by State Auditor John F. Proctor that the department may have paid out as much as $11 million on fraudulent claims during the past six years. Teets has vigorously disputed the estimate, which came from private auditors who studied 74 case records.

Drought, Woodland Fires Plague Wide U.S. Sections

Drought conditions in some areas in the eastern half of the nation appeared near the critical stage. Hundreds of fires burned in the tinder-dry forestlands in the Northeast and Midwest sections.

Summer's lush green pasture lands in much of the Western rangelands and in other areas were dry and brittle. Hay shortages were reported. There was a heavy decline in feed for livestock. Milk production sagged. Marketing of cattle was higher than normal for the season.

Water levels on most of the Great Lakes and many major rivers and streams were below seasonal levels. Water shortages developed in some communities and restrictions were ordered.

No accurate estimate of the damage the drought and fires have already caused in the past several weeks was available. But the Wabash Valley Association in Indiana said that drought damage in Southern Indiana and Southeastern Illinois alone may total between $35 million and $50 million.

There appeared no immediate, general break in the long dry, mild spell across much of the eastern half of the country. Record high temperatures have been set in scores of cities in the first half of October, with readings in the 90s and upper 80s.

However, some heavy thunderstorms erupted in the Central Plains and Mississippi Valley. Thunderstorms accompanied by lightning struck West Central Kansas with the first rain of consequence since Sept. 2. Lightning set fire to about a dozen homes in the four-hour storm which dumped 2.55 inches of rain on Hutchinson. All the fires were minor. Hail also fell, but little damage was reported.

Nuclear Weapons Are Curtailed by Oak Ridge Strike

By BOB HORTON

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)—Strikers close an automobile factory and the result is obvious: No cars. But what happens when an atomic facility is struck?

Foremost in the 5,400-man walkout at two atomic installations at Oak Ridge Monday night was the curtailing of nuclear weapons production. Extent of the limitation was not disclosed for security reasons.

But there are other problems.

At Oak Ridge National Laboratory, there's the problem of who will care for 200,000 mice while janitors are on strike.

The mice are used in studies involving radiation effects on heredity and in mutations.

Also among the strikers are operators of a research reactor which is the key to scores of experiments. Supervisory personnel have gone on shifts to keep it operating.

Ban on Orbiting Bombs Expected Thru U.N. Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Full support from the United States and the Soviet Union assured overwhelming U.N. approval today of a ban on orbiting nuclear weapons in space.

The 111-nation political committee called a special meeting to rush through a resolution sponsored by the United States, the Soviet Union and 15 other countries outlawing nuclear-armed satellites. Committee adoption makes General Assembly passage a formality.

The resolution, first tangible Cold War breakthrough since the limited nuclear test-ban treaty, stems from an agreement announced Oct. 3 after talks here by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home.

All members of the 18-nation Geneva Disarmament Conference except France joined in sponsoring the proposal. France has boycotted the Geneva meetings.

The United States and the Soviet Union have conceded that the advantage of orbiting nuclear weapons in space is more psychological than military.

Erhard Succeeds Adenauer as German Chief

By CARL HARTMAN

BONN, Germany (AP)—Ludwig Erhard, who directed West Germany's miraculous postwar economic recovery, was elected chancellor today to succeed Konrad Adenauer.

Erhard needed 250 votes to win. His Christian Democrats were joined by their partners in the coalition government, the Free Democrats. The Socialists voted against him.

The chancellor will go before the Bundestag later today to take the oath of office. He will present his new Cabinet to President Heinrich Luebke Thursday.

Erhard has been economics minister throughout Adenauer's tenure as West Germany's only chancellor since the Federal Republic was created in 1949. Adenauer made no secret that he felt Erhard incapable of filling his shoes. He retired at 87 only under extreme pressure from other leaders of his party.

Erhard has promised to follow Adenauer's basic foreign

Volunteers Battle New York State Forest Blazes

LAKE GEORGE, N.Y. (AP)—They come from New York City, Albany, Syracuse, from Fort Edward, Clemons, Hadley and nearby farms—the hundreds of men and boys who, off and on, for more than a week have battled the flames eating into New York's vast and valuable forestlands.

These volunteers are engaged in a near-ceaseless effort to contain the fires cropping up in tinder-dry woods.

Today about 5 fires were reported burning in woodlands across the state. Showers were forecast for some areas but the Weather Bureau held out little prospect of a good soaking rain.

Some of the firefighters, including six teen-aged boys who had to hike for about 30 miles with scarcely a ride, slept on bare ground without blankets. When they could stand it no longer in the 30-degree temperature in the Adirondacks, they walked a mile to a house, where they were taken in.

Who comes to fight fires and why?

A professor in Albany telephoned the Conservation Department office near here to ask directions to fire-fighting headquarters at the foot of Spruce Mountain, 25 miles to the northeast.

Legal Counsel For Newcomer Wants to Quit

An attorney for the missing Joe W. Newcomer petitioned U. S. District Court in Denver Tuesday to withdraw as Newcomer's legal counsel.

He is C. Henry Roath of the firm Hindry, Erickson and Meyer of Denver. Roath has not appeared in court recently to represent Newcomer, according to Fred M. Betz Sr., trustee for the bankrupt Newcomer Finance Company here.

In the petition, Roath said repeated attempts have been made to contact Newcomer.

"All such attempts have been without success and the present whereabouts of Joe W. Newcomer are unknown," the petition stated.

Richard Luxford of Littleton, another court-appointed attorney for Newcomer when the case broke last April, has not been doing any work for the missing loan executive for some time.

Betz said today he continues to get mail for Newcomer but

Mobster Murders To Be Probed By Grand Juries

NEW YORK (AP) — Two grand juries in New York City were called into special sessions today to hear informer Joseph Valachi testify about at least 10 unsolved gangland murders.

District attorney's men have dragged out musty records of underworld executions in the Bronx dating back to 1930.

Queens Dist. Atty. Frank D. O'Connor especially wanted Valachi's testimony about the murder of Anthony Pisano and his blonde girl friend, Janice Drake, near LaGuardia field four years ago.

Valachi has mentioned that murder in his testimony at Senate Investigations subcommittee hearings in Washington.

Valachi's first appearance was scheduled before the Queens Grand Jury. There were indications that he would be questioned about other murders and various rackets in addition

Ike Says Every Candidate Is Acceptable Now

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP)— A declaration by Dwight D. Eisenhower that every man now being mentioned for the Republican presidential nomination is acceptable to him brought happy smiles today to the faces of Sen. Barry Goldwater's supporters.

The former president previously had expressed some puzzlement as to just where the Arizona senator, a leading contender for the GOP nomination, stood on some issues.

But, it was learned, Goldwater recently had a heart-to-heart talk with Eisenhower at Gettysburg, Pa.—a session which apparently went a considerable distance toward a meeting of minds.

Goldwater told a reporter that he informed Eisenhower that he would state his views fully on all issues if he formally enters the presidential nomination tourney.

"Every man should do that, whether he's running for precinct chairman or some higher office," Goldwater said. "Otherwise, in my view, he couldn't get elected."

At a festive 73rd birthday party Tuesday night, Eisenhower did not tap anyone for the presidential nomination.

But he said "Let us not concern ourselves too much with

Tiger Lady Finds No Red Carpet In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu brought her barnstorming defense of the South Vietnamese government to the capital today. There was no red carpet welcome.

Only a handful of reporters and a small delegation from the South Vietnamese Embassy were on hand Tuesday night when Mrs. Nhu and her teenage daughter, Le Thuy, stepped from a shuttle flight from Newark, N.J.

Mrs. Nhu, sister-in-law of Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem, has visited several Eastern cities in the past 10 days, defending the regime in which her husband is a powerful adviser. She intends to carry her case across the country.

Absent from the airport were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tran Van Chuong. Chuong, a Buddhist, quit last month as Vietnamese ambassador to the United States, protesting what he said were Diem's anti-Buddhist policies. He has become the spokesman outside the Southeast Asian country for political opposition to Diem's regime.

Mrs. Nhu converted to Catholicism upon her marriage. Her husband and brother-in-law are Roman Catholics.

Today Mrs. Nhu addresses the Women's National Press Club and tapes a radio program. She will be in Washington three days.

Tito Will Confer With Kennedy on Coexistence Plan

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Yugoslav President Tito flies to the United States today to continue his campaign to find a workable formula for peaceful coexistence.

Tito will confer with President Kennedy at the White House Thursday after a month-long vist to Brazil, Chile, Bolivia and Mexico.

The first chief of a European Communist state to visit Latin America, Tito carefully avoided peddling his independent brand of communism, according to aides accompanying him.

Instead, the 71-year-old wartime guerrilla leader discussed with Latin-American presidents two issues on which they share common views:

The need to consolidate peaceful relations among nations with no intervention by big—or little—powers in domestic affairs of other nations, and the need to find additional means to speed the economic progress of developing countries in Latin America, Asia and Africa.

Tito and Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos signed a joint communique Tuesday night recommending that an international code be drafted to give legal strength to the policy of peaceful relations.

They asked the United Nations to take steps to reach a general agreement on the principles of non-intervention and international law relating to cooperation among nations.

This is expected to be a major point in Tito's address to the U.N. General Assembly next week.

Tito, who received Soviet Premier Khrushchev for a two-week visit in Yugoslavia earlier this year, said he has no pretensions of serving as an intermediary between Khrushchev and President Kennedy. He said he would discuss international problems with Kennedy just as he did with the Soviet premier.

In Acapulco Tuesday night, Lopez Mateos hailed Tito's visit as "proof that peoples on different continents love peace and desire friendship."

The Mexican president gave Tito, his wife Jovanka and their party a tremendous Mexican fiesta.

Several thousand Mexicans lined the streets with torches to cheer the two presidents.

Tito was scheduled to land at

ALGIERS (AP) — Thousands of Algerians streamed into army barracks today in answer to President Ahmed Ben Bella's general mobilization decree to meet the threat of war with Morocco.

The mobilization decree was issued Tuesday night after more fighting in the disputed Sahara border region between Algeria and Morocco.

Ben Bella ordered all former soldiers — estimated to total 30,000—to report for army service. At the same time efforts continued to negotiate a settlement of the dispute.

Those who answered the mobilization call included numerous young volunteers carried away by the officially whipped-up war fever. Many were clearly too young ever to have fought against the French.

Algerian sources said Ben Bella's call to arms was answered "with spontaneous enthusiasm." Several thousand men reported at the former French Orleans barracks in Algiers.

The government-controlled press and radio aimed a steady

British Convoy Continues After Russian Stop

BERLIN (AP) — A British military convoy held on the Berlin Autobahn by the Russians today moved westward, a British spokesman announced.

That meant the British refused the Soviet demand for the British soldiers to dismount to be counted.

The convoy of nine vehicles, carrying 28 men, was stopped by the Soviets at Babelsberg, their checkpoint just outside Berlin where a U.S. convoy was blockaded last week.

It was kept waiting nine hours until the Russians gave up their insistence on men dismounting and lifted the barriers for it to proceed.

It was still a question whether the Russians would repeat their delaying tactics at Marienborn.

The British said the Soviet

Negro Leaders Uncertain In Birmingham Battle

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Negro leaders were reported uncertain today about what steps to take next in the continuing Birmingham battle over civil rights.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. met with Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth and local Negro leaders for almost five hours Tuesday. There were no public statements, but some local Negro leaders were said to have urged King to hold back a threatened demonstration campaign.

King drove to Selma, Ala., later to help stir support for a lagging voter registration campaign. He told Selma Negroes to be "ready to present your very bodies" in demonstrations, then drove to Montgomery where he caught a plane for Atlanta.

Other racial developments:

Orangeburg, S.C. — A student boycott of Negro public schools here ended Tuesday. The students had walked out last week to protest the firing of a teacher who participated in the city's desegregation campaign.

Gastonia, N.C. — About 250 Negroes marched on two segregated theaters here Tuesday for the third consecutive night of demonstrations. About 400 white spectators gathered on Gastonia's main street to watch as the spectators blocked traffic for some 20 minutes. Police said the crowd was more unruly than during the two other nights, but there were no arrests and no incidents.

Washington—The Justice Department has filed a suit seeking to prohibit Bay County, Fla., public schools from discriminating against the children of Negro servicemen.

New Orleans — Lawyers for the town of Clinton, La., asked the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals Tuesday to overturn an order that prevents a state court from enjoining Negroes against demonstrating in Clinton.

On Monday, the council approved in principle a proposal to allow use of local languages in place of Latin in parts of the Mass. The changes would be at the discretion of regional conferences of bishops.

The proposal is contained in the second chapter of a seven-chapter schema or topic on liturgy, or public worship.

J. Stanley Hoddy Retires From Industrial Post

J. Stanley Hoddy, prominent area civic and business leader, has retired as president of the Colorado Springs Emerson-Western Division of the Emerson Electric Manufacturing Co.

Civic and business leaders and members of the Emerson-Western Management Club were on hand to pay tribute to the man who founded the Universal Western Electric Co. here in 1948.

"Emerson Electric reluctantly accepts the decision of Mr. Hoddy to retire," Craig said. "Mr. Hoddy has shown a deep dedication to the growth of the plant and to the welfare of the people associated in the plant since he founded the business in 1948.

"We pay tribute to him not only as a leader, but as a great humanitarian dedicated to the best interests of his friends and associates and the community."

Hoddy's retirement comes after 33 years in the engineering

Record Number Of Job Holders Reported in State

DENVER (AP) — The balance in Colorado's unemployment compensation fund has dropped more than $6 million during the past year. It stands at $48,969,445 compared with $55,118,673 at the same time a year ago.

The Department of Employment made this announcement as it reported late Tuesday that a new all-time record had been set during September in the number of job holders within the state.

Bernard E. Teets, department director, said 746,160 Coloradoans were at work in September, including 90,835 on agricultural jobs.

Unemployment, he said, had dropped 2,500 from August to 23,650, or 3.1 per cent of the labor force.

September was the third consecutive month to eclipse the pre-1963 high for employment—734,960 set in September, 1962.

Fort Morgan had the best labor picture of any city in the state in September, with unemployment amounting to only .7 per cent of the potential workers. Walsenburg had the highest unemployment rate, 7.6 per cent.

Teets said unemployment benefits paid by his department last month totaled $961,683, a drop of 16.3 per cent from August and down 22.6 per cent from September, 1962.

His figures came in a regular monthly statement, which made no reference to charges by State Auditor John F. Proctor that the department may have paid out as much as $11 million on fraudulent claims during the past six years. Teets has vigorously disputed the estimate, which came from private auditors who studied 74 case records.

Drought, Woodland Fires Plague Wide U.S. Sections

Drought conditions in some areas in the eastern half of the nation appeared near the critical stage. Hundreds of fires burned in the tinder-dry forestlands in the Northeast and Midwest sections.

Summer's lush green pasture lands in much of the Western rangelands and in other areas were dry and brittle. Hay shortages were reported. There was a heavy decline in feed for livestock. Milk production sagged. Marketing of cattle was higher than normal for the season.

Water levels on most of the Great Lakes and many major rivers and streams were below seasonal levels. Water shortages developed in some communities and restrictions were ordered.

No accurate estimate of the damage the drought and fires have already caused in the past several weeks was available. But the Wabash Valley Association in Indiana said that drought damage in Southern Indiana and Southeastern Illinois alone may total between $35 million and $50 million.

There appeared no immediate, general break in the long dry, mild spell across much of the eastern half of the country. Record high temperatures have been set in scores of cities in the first half of October, with readings in the 90s and upper 80s.

However, some heavy thunderstorms erupted in the Central Plains and Mississippi Valley. Thunderstorms accompanied by lightning struck West Central Kansas with the first rain of consequence since Sept. 2. Lightning set fire to about a dozen homes in the four-hour storm which dumped 2.55 inches of rain on Hutchinson. All the fires were minor. Hail also fell, but little damage was reported.

New York Mirror Ends Publication; Finances Blamed

Ban on Orbiting Bombs Expected Thru U.N. Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Full support from the United States and the Soviet Union assured overwhelming U.N. approval today of a ban on orbiting nuclear weapons in space.

The 111-nation political committee called a special meeting to rush through a resolution sponsored by the United States, the Soviet Union and 15 other countries, outlawing nuclear-armed satellites. Committee adoption makes General Assembly passage a formality.

The resolution, first tangible Cold War breakthrough since the limited nuclear test-ban treaty, stems from an agreement announced Oct. 3 after talks here by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home.

All members of the 18-nation Geneva Disarmament Conference except France joined in sponsoring the proposal. France has boycotted the Geneva meetings.

The United States and the Soviet Union have conceded that the advantage of orbiting nuclear weapons in space is more psychological than military.

By CARL HARTMAN

BONN, Germany (AP)—Ludwig Erhard, who directed West Germany's miraculous postwar economic recovery, was elected chancellor today to succeed Konrad Adenauer.

Erhard needed 250 votes to win. His Christian Democrats were joined by their partners in the coalition government, the Free Democrats. The Socialists voted against him.

The chancellor will go before the Bundestag later today to take the oath of office. He will present his new Cabinet to President Heinrich Luebke Thursday.

Erhard has been economics minister throughout Adenauer's tenure as West Germany's only chancellor since the Federal Republic was created in 1949. Adenauer made no secret that he felt Erhard incapable of filling his shoes. He retired at 87 only under extreme pressure from other leaders of his party.

Erhard has promised to follow Adenauer's basic foreign

Volunteers Battle New York State Forest Blazes

LAKE GEORGE, N.Y. (AP)—They come from New York City, Albany, Syracuse, from Fort Edward, Clemons, Hadley and nearby farms—the hundreds of men and boys who, off and on, for more than a week have battled the flames eating into New York's vast and valuable forestlands.

These volunteers are engaged in a near-ceaseless effort to contain the fires cropping up in tinder-dry woods.

Today about 5 fires were reported burning in woodlands across the state. Showers were forecast for some areas but the Weather Bureau held out little prospect of a good soaking rain.

Some of the firefighters, including six teen-aged boys who had to hike for about 30 miles with scarcely a ride, slept on bare ground without blankets. When they could stand it no longer in the 30-degree temperature in the Adirondacks, they walked a mile to a house, where they were taken in.

Who comes to fight fires and why?

A professor in Albany telephoned the Conservation Department office near here to ask directions to fire-fighting headquarters at the foot of Spruce Mountain, 25 miles to the northeast.

Legal Counsel For Newcomer Wants to Quit

An attorney for the missing Joe W. Newcomer petitioned U. S. District Court in Denver Tuesday to withdraw as Newcomer's legal counsel.

He is C. Henry Roath of the firm Hindry, Erickson and Meyer of Denver. Roath has not appeared in court recently to represent Newcomer, according to Fred M. Betz Sr., trustee for the bankrupt Newcomer Finance Company here.

In the petition, Roath said repeated attempts have been made to contact Newcomer.

"All such attempts have been without success and the present whereabouts of Joe W. Newcomer are unknown," the petition stated.

Richard Luxford of Littleton, another court-appointed attorney for Newcomer when the case broke last April, has not been doing any work for the missing loan executive for some time.

Betz said today he continues to get mail for Newcomer but

Mobster Murders To Be Probed By Grand Juries

NEW YORK (AP) — Two grand juries in New York City were called into special sessions today to hear informer Joseph Valachi testify about at least 10 unsolved gangland murders.

District attorney's men have dragged out musty records of underworld executions in the Bronx dating back to 1930.

Queens Dist. Atty. Frank D. O'Connor especially wanted Valachi's testimony about the murder of Anthony Pisano and his blonde girl friend, Janice Drake, near LaGuardia field four years ago.

Valachi has mentioned that murder in his testimony at Senate Investigations subcommittee hearings in Washington.

Valachi's first appearance was scheduled before the Queens Grand Jury. There were indications that he would be questioned about other murders and various rackets in addition

Two Russian Cosmonauts Arrive in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Maj. Yuri Gagarin and Valentina Tereshkova, first man and only woman to orbit the earth, arrived Tuesday night by plane from Mexico City for a one-day visit.

The first question put to the Russian cosmonauts was about reports that Miss Tereshkova was engaged to cosmonaut Pavel Popovich.

"I'm not engaged," she said, "but when I get married you will definitely find out."

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP)— A declaration by Dwight D. Eisenhower that every man now being mentioned for the Republican presidential nomination is acceptable to him brought happy smiles today to the faces of Sen. Barry Goldwater's supporters.

The former president previously had expressed some puzzlement as to just where the Arizona senator, a leading contender for the GOP nomination, stood on some issues.

But, it was learned, Goldwater recently had a heart-to-heart talk with Eisenhower at Gettysburg, Pa.—a session which apparently went a considerable distance toward a meeting of minds.

Goldwater told a reporter that he informed Eisenhower that he would state his views fully on all issues if he formally enters the presidential nomination tourney.

"Every man should do that, whether he's running for precinct chairman or some higher office," Goldwater said. "Otherwise, in my view, he couldn't get elected."

At a festive 73rd birthday party Tuesday night, Eisenhower did not tap anyone for the presidential nomination.

But he said "Let us not concern ourselves too much with

Tiger Lady Finds No Red Carpet In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu brought her barnstorming defense of the South Vietnamese government to the capital today. There was no red carpet welcome.

Only a handful of reporters and a small delegation from the South Vietnamese Embassy were on hand Tuesday night when Mrs. Nhu and her teenage daughter, Le Thuy, stepped from a shuttle flight from Newark, N.J.

Mrs. Nhu, sister-in-law of Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem, has visited several Eastern cities in the past 10 days, defending the regime in which her husband is a powerful adviser. She intends to carry her case across the country.

Absent from the airport were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tran Van Chuong. Chuong, a Buddhist, quit last month as Vietnamese ambassador to the United States, protesting what he said were Diem's anti-Buddhist policies. He has become the spokesman outside the Southeast Asian country for political opposition to Diem's regime.

Mrs. Nhu converted to Catholicism upon her marriage. Her husband and brother-in-law are Roman Catholics.

Today Mrs. Nhu addresses the Women's National Press Club and tapes a radio program. She will be in Washington three days.

Tito Will Confer With Kennedy on Coexistence Plan

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Yugoslav President Tito flies to the United States today to continue his campaign to find a workable formula for peaceful coexistence.

Tito will confer with President Kennedy at the White House Thursday after a month-long vist to Brazil, Chile, Bolivia and Mexico.

The first chief of a European Communist state to visit Latin America, Tito carefully avoided peddling his independent brand of communism, according to aides accompanying him.

Instead, the 71-year-old wartime guerrilla leader discussed with Latin-American presidents two issues on which they share common views:

The need to consolidate peaceful relations among nations with no intervention by big—or little—powers in domestic affairs of other nations, and the need to find additional means to speed the economic progress of developing countries in Latin America, Asia and Africa.

Tito and Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos signed a joint communique Tuesday night recommending that an international code be drafted to give legal strength to the policy of peaceful relations.

They asked the United Nations to take steps to reach a general agreement on the principles of non-intervention and international law relating to cooperation among nations.

This is expected to be a major point in Tito's address to the U.N. General Assembly next week.

Tito, who received Soviet Premier Khrushchev for a two-week visit in Yugoslavia earlier this year, said he has no pretensions of serving as an intermediary between Khrushchev and President Kennedy. He said he would discuss international problems with Kennedy just as he did with the Soviet premier.

Several thousand Mexicans lined the streets with torches to cheer the two presidents.

Tito was scheduled to land at

ALGIERS (AP) — Thousands of Algerians streamed into army barracks today in answer to President Ahmed Ben Bella's general mobilization decree to meet the threat of war with Morocco.

The mobilization decree was issued Tuesday night after more fighting in the disputed Sahara border region between Algeria and Morocco.

Ben Bella ordered all former soldiers — estimated to total 30,000—to report for army service. At the same time efforts continued to negotiate a settlement of the dispute.

Those who answered the mobilization call included numerous young volunteers carried away by the officially whipped-up war fever. Many were clearly too young ever to have fought against the French.

Algerian sources said Ben Bella's call to arms was answered "with spontaneous enthusiasm." Several thousand men reported at the former French Orleans barracks in Algiers.

The government - controlled press and radio aimed a steady

British Convoy Continues After Russian Stop

BERLIN (AP) — A British military convoy held on the Berlin Autobahn by the Russians today moved westward, a British spokesman announced.

That meant the British refused the Soviet demand for the British soldiers to dismount to be counted.

The convoy of nine vehicles, carrying 28 men, was stopped by the Soviets at Babelsberg, their checkpoint just outside Berlin where a U.S. convoy was blockaded last week.

It was kept waiting nine hours until the Russians gave up their insistence on men dismounting and lifted the barriers for it to proceed.

It was still a question whether the Russians would repeat their delaying tactics at Marienborn.

The British said the Soviet

Negro Leaders Uncertain In Birmingham Battle

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Negro leaders were reported uncertain today about what steps to take next in the continuing Birmingham battle over civil rights.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. met with Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth and local Negro leaders for almost five hours Tuesday. There were no public statements, but some local Negro leaders were said to have urged King to hold back a threatened demonstration campaign.

King drove to Selma, Ala., later to help stir support for a lagging voter registration campaign. He told Selma Negroes to be "ready to present your very bodies" in demonstrations, then drove to Montgomery where he caught a plane for Atlanta.

Other racial developments:

Orangeburg, S.C. — A student boycott of Negro public schools here ended Tuesday. The students had walked out last week to protest the firing of a teacher who participated in the city's desegregation campaign.

Gastonia, N.C. — About 250 Negroes marched on two segregated theaters here Tuesday for the third consecutive night of demonstrations. About 400 white spectators gathered on Gastonia's main street to watch as the spectators blocked traffic for some 20 minutes. Police said the crowd was more unruly than during the two other nights, but there were no arrests and no incidents.

Washington—The Justice Department has filed a suit seeking to prohibit Bay County, Fla., public schools from discriminating against the children of Negro servicemen.

New Orleans — Lawyers for the town of Clinton, La., asked the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals Tuesday to overturn an order that prevents a state court from enjoining Negroes against demonstrating in Clinton.

Social Hygiene Taught in Schools

By LEE LINDER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The teacher spoke about the human body and told how babies are born.

Some of the junior high school pupils reddened, a bit embarrassed as they avoided the sly glances of their classmates. Others snickered. Most, however, took the subject seriously and listened intently.

What sex is taught to children 13 and older in segregated classes: Either all boys with a male teacher, or all girls with a female teacher.

The Philadelphia Board of Education has been teaching about "marriage problems and social hygiene"—a more high-sounding description of sex — for more than 25 years.

Teachers don't preach, they describe. They don't moralize or condemn. They don't advise or suggest, they tell children who want personal answers to personal questions—which teachers can't handle under state school laws—to see their parents, clergymen or doctors.

"We try to develop an attitude so youngsters will make up their own mind," says Benjamin L. Stackowski, director of the division of physical and health education.

"We show how pre-marital relationships have affected other children, how adolescents are physically capable of reproduction but economically or socially unready.

"We do not put stress on the anatomy. We describe the human body and its functions. In some classes the emphasis may be on different topics. The dangers of venereal disease, for instance, would receive much more emphasis in those areas of the city where it is more prevalent."

"It is natural for you to be attracted to girls. If you are what you should be, this attraction will probably be shared by the girls. A reasonable amount of companionship with the opposite sex is mutually beneficial.

"Exaggerated interest in sex and sex organs is unhealthy, distracting from serious effort, and unnatural. It shows lack of self-discipline, a trait necessary in the training of good character."

Girls get about the same pitch with this added admonition:

"In selecting boy companions, try to choose those of whom your parents would approve, so that it will be possible for you to entertain them at home. It is undignified and in poor taste to have dates on street corners."

Dorothy R. McQueen, Stackowski's assistant, says full discussion of marriage problems formerly was confined to the senior high classes—with pupils generally 17 and 18—"but we have found this age level is too late."

The health education course, last revised in 1950, is being reviewed so younger boys and girls can be reached.

Philadelphia public school pupils get hygiene once a week, for 45 minutes. Sex is only part of the course. They also are taught about foods, diet, first aid, exercise, community health.

Puebloan Plans Second Book on Bridey Murphey

By BOB LLOYD

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Remember Bridey Murphy?

Many people do, although whether this particular Bridey Murphy ever lived outside the dreams of a Colorado housewife under hypnosis is a matter for considerable argument.

Morey Bernstein, Pueblo businessman, student of parapsychology and author, insists she did. He said Bridey will be reborn again next year—in print.

Bernstein, who wrote "The Search for Bridey Murphy" nine years ago, said his new book will prove that Bridey was not a hoax and will supply new evidence for his contention that man's consciousness survives death.

Bernstein's long preoccupation with Bridey began in 1952 when a friend, Mrs. Hugh B. Tighe, agreed at a party to let him hypnotize her. Bernstein had been experimenting with hypnosis for 10 years before that.

While in deep hypnosis, Mrs. Tighe began describing in detail episodes in the life of Bridey Kathleen Murphy, including that she was born in Cork in 1789 and died in Belfast in 1864. As she lay as though in sleep and talked, Mrs. Tighe's speech and mannerisms were those of an Irish girl of little education.

Bernstein wrote his book on the basis of this and later sessions with Mrs. Tighe, who appeared in the book as "Ruth Simmons." He said the book was published in 30 countries with 205,000 hard-cover copies and 775,000 paperbacks. It was made into a movie.

He gets more than 1,000 letters a year concerning Bridey and the subject of reincarnation.

Mrs. Tighe, who lives now in a Denver suburb with her husband and three daughters, made it clear she would just as soon forget all about Bridey Murphy.

She said she's had nothing to do with hypnosis since the experiments with Bernstein during which, armed with a tape recorder, he hypnotized her six to eight times over a period of 11 months. Each time Mrs. Tighe assumed the role of Bridey Murphy.

She and her husband were appalled by the amount of publicity resulting from the book. "It was a real nightmare for a time," Mrs. Tighe said. She still gets indignant over reports she and Bernstein cooked up the Bridey Murphy thing as a means of making money.

She was paid a small royalty from the book sales, she said.

Asked if she believes that under hypnosis, her subconscious mirrored actual events in the life of an Irish girl named Bridey Murphy, Mrs. Tighe said, I'm not unsold—I have an open mind about that."

Neither Mrs. Tighe nor Bernstein had been to Ireland.

Bernstein said his new book "will be a counterattack at all levels—the hoax matter, the so-called scientific charges, the psychiatrists."

Editors Continue Study of News For U.S. Public

By The Associated Press

The roar of basement presses is only a distant rumble as it drifts up to the third-floor newsroom of a medium-sized Midwest newspaper. The last press run is well under way and the newsroom is almost deserted. Most of the editors, writers and reporters, who fed thousands of words to the churning presses below, have gone home.

But the light hasn't been turned off in the managing editor's office. Before this executive — a man intimately connected with the news published in his newspaper — are spread copies of the day's Associated Press news stories. He studies and analyzes them with deep interest.

A major integration development is the day's big story. Many questions run through the managing editor's mind as he pores over the news service's report:

Were the developments thoroughly backgrounded, explained so his readers could readily grasp their import? Was the writing of the finest quality? Were stories handled fairly, without bias?

This editor is a member of the continuing study committee of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association (APME), an advisory group that keeps AP in close contact with its members. He is a professional appraising the work of professionals — one of 178 newspaper executives in every section of the country assigned by APME to study the AP daily news report.

As an active continuing study committee member he is in regular communication by mail, wire and telephone with the chairman of his particular APME committee, as well as with executives of the news cooperative in New York.

He may forward comment on AP's coverage of a particular news event, a suggestion for a story or for a background piece he feels would help newspaper readers to understand a news development better.

In addition, the comments from the many committeemen are assembled into annual APME reports by the various committee chairmen — an appraisal of the performance of the various news departments of the AP throughout the year.

The volunteer work by this editor and scores like him gives the AP the advantage of the judgment and thinking of top newspapermen throughout the country to supplement that of its own experienced staff and news executives.

Detailed studies of the AP's news reports have been carried out many years by the APME, which this year observes its 30th anniversary. APME's first meeting as a permanent organization was held at French Lick, Ind., Oct. 26-27, 1933.

Nine continuing study committees operated in 1963, with a record number of managing editors participating.

Seven of the committees observed the AP news and newsphoto reports. They were divided into these categories: general news, newsphotos, sports, writing, news enterprise, state studies and member citations. Member citations are awarded annually to those member newspapers and broadcast stations which give the AP outstanding cooperation in the coverage of news and newsphotos originating in their areas.

Two committees dealt with newspaper problems in the specific areas of freedom of information (any attempts at censorship or curtailment of newspapering opportunities) and journalism research (technical and personnel problems.).

The committee reports for 1963 have all been completed by the managing editors and next month, Nov. 12-16, at Miami, APME members will meet in their annual convention.

Final reports of committees and an account on the convention, itself, will be printed in the annual APME Redbook for general distribution to AP members, journalism schools and others.

Social Hygiene Taught in Schools

By LEE LINDER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The teacher spoke about the human body and told how babies are born.

Some of the junior high school pupils reddened, a bit embarrassed as they avoided the sly glances of their classmates. Others snickered. Most, however, took the subject seriously and listened intently.

What sex is taught to children 13 and older in segregated classes: Either all boys with a male teacher, or all girls with a female teacher.

The Philadelphia Board of Education has been teaching about "marriage problems and social hygiene"—a more high-sounding description of sex — for more than 25 years.

Teachers don't preach, they describe. They don't moralize or condemn. They don't advise or suggest, they tell children who want personal answers to personal questions—which teachers can't handle under state school laws—to see their parents, clergymen or doctors.

"We try to develop an attitude so youngsters will make up their own mind," says Benjamin L. Stackowski, director of the division of physical and health education.

"We show how pre-marital relationships have affected other children, how adolescents are physically capable of reproduction but economically or socially unready.

"We do not put stress on the anatomy. We describe the human body and its functions. In some classes the emphasis may be on different topics. The dangers of venereal disease, for instance, would receive much more emphasis in those areas of the city where it is more prevalent."

"It is natural for you to be attracted to girls. If you are what you should be, this attraction will probably be shared by the girls. A reasonable amount of companionship with the opposite sex is mutually beneficial.

"Exaggerated interest in sex and sex organs is unhealthy, distreating from serious effort, and unnatural. It shows lack of self-discipline, a trait necessary in the training of good character."

Girls get about the same pitch with this added admonition:

"In selecting boy companions, try to choose those of whom your parents would approve, so that it will be possible for you to entertain them at home. It is undignified and in poor taste to have dates on street corners."

Dorothy R. McQueen, Stackowski's assistant, says full discussion of marriage problems formerly was confined to the senior high classes—with pupils generally 17 and 18—"but we have found this age level is too late."

The health education course, last revised in 1950, is being reviewed so younger boys and girls can be reached.

Philadelphia public school pupils get hygiene once a week, for 45 minutes. Sex is only part of the course. They also are taught about foods, diet, first aid, exercise, community health.

Puebloan Plans Second Book on Bridey Murphey

By BOB LLOYD

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Remember Bridey Murphy?

Many people do, although whether this particular Bridey Murphy ever lived outside the dreams of a Colorado housewife under hypnosis is a matter for considerable argument.

Morey Bernstein, Pueblo businessman, student of parapsychology and author, insists she did. He said Bridey will be reborn again next year—in print.

Bernstein, who wrote "The Search for Bridey Murphy" nine years ago, said his new book will prove that Bridey was not a hoax and will supply new evidence for his contention that man's consciousness survives death.

Bernstein's long preoccupation with Bridey began in 1952 when a friend, Mrs. Hugh B. Tighe, agreed at a party to let him hypnotize her. Bernstein had been experimenting with hypnosis for 10 years before that.

While in deep hypnosis, Mrs. Tighe began describing in detail episodes in the life of Bridey Kathleen Murphy, including that she was born in Cork in 1789 and died in Belfast in 1864. As she lay as though in sleep and talked, Mrs. Tighe's speech and mannerisms were those of an Irish girl of little education.

Bernstein wrote his book on the basis of this and later sessions with Mrs. Tighe, who appeared in the book as "Ruth Simmons." He said the book was published in 30 countries with 205,000 hard-cover copies and 775,000 paperbacks. It was made into a movie.

He gets more than 1,000 letters a year concerning Bridey and the subject of reincarnation.

Mrs. Tighe, who lives now in a Denver suburb with her husband and three daughters, made it clear she would just as soon forget all about Bridey Murphy.

She said she's had nothing to do with hypnosis since the experiments with Bernstein during which, armed with a tape recorder, he hypnotized her six to eight times over a period of 11 months. Each time Mrs. Tighe assumed the role of Bridey Murphy.

She and her husband were appalled by the amount of publicity resulting from the book. "It was a real nightmare for a time," Mrs. Tighe said. She still gets indignant over reports she and Bernstein cooked up the Bridey Murphy thing as a means of making money.

She was paid a small royalty from the book sales, she said.

Asked if she believes that under hypnosis, her subconscious mirrored actual events in the life of an Irish girl named Bridey Murphy, Mrs. Tighe said, I'm not unsold—I have an open mind about that."

Neither Mrs. Tighe nor Bernstein had been to Ireland.

Bernstein said his new book "will be a counterattack at all levels—the hoax matter, the so-called scientific charges, the psychiatrists."

Editors Continue Study of News For U.S. Public

By The Associated Press

The roar of basement presses is only a distant rumble as it drifts up to the third-floor newsroom of a medium-sized Midwest newspaper. The last press run is well under way and the newsroom is almost deserted. Most of the editors, writers and reporters, who fed thousands of words to the churning presses below, have gone home.

But the light hasn't been turned off in the managing editor's office. Before this executive — a man intimately connected with the news published in his newspaper — are spread copies of the day's Associated Press news stories. He studies and analyzes them with deep interest.

A major integration development is the day's big story. Many questions run through the managing editor's mind as he pores over the news service's report:

Were the developments thoroughly backgrounded, explained so his readers could readily grasp their import? Was the writing of the finest quality? Were stories handled fairly, without bias?

This editor is a member of the continuing study committee of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association (APME), an advisory group that keeps AP in close contact with its members. He is a professional appraising the work of professionals — one of 178 newspaper executives in every section of the country assigned by APME to study the AP daily news report.

As an active continuing study committee member he is in regular communication by mail, wire and telephone with the chairman of his particular APME committee, as well as with executives of the news cooperative in New York.

He may forward comment on AP's coverage of a particular news event, a suggestion for a story or for a background piece he feels would help newspaper readers to understand a news development better.

In addition, the comments from the many committeemen are assembled into annual APME reports by the various committee chairmen — an appraisal of the performance of the various news departments of the AP throughout the year.

The volunteer work by this editor and scores like him gives the AP the advantage of the judgment and thinking of top newspapermen throughout the country to supplement that of its own experienced staff and news executives.

Ike and Rocky Reported to Be in Cahoots

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International

It doesn't take much imagination to suspect that Ike and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller were in cahoots in last week's presidential political maneuvers.

In an interview, former President Eisenhower said of Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.):

"I think that before he can be considered a truly serious candidate (for President) he has to do his best to make his views clear."

This comment could not be regarded as a loud Eisenhower cheer for Barry Goldwater. On the contrary, it seemed more a challenge to the senator's presidential candidacy.

Rockefeller's move was quickly to invite Goldwater to meet him in television debate, an invitation the senator dodged instantly. Goldwater argues that top Republicans should be debating with the New Frontiersmen and not with each other.

The governor argues that such a debate would lead toward a Republican consensus on principles and their application. He argues further that Goldwater is mistaken in believing that debate among Republicans would be divisive.

Goldwater's avoidance of the television debate was in language which left open the question whether he and Rockefeller should engage in debate if both were avowed presidential candidates. To refuse to debate under those circumstances would be a quibble since both men are likely to be in head-on collision next March in the New Hampshire presidential primary.

Put it down in your future book, therefore, that there will be a Rockefeller - Goldwater television debate in the pre-convention period unless one or both of them withdraws. It would be a good idea, too, for Goldwater to say as much and to say it soon.

This refusal to accept straight off Rockefeller's invitation to debate does not blend well with the Goldwater image currently prevailing. The Goldwater for whom a great many of his fellow citizens are whooping it up—the Goldwater who leads the popularity polls—is a handsome, fighter pilot type, always smiling, never taking himself too seriously, and afraid not of the devil himself.

That Goldwater — the fighter pilot—would have seized Rocky's hand if he had been challenged to television debate, and he would have dragged the governor to the nearest TV camera, there to demolish him.

That is what the Goldwater-for-President buckaroos expect their hero to do to John F. Kennedy in the presidential campaign. That is what they expect their boy to do to Rockefeller and all other soft-boiled Republicans who may stand in the way of the senator's presidential nomination.

And Goldwater can't begin doing that too soon for the delight and satisfaction of his followers. So, say it ain't so, Barry; that you are not running away from a TV debate with Rockefeller but, merely, are putting the debate with Rocky on ice against some appropriate occasion.

The old pros will be wondering who is masterminding the stop - Goldwater maneuvers. That is, who dreamed up the idea that Ike should suggest a clarification of Goldwater's views to be followed by Rocky with an invitation to television debate. Thomas E. Dewey, maybe, or Henry Cabot Lodge!

Driver Found Not Guilty Of Taking Right of Way

McConnel had been cited Sept. 29 by Patrolman James Hermansen at the scene of a two-car accident at Wood Avenue and Tyler Street.

McConnel, driving south on Wood Avenue, said he was almost out of the intersection before he saw a car coming east on Tyler Street. He said he thought the car would stop but realizing it wasn't, tried to avoid a collision.

Judge Allan Asher reminded McConnel that it was his obligation to yield to a car on the right but said he thought the other driver should have been more cautious in approaching "the zone of danger."

A careless driving charge against Quentin Cervin, 20, 2919 W. Colorado Ave., was reduced to speeding, and a $15 fine levied. Cervin pleaded guilty to a speeding charge and received an additional $15 fine.

Charges of careless driving and riotous conduct were dismissed against Leo J. Reining, 55, 1232 N. Weber St.

Two persons failed to appear in court on drunk charges and their $25 bonds were ordered forfeited. They were Edna Adams, 39, 9 El Paso Blvd., Manitou Springs, and Silver Valesquez, 221 S. Wahsatch Ave.

Cortez Mitchell, 54, 516 S. Wahsatch Ave., pleaded guilty to charges of breach of peace and drunkennes brought against him by his sister Margaret Jackson, and received fines totaling $50.

James Isom, 21, of New Orleans, pleaded not guilty to a vagrancy charge but Judge Asher handed down a guilty finding and imposed a 15-day jail sentence which he also suspended.

Harry Stamp, 43, 2422 W. Vermijo St., pleaded guilty to a drunk charge and was fined $25.

Leo Hoffman, 45, 1204 Franklin St., also pleaded guilty to a drunk charge. When Judge Asher asked him how long it had been since he had been in court last, Hoffman said "last week," adding he had been given a 10-day jail sentence.

"It didn't do you any good," the judge said, and doubled the previous term in jail.

A Florence man, Nicholas Ayala, 28, who on Monday pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge and was given a 30-day jail sentence, was represented by attorney James Moyers.

Moyers moved for a suspension of the sentence which the judge agreed to, after Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac said he had no objections if the man would follow a plan prescribed by the judge.

Judge Asher said the sentence would be suspended if Ayala would bring in a recommendation from his family physician, and if this called for medical treatment, that he supply the court with a monthly record. He cautioned Ayala that if he did not comply with this plan, the sentence would be reinstated. Ayala agreed to the plan and the judge suspended the sentence.

The prelates voted 2,133 to 19 to allow some vernacular tongues in parts of the sacraments of matrimony, holy orders, extreme unction, penance, confirmation and baptism.

They voted 2,143 to 35 to change the name of extreme unction to "anointing of the sick" to emphasize that the sacrament is not only for the dying but also for the seriously ill.

They agreed 2,058 to 42 to allow mass baptisms. Now the Roman Catholic baptism formula is said only for one person.

By a vote of 2,224 to 12 they clarified the difference between the sacraments, which are believed to give grace, and sacramentals, which are outward signs of spirituality such as holy water and blessing.

The entire third chapter, as amended, will be voted on next week.

The rest of this week will be devoted to discussion and votes on other chapters in the schema. When all seven have been approved, Pope Paul VI and the full council must promulgate the document before the changes can be put into effect.

Drought, Woodland Fires Plague Wide U.S. Sections

Northeast reporting the 40s and 50s. Elsewhere, the 60s were common with some 70s in the South.

Hundreds of fires have burned thousands of acres of forestland in more than a dozen states. New York state's vast and valuable forestlands appeared hardest hit. But fires also spread across other areas in the Northeast, including Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Flames also whipped through wooded areas in West Virginia, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Kentucky, Tennessee and Texas.

In Michigan, Gov. George Romney's ban on fires in forests, fields and woodlands goes into effect today, the first such statewide order in 17 years. Fire danger was rated very high, and "explosive" in a few areas.

In Pennsylvania, Gov. William W. Scranton banned smoking and campfires in state forests. Nearly 200 forest fires have been reported in the state in October.

Some of the nation's biggest rivers were at or near record low levels. Included were Pennsylvania's three major river systems, the Allegheny-Monongahela-Ohio, the Susquehanna and the Delaware. Lower water levels also have curtailed the barge traffic on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

In Texas, the lack of soil moisture gave distress to both farmers and stockmen. Hay and pasture supplies were reported 20 per cent normal for the season.

Ohio has not had measureable rain for 33 days. Oklahoma reported the driest year since 1956. In West Virginia, the small game hunting season ends today because of the fire hazard in forest lands with a total of 90 fires reported.

a period of months," a spokesman said.

Other effects of the strike may not be felt for some time by most of the installation's white collar workers.

"When we start being unable to take care of the little repair jobs and the maintenance that piles up, or when we begin hunting for equipment, that's when it will begin to hurt most," said one scientist.

The strikers are members of the Atomic Trades and Labor Council. They seek a 28-cent hourly wage increase, plus bonus payments for Saturday and Sunday work and improvements in a medical plan.

Union Carbide Nuclear Co., which operates the facilities for the Atomic Energy Commission, has offered a 7-cent boost and proposed that the company and union split costs of an improved medical program.

Besides the national laboratory plant Y-12 where components for nuclear weapons are produced is involved. The laboratory is concerned primarily with nuclear research and production of radioactive isotopes.

At a third facility, the gaseous diffusion plant, 1,300 members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, AFL-CIO, have turned their wage dispute over to the AEC labor relations panel.

The union seeks an 18-cent hourly increase; Union Carbide has offered 8 cents, plus medical plan improvements.

New York Mirror Ends Publication; Finances Blamed

editor of the Mirror, "we would have done it. Most holes have a bottom, but this one did not seem to have any."

The Mirror's last edition rolled off the presses at 2:17 a.m. today.

The knell had been rumored for months. But Tuesday, said a veteran Mirror newsman, the rumors got stronger. "You could feel it in your bones," he said.

The Mirror had a daily circulation of about 882,000, second only to the Daily News' national high of nearly 2 million.

Despite rumors that the Mirror would fold, the confirming announcement stunned the paper's employes.

Wilfred Alexander, president of the AFL-CIO American Newspaper Guild's New York local and shop steward of the union's Mirror unit, read the announcement to 75 editorial employes in the city room. He criticized what he termed the "callous and cold-blooded way this was kept from you."

About 1,400 employes lost their jobs. The Mirror said it will distribute in excess of $3.5 million in severance pay to them and set up an employment office to help them find new jobs.

Walter Winchell and at least a half-dozen other Mirror columnists will appear in the afternoon New York Journal-American, also owned by the Hearst Corp.

The Hearst Corp. said in announcing the Mirror's sale, "The name, goodwill and other intangible and physical assets of the Mirror have been sold to the New York News."

No purchase price was disclosed.

"The circumstances which forced the Hearst Corp. reluctantly to take this step are the same that have necessitated the discontinuance of so many other good newspapers all over the country," the announcement said.

"Costs have risen far in excess of revenues and have created substantial deficits over an extended period of time. The recent prolonged newspaper strike aggravated the already serious problems of the Mirror."

Last January, a month after the start of the city's 114-day newspaper blackout, Mirror Publisher Charles B. McCabe answered rumors of the paper's faltering condition by saying it "will be around for a long time." The blackout lasted until April 1.

At 1:25 a.m., less than an hour before the Mirror's presses began rolling for the last time, Night Editor Mortimer Ehrma shook hands with a dozen persons around him and said, "Well good night boys."

Thomas J. Murphy, executive vice president of the New York Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, charged that the Mirror was deliberately killed by its rival morning tabloid, the Daily News to end their competition. He demanded a U.S. Justice Department investigation of what he called an apparent violation of antimonopoly laws.

The News had no immediate comment on the charge.

Elmer F. Brown, president of the International Typographical Union, said Tuesday night that la styear's ITU strike "had absolutely nothing to do" with the closing of the New York Mirror.

Death was caused by compound fractures of the skull and brain injury.

Later, he goes before the grand jury in the Bronx, where information on at least nine murders was sought. Dist. Atty. Isidore Dollinger has updated his files on the basis of information supplied by Valachi in Washington.

Extraordinary measures were taken to protect Valachi, who reportedly has an underworld price of $100,000 on his head.

Federal agents, city detectives and uniformed police were ordered posted in and around the court buildings, in streets and on roofs.

Valachi is expected to be taken back to Washington tonight. Dist. Atty. William Cahn of Nassau County hopes to talk with the informer Thursday in Washington about murders on Long Island. Aaron E. Koota, chief assistant district attorney of Brooklyn, plans to interview Valachi Friday about murders and gang warfare in Brooklyn.

supervisor, Robert E. Richards, asked why he wanted to come. The professor replied that he loved the Adirondacks.

Some come for the excitement others to save property. It's hard work and there is plenty of confusion.

One group, armed to fight a fire, missed it and walked right by to the next hamlet.

The volunteers are paid 55 cents an hour. They generally work a 12-hour shift. Some leave after one stint. Others want to stay. Since the state has no shelter for them, they must go elsewhere or sleep on the ground. Most have transportation of their own.

Testimony Begins in Personal Injury Suit

Testimony was begun Tuesday in a $23,169 personal injury suit brought against the American Finance Corp. by Olinda Kraus.

The plaintiff alleges that while she was a customer of the defendant she was invited by an officer of the corporation to go to the rear of the building, and while following the directions of the officer, fell on a freshly waxed floor and was injured.

McConnel had been cited Sept. 29 by Patrolman James Hermansen at the scene of a two-car accident at Wood Avenue and Tyler Street.

McConnel, driving south on Wood Avenue, said he was almost out of the intersection before he saw a car coming east on Tyler Street. He said he thought the car would stop but realizing it wasn't, tried to avoid a collision.

Judge Allan Asher reminded McConnel that it was his obligation to yield to a car on the right but said he thought the other driver should have been more cautious in approaching "the zone of danger."

A careless driving charge against Quentin Cervin, 20, 2919 W. Colorado Ave., was reduced to speeding, and a $15 fine levied. Cervin pleaded guilty to a speeding charge and received an additional $15 fine.

Charges of careless driving and riotous conduct were dismissed against Leo J. Reining, 55, 1232 N. Weber St.

Two persons failed to appear in court on drunk charges and their $25 bonds were ordered forfeited. They were Edna Adams, 39, 9 El Paso Blvd., Manitou Springs, and Silver Valesquez, 221 S. Wahsatch Ave.

Cortez Mitchell, 54, 516 S. Wahsatch Ave., pleaded guilty to charges of breach of peace and drunkennes brought against him by his sister Margaret Jackson, and received fines totaling $50.

James Isom, 21, of New Orleans, pleaded not guilty to a vagrancy charge but Judge Asher handed down a guilty finding and imposed a 15-day jail sentence which he also suspended.

Harry Stamp, 43, 2422 W. Vermijo St., pleaded guilty to a drunk charge and was fined $25.

Leo Hoffman, 45, 1204 Franklin St., also pleaded guilty to a drunk charge. When Judge Asher asked him how long it had been since he had been in court last, Hoffman said "last week," adding he had been given a 10-day jail sentence.

"It didn't do you any good," the judge said, and doubled the previous term in jail.

A Florence man, Nicholas Ayala, 28, who on Monday pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge and was given a 30-day jail sentence, was represented by attorney James Moyers.

Moyers moved for a suspension of the sentence which the judge agreed to, after Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac said he had no objections if the man would follow a plan prescribed by the judge.

Judge Asher said the sentence would be suspended if Ayala would bring in a recommendation from his family physician, and if this called for medical treatment, that he supply the court with a monthly record. He cautioned Ayala that if he did not comply with this plan, the sentence would be reinstated. Ayala agreed to the plan and the judge suspended the sentence.

They are all in favor, he said, of strengthened alliances abroad and sound, pay-as-you-go policies at home. And those, he said are the things that count.

ments Tuesday to the third chapter of the schema.

The prelates voted 2,133 to 19 to allow some vernacular tongues in parts of the sacraments of matrimony, holy orders, extreme unction, penance, confirmation and baptism.

They voted 2,143 to 35 to change the name of extreme unction to "anointing of the sick" to emphasize that the sacrament is not only for the dying but also for the seriously ill.

They agreed 2,058 to 42 to allow mass baptisms. Now the Roman Catholic baptism formula is said only for one person.

By a vote of 2,224 to 12 they clarified the difference between the sacraments, which are believed to give grace, and sacramentals, which are outward signs of spirituality such as holy water and blessing.

The entire third chapter, as amended, will be voted on next week.

The rest of this week will be devoted to discussion and votes on other chapters in the schema. When all seven have been approved, Pope Paul VI and the full council must promulgate the document before the changes can be put into effect.

Drought, Woodland Fires Plague Wide U.S. Sections

Northeast reporting the 40s and 50s. Elsewhere, the 60s were common with some 70s in the South.

Hundreds of fires have burned thousands of acres of forestland in more than a dozen states. New York state's vast and valuable forestlands appeared hardest hit. But fires also spread across other areas in the Northeast, including Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Flames also whipped through wooded areas in West Virginia, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Kentucky, Tennessee and Texas.

In Michigan, Gov. George Romney's ban on fires in forests, fields and woodlands goes into effect today, the first such statewide order in 17 years. Fire danger was rated very high, and "explosive" in a few areas.

In Pennsylvania, Gov. William W. Scranton banned smoking and campfires in state forests. Nearly 200 forest fires have been reported in the state in October.

Some of the nation's biggest rivers were at or near record low levels. Included were Pennsylvania's three major river systems, the Allegheny-Monongahela-Ohio, the Susquehanna and the Delaware. Lower water levels also have curtailed the barge traffic on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

In Texas, the lack of soil moisture gave distress to both farmers and stockmen. Hay and pasture supplies were reported 20 per cent normal for the season.

Ohio has not had measureable rain for 33 days. Oklahoma reported the driest year since 1956. In West Virginia, the small game hunting season ends today because of the fire hazard in forest lands with a total of 90 fires reported.

Nuclear Weapons Are Curtailed by Oak Ridge Strike

a period of months," a spokesman said.

Other effects of the strike may not be felt for some time by most of the installation's white collar workers.

"When we start being unable to take care of the little repair jobs and the maintenance that piles up, or when we begin hunting for equipment, that's when it will begin to hurt most," said one scientist.

The strikers are members of the Atomic Trades and Labor Council. They seek a 28-cent hourly wage increase, plus bonus payments for Saturday and Sunday work and improvements in a medical plan.

Union Carbide Nuclear Co., which operates the facilities for the Atomic Energy Commission, has offered a 7-cent boost and proposed that the company and union split costs of an improved medical program.

Besides the national laboratory plant Y-12 where components for nuclear weapons are produced is involved. The laboratory is concerned primarily with nuclear research and production of radioactive isotopes.

At a third facility, the gaseous diffusion plant, 1,300 members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, AFL-CIO, have turned their wage dispute over to the AEC labor relations panel.

The union seeks an 18-cent hourly increase; Union Carbide has offered 8 cents, plus medical plan improvements.

blockade was deliberate and protested vigorously. The U.S. State Department had suggested the American convoy was held up by confusion at the local level.

The halting of the convoy did not interfere with civilian traffic on the 110-mile autobahn between Berlin and West Germany.

Morse Services Held Today At Ft. Carson

Memorial services were held this morning in Ft. Carson Chapel 3 for Pfc. George K. Morse of Company C, 2nd Battalion, 10th Infantry. Funeral arrangements are indefinite.

The 26 - year - old mountain training team leader died from injuries suffered in a fall while training in North Cheyenne Canon. The accident happened at 10 a.m. Monday, and is being investigated by military police.

Morse was dead on arrival at the Carson U.S. Army Hospital where he was rushed by an Army ambulance.

He joined the 5th Infantry Division at Ft. Carson in April, 1962, and was a Marine Corps reservist before coming on active duty with the Army.

The young soldier is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Morse, 1359 Palm Circle, Jacksonville Beach, Fla., and daughters, Mystie, age 3, and Venetia, age 2, of Jacksonville. He was an office manager in civilian life and attended Jacksonville Junior College.

Preliminary investigation indicates that Morse was in a suspension traverse position on the cable which is stretched across the demonstration area. He was demonstrating how to rescue an injured person and was apparently traveling too fast and struck a rock or tree at the base of the slope where the cable is attached.

Death was caused by compound fractures of the skull and brain injury.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four Republican congressmen believe that Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito's visit to the United States is "a great victory for communism."

New York Mirror Ends Publication; Finances Blamed

editor of the Mirror, "we would have done it. Most holes have a bottom, but this one did not seem to have any."

The Mirror's last edition rolled off the presses at 2:17 a.m. today.

The knell had been rumored for months. But Tuesday, said a veteran Mirror newsman, the rumors got stronger. "You could feel it in your bones," he said.

The Mirror had a daily circulation of about 882,000, second only to the Daily News' national high of nearly 2 million.

Despite rumors that the Mirror would fold, the confirming announcement stunned the paper's employes.

Wilfred Alexander, president of the AFL-CIO American Newspaper Guild's New York local and shop steward of the union's Mirror unit, read the announcement to 75 editorial employes in the city room. He criticized what he termed the "callous and cold-blooded way this was kept from you."

About 1,400 employes lost their jobs. The Mirror said it will distribute in excess of $3.5 million in severance pay to them and set up an employment office to help them find new jobs.

Walter Winchell and at least a half-dozen other Mirror columnists will appear in the afternoon New York Journal-American, also owned by the Hearst Corp.

The Hearst Corp. said in announcing the Mirror's sale, "The name, goodwill and other intangible and physical assets of the Mirror have been sold to the New York News."

No purchase price was disclosed.

"The circumstances which forced the Hearst Corp. reluctantly to take this step are the same that have necessitated the discontinuance of so many other good newspapers all over the country," the announcement said.

"Costs have risen far in excess of revenues and have created substantial deficits over an extended period of time. The recent prolonged newspaper strike aggravated the already serious problems of the Mirror."

Last January, a month after the start of the city's 114-day newspaper blackout, Mirror Publisher Charles B. McCabe answered rumors of the paper's faltering condition by saying it "will be around for a long time." The blackout lasted until April 1.

At 1:25 a.m., less than an hour before the Mirror's presses began rolling for the last time, Night Editor Mortimer Ehrma shook hands with a dozen persons around him and said, "Well good night boys."

Thomas J. Murphy, executive vice president of the New York Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, charged that the Mirror was deliberately killed by its rival morning tabloid, the Daily News to end their competition. He demanded a U.S. Justice Department investigation of what he called an apparent violation of antimonopoly laws.

The News had no immediate comment on the charge.

Elmer F. Brown, president of the International Typographical Union, said Tuesday night that la styear's ITU strike "had absolutely nothing to do" with the closing of the New York Mirror.

GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Because of Democracy

There is a kind of argument very much in vogue these days. It runs like this: "Naturally, since every person in a democracy benefits from living in a democratic community, it is right for the state to provide tax-supported ——— paid for by everybody." You can fill in the blank yourself.

We have seen this blank filled in with various words, as follows: schools, hospitals, cemeteries, golf courses, roads, postal service, police protection, swimming pools, jobs, pensions, guidance, medical service, research, housing, hot lunches, libraries, parks, playgrounds, sports, amusements, banking services, and so on and on.

Then, to clinch the argument the situation will be summed up as follows: "The case is clear that nobody in a democracy has a legitimate objection to ——— taxes." The word to be inserted in the blank here is supposed to correspond to the same word used above. And there you have it. The basic argument for any and all kinds of socialism.

Now, all that socialism is, is a theory respecting ethics, economics and politics. Ethically speaking, socialism contends that the highest good is found when we seek to evaluate the good on the basis of what is good for the "group." Economically speaking, socialism contends that the "group" can plan expenditures better than the individual since the "group" is bound to be more objective than any individual. Hence, central planning and "group" control are called upon to replace individual planning and individual contol of resources, even tho they may be privately owned.

Finally, in politics, socialism contends that force can be and should be applied to compel conformity where the "good" of the group is involved and where the money is to be obtained for the "good" of the group. Thus, in every particular, the foregoing sentences fall into the pattern of pure socialism.

Curiously, the statements we have quoted above are not simply a generalization supplied from memory. They were culled from a column written by one of our own columnists, a man who is supposed to be a staunch anti-socialist. All that inspired them was a failure on the part of our own columnist to come to grips with the socialist ideology concerning which he is supposed to be an expert.

In a given case, he thought he saw a justification for socialism. Our contention is that to defeat socialism one must be absolutely consistent and reject socialism, not where it is obviously evil but at all points and all levels. This may be difficult, but we know of no other way to oppose it, successfully.

If, for example, to have any of the advantages listed above, socialist practices must be employed, then there is little point in opposing socialism. If free market rules work just fine for corner drug stores or for peanut stands or for life insurance firms or groceries, but when we are confronted with major objectives such as airports, dams, steamship lines and so on we have to call on the government and the democratic process, then we can offer little in opposition to socialism. If socialism is necessary to provide policing and roads and hospitals, and if the market place is not competent to deal with these things, then it would follow that socialism is more effective and more to be relied on than the market place.

Our contention is that there is no necessity for socialism at all. Indeed, we will seek to show that government is nothing but a group of men who are totally lacking in divinity or in other magic powers; and that they can do nothing that other men outside of government cannot also do.

Thus, the market place can provide all of the things which government can provide with the added advantage that when the market place provides a good or service, it is provided honestly, without violence, inexpensively and usually far more efficiently than government has ever learned how to function.

We are wholly unimpressed with the argument that because we live in a democracy, sharing of wealth or sharing of taxes is justified. Regardless of the form of our government we are never justified in advocating compulsory confiscation of wealth.

Matter of Fact

The true educator is content to acquaint you with the facts; the propagandist is intent upon securing a particular kind of action irrespective of the facts.

Exchanges Between Governments

If neither the American nor the Russian government had had anything to do with it, the exchange of American wheat for Russian gold would have been the most logical and the most healthful thing in the world.

Americans have more wheat than they can use, whereas Russians probably face some grim days without it. Americans have a deep shortage in gold. Russians apparently have quite a bit of gold, which, of course, they cannot eat, wear or use. The exchange is tailor-made by the factors of economics.

But the trouble is that the exchange hasn't been managed by private persons; it has been managed by the heads of state. And whatever happens, this will serve to undo someone somewhere.

For instance, what will the price of the exchange be? If the matter could be settled in the market place, there would be a fair opportunity for each side to receive the going rate in whatever it is they are trading. But with government in the saddle, we can be certain that political rather than market place considerations will be primary.

Only recently, Roger Blough, chairman of the board of U.S. Steel, had some observations to make about the pricing practices governments use when engaged in international dealings. He was talking, of course, about the steel business, and the fact that foreign steel producers charge one rate for their product in their own nations but quite another rate when a shipment of steel is brought to this country thru the respecting governments.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Bough made it clear that steel produced in other countries is sold in those countries at prices which are about on a par with prices charged in this country by American steel men. But when governments get into the trading business, the pricing process is distorted thru political objectives. And, altho Mr. Blough didn't say so, this is a two-way street relating as much to the products we sell overseas as to the products bought overseas and delivered here.

That brings us right back to the wheat deal. We have no objection at all to having the Russian people themselves purchase our wheat at a free market price in this country. Also, we have no objection to letting them pay for the transportation costs. This is what any of us have to do when we buy anything. We have to pay all of the costs involved, including the packaging, transporting, delivering, and so on. And this is exactly what would happen if we had a free market and if people were free to exchange in it.

But we don't. We are still toying with the ideas of mercantilism which went out of vogue with Queen Elizabeth I, or should have. Has it ever struck you as incongruous that governments are involved in exchange processes between nations? It should appear incongruous. Governments produce nothing. What business is it of theirs if John Smith grows wheat in America and Ivan Ivanovich wants to eat some of that wheat in Russia? If Ivan is willing and able to exchange with John so that John gets something he wants (gold) and Ivan gets something he wants (food), where do the intervening governments get into the picture at all?

Rightfully, they have no role to play there. They don't, or at least they shouldn't, possess or own any of the items to be traded. All the wheat and all the gold ought to be in private hands. Then there would be no real problem in effectuating an exchange.

But, alas, the Russian government has stolen from its people. It has taken their gold from them and so is in a position to act as tho it were a legitimate trading entity, which it is not. And, regretfully, the fact is that our own government has in its possession, tons and tons of wheat which it has purchased from the farmers with money taken by force from all the people. So the two governments are going to make an exchange. And the market place is going to get skewered. And the peopie in both lands have been deprived of their property and of their rights.

NO RIGHT

To the Editors:

Recently, an organization known as the Pikes Peak Council of Churches went on record as endorsing theft. A letter from this organization to City Council asked the council to take taxes from semi self-responsible and self-responsible real estate owners so that the irresponsible may have larger and more parks.

When I learn of covetousness, irresponsibility, theft sanction, immorality among church members I hang my head in shame. When in contact with self-responsible people who are not associated with the church I seldom admit that I belong to a group of ??.

As a churchman, as a Christian, I have no moral right to violate the Golden Rule against anyone who does not desire that which I desire.

I have no right to ask for or even desire that which is acquired by an immoral act, taxation.

All self-responsible individuals should understand morality, rightness of principles and practice honesty. What profit is there in understanding morality thru doing that which is immoral?

Church members, why should we not be self-responsible? Why should we not teach individual responsibility? If we will practice morality in and out of the church and teach morality along with self-responsibility in the church over a period of time, our children and grandchildren will not grow up to be irresponsible adults even as tens of millions of adults (married and unmarried) are today.

COLUMBUS DAY

To the Editor:

I am always at a loss to know why Italians go jubilant on Columbus Day, October 12. Columbus got no inspiration from Italy, no maps from Italy, no financial assistance from Italy, no sailors from Italy, no vessels from Italy, did not sail from nor returned from Italy in any of his voyages, never signed his name in Italian, did not write Italian, did not speak Italian, did not act like an Italian (important to those who know characteristics — psychology), and, if I am to believe informed researches, seems not to have been born in any of the seventeen Italian towns which claim him, did not marry an Italian, did not give his sons Italian names, did not give Italian names to any of the many places in the New World which he did name — nor did the Italians even colonize in the New World, (as did the Spaniards, French, English, Dutch).

Isn't Columbus Day Spain's day?

C. A. CASTLE
2201 Adams Mill Rd.
Washington, D.C.

Editor's note: Possibly Italians are among the first to recognize the impact of the American free market on the ancient world. Perhaps they pay a glowing tribute to the full meaning of America. This is conjecture. Perhaps someone of Italian ancestry will come forward to clear up the mystery.

THE GOLD THAT HAS HIM WORRIED

Question Box

Question No. 348: "What is the answer to the claim that if we did not have compulsory attendance to schools some parents would not send their children to school and thus they would not have an equal opportunity to get an education?"

Answer: that is a loaded question. It assumes, in the first place, that the children are going to have an opportunity to get an education if they are compelled to attend schools sanctioned by the state. If they go to tax-supported schools they have no chance to get to understand economics. If they do not go to such schools they will have a much better chance to understand economics than if they go to the tax-supported schools. Economics is not a dismal science as some people claim, but is the daily acts of every individual (of the millions of people) thruout the world to keep themselves alive and to improve their well-being. The boy or girl who doesn't go to school but starts to work is beginning to learn economics by practical use. On the other hand, the boy or girl who attends tax-supported schools has no opportunity to get an education in economics because economics in a so-called civilized country is based on voluntary exchange of goods and services. Tax - supported schools are not operated on a voluntary basis. Therefore, they cannot teach that men should voluntarily cooperate to get an education or to get the material things they want to keep themselves alive.

Nowadays with automobiles, if you tell the boy or girl that without learning to read or write they could not operate an automobile or read the comics or the sports, this would be an incentive for them to learn to read. If they have any will to learn you cannot stop them from learning to read. With this incentive they would want to learn.

Albert J. Nock contends that it has never been demonstrated yet that it is to the advantage of society to have everybody able to read. If one only reads to escape life and stimulate his envy, passion and hate, better that he couldn't read, that he work with his hands and be useful to himself and to all mankind.

The primary cause of unemployment and continuous wars and stupendous debts is because the youth of the land who attend tax-supported schools under compulsion cannot learn the causes of unemployment. He cannot learn economics. It might be contended that the youth of the land who have no will to learn and are forced to go to school do not have an equal opportunity to learn how to make a living, to learn that business is just an exchange of goods and services. Anything that blocks that, like subsidies to one group at the expense of another, as we are subsidizing the farmers and the tax-supported teachers and the manufacturer by protective tariffs and the government loaning so-called money at a lower rate than the real value of it, gets the boy and the girl confused and they will have no will to learn why we have depressions, unemployment, continuous wars. Nor does he know what money is. He thinks it is an irredeemable paper money not redeemable to anything of value.

The same argument could be used that we should have compulsory attendance in church, as they used to have. They found that you can't get people to understand the Ten Commandments by violating them. The biggest step we could make in improving education would be to repeal the laws that require any youth to attend school. The law that requires school attendance by youths who have no will to learn makes it very difficult for the teacher to help those who want to learn.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

In Lieu of Force

By G. BOARDMAN, Ph.D.

About midnight, a house in which a family of seven resided was burned out. All of the clothing, furniture and other belongings of the tenants of the rented house were destroyed. Less than 12 hours later, the local radio station announced that local residents had contributed more clothing, furniture, linens, dishes and other items than the burned-out family can use and that the unneeded items will be stored on the premises of the volunteer fire department for future emergency use. In addition, an owner of an unfurnished house has provided the family with a place to live on a temporary rent-free basis. The victims of the fire are relatively unknown having moved into the area only two months ago. Contributions to the burned-out family began to arrive while flames consumed the dwelling and a neighbor made space available for the storing of clothing, bed linens and other items indoors, while beds and other furniture were piled up in the yard. There was no organizational activity involved in this outpouring of consideration for the victims of the fire. The force and authority of government was not needed.

It appears that no one even attempted to find out if the family was in financial need. A single thought apparently prompted the purely charitable impulse which motivated the contributors; when a feller is burned out he needs a friend.

It is my contention that the people who went out into the night to befriend strangers behaved in an intelligent, rational and normal manner. I believe that individuals and churches and service organizations could and would attend to all emergency needs if we could rid ourselves of the dog-eat-dogism of socialism and the power-hungry greed of government. Of course the parasites who live upon the disasters which befall others, disagree with me but remember, the episode I have reported to you happened October 8, 1963, not fifty or sixty or a hundred years ago.

Fortunately, no children were orphaned by the fire but if such a thing had happened, responsible, decent human beings would have found ways and means to take care of the children and to lighten their grief — until government moved in and moved with force and authority to louse things up as only human beings greedy for power over others, can louse things up, forever and ever.

I like to think that human beings, if they could rid themselves of the parasites of government which cling to their backs and weight them down, would be as kind and considerate as ordinary house cats. Only about a month ago the tiny kitten named Mewsette, living with my children and grandchildren, was badly bitten by a rattlesnake. She was a very sick little cat. Casey, another cat in the household, noticed that Mewsette could not wash a very sore area under her jaw and took it upon himself to wash the bad bite for most of one entire afternoon while Mewsette rested. We have seen things of this kind happen in our own family of cats, many times. I believe the people who contributed to the burned-out family were motivated by the same natural instincts and I hope you'll forgive me for feeling that humans are naturally as decent as cats, despite a great deal of evidence to the contrary.

What do you think would have happened if government had ridden thru the streets of Kingman last night, blasting commands to the people that each contribute to the "needs" of the burned-out family? What do you think would have happened if my daughter had tried to force Casey to wash the wounds of Mewsette? In each case, the use of force could have only dulled instincts which are obviously natural, just as the socialist-fascist government which plagues our every making moment dulls every natural instinct. But don't get me wrong; any agency of force, government or otherwise, dulls every decent instinct and at the risk of seeming to be facetious, I don't believe any coercive force would have helped the Dodgers beat the Yankees in four straight games.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Wit and Whimsy

Mrs. Dingley: "Where is the car?"

Professor Dingley: "Dear me! Did I take the car out?"

Mrs. Dingley: "You certainly did. You drove it to town."

Professor Dingley: "How odd! I remember now that after I got out I turned around to thank the gentleman who gave me the lift and wondered where he had gone!"

To The Point

Architectural Heritage

By RUSSELL KIRK

In the old fishing-port of Pittenweem, on Scotland's Firth of Forth, your servant is restoring a charming little stone house, built about 1720, with crow - stepped gables. It has been empty for a generation, and will require much repair and improvement: yet when the work is done, this house should endure for another century and a half without great attention.

Venerable buildings are our chief visible link with past civilization. Living in them, one feels secure in a great continuity. I never have dwelt in a new house, and don't want to — especially in our modern cities, where the flashy new apartments usually are shoddily erected, incommodious, and noisy because of the thin partitions. (The rubble walls of my little house on The Square, Pittenweem, are nearly three feet thru.)

After shocking destruction of fine old buildings by both war and rehousing schemes, since the Second World War, some people are becoming aware of how boring a town must be if it has no architectural past. And, most of the time, restoration is cheaper than new construction.

I was pleased the other day, in Rome, to find an ancient dwelling of the Dark Ages, with Roman fragments in it — being restored with great care. When first I noticed that house, 14 years ago, in a remote corner of the picturesque slum of Trastevere, it was inhabited — but so thoroly decayed I thought it doomed. Now it will endure to interest many more Roman generations. If dwellings a thousand years old may be renovated, need we accept the shallow argument of the speculative builder that all nineteenth-century housing is obsolete?

Some Americans are intelligently concerned for their cultural and architectural heritage. In Indiana, for instance, the George Ade Memorial Association (Box 44, Brook, Indiana) is trying to raise contributions of $150,000 to restore and endow Hazeldon, the house of George Ade, one of the best of American humorists — which has been empty since Ade died in 1944. The homes of our men of letters are an especial bond connecting the dead, the living, and those yet unborn.

Occasionally, indeed, Americans do better than Europeans in the work of preservation. Modern Spain neglects the homes of her writers. In Avila, two years ago, civic "improvers" demolished the house where George Santayana lived as a boy. The best-known of living Spanish authors is Jose Maria Gironella, who wrote The Cypresses Believe in God. But the handsome house where Gironella wrote in Palma de Mallorca is neglected, while all round it, in the once-lovely quarter of Terreno, ugliness springs up.

Palma de Mallorca, capital of the Balearic Islands, in general is fallen upon evil days: one of the most dismaying examples of the triumph of cheap commercialism over civic and domestic beauty. Speculators, with powerful local political connections, plan to ravage the rim of the whole by an ugly and needless speedway, and to build skyscraper hotels that will form a kind of cliff cutting off the wonderful views. In the heart of the medieval town, Renaissance palaces are vanishing before the housebreaker — in the illusion that tourists will be pleased by flashy new shops.

"Posterity will curse you," John Ruskin wrote of the Victorians who swept away beautiful and historic buildings. Posterity should curse still more bitterly the greedy rascals of the twentieth century who supplant homes by giant blobs of glass and concrete.

Should We Return to Gold Coin Standard?

By OSCAR COOLEY
Associate Professor of Economics
Ohio Northern University

(First of a Series)

A friend in Hollansburg, Ohio, writes: "Do you think we should redeem our currency and-or bonds in gold?"

This would mean a return to the pre - 1933 gold coin standard. Then, any person could go to his bank and purchase gold coins with paper money or checks, paying dollar for dollar. That is, our currency was redeemable in gold money. U.S. bonds, too, were repayable in gold coin, if one wished.

However, few people did. Gold coins, altho plentifully available, were rarely seen in circulation. Given their choice of gold or paper money, people almost invariably chose paper, perhaps because it was lighter, more convenient to handle, and available in a greater variety of units.

Also, more and more people, then as now, chose to make payments not with money at all but with checks. The bank check is the most practical medium of exchange ever invented. It can be written in any amount; it can be made payable to a specific person; payment of it can be halted even after it has been passed; and when returned to its maker it constitutes a perfect receipt or proof of payment.

A century or more of experience thruout the world has proven that checks as a medium of exchange are superior to either metallic or paper money. Hence, I am not in favor of returning to coins of gold or other metal, except to the extent that we need the latter for special purposes such as making change or operating vending machines.

Gold coins were commodity money. Like the tobacco which was used as money in colonial Virginia, they were valuable because the material of which they were made could be used or consumed as a commodity, and this was sometimes done.

Long after people had any intention of melting gold coins to make false teeth or bracelets, they clung to gold as superior money simply because they knew it COULD be utilized as a commodity at any time they wished. This was not true of paper money, which has no commodity value.

It is time that we put away this ancient notion that money, to be good, must have value as a commodity. It is time that we realize that money is a highly specialized device which has but once basic function, namely, as a medium of exchange. Modern man has no desire for a money which can double as an ornamental bauble or as leaf to make the dome of the capitol glisten.

Those who wish to return to the gold coin standard hold that inflation is inevitable, because of over-issuance of paper money, unless we restrict such issuance to the amount of paper that can be redeemed by our limited supply of gold. They say that the gold standard imposed such a restriction. It tied the hands of the inflationists and thus protected us from "legal counterfeiting."

There is much truth in this claim. When we were on the gold standard, prior to 1933, gold was, at least to a considerable extent, an automatic stabilizer of values. So was tobacco in early Virginia. So was wampum among the Indians. These things held their value because they were scarce and could not be rapidly increased, and also because the demand for them as commodities was keen and fairly constant.

However, shall we decree that one commodity, gold, shall be our only medium of exchange? Shall we bind our economy to one commodity whose supply is quite static?

If we had a static economy, this might be feasible but we do not. Our economy is highly dynamic, changing and growing rapidly. It includes many business enterprisers who are continually launching great ventures, and this is done largely not with money at all but with credit, which means that the product of the venture pays for its launching. To decree that the modern economy must expand only on money, not on credit, would be to tie the hands of enterprisers and impede our growth.

For many years, even before the gold standard was abandoned, the American economy has been moving away from a money standard to a credit standard. Note the increased use of bank checks as a means of payment. Increasing millions of such checks are written each year.

And let no one assume there is gold behind all these checks. There is not, nor is there any pretense of such. There is nothing behind them except somebody's promise to pay.

Are the promises fulfilled? Is payment made? It certainly is. It is made in terms of the goods and services which people buy with checks.

Our system of "credit money" is not perfect; far from it. But its weakness lies not in the fact that we are off the gold coin standard. To describe its weakness and suggest what might be done will require at least another article.

GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Because of Democracy

There is a kind of argument very much in vogue these days. It runs like this: "Naturally, since every person in a democracy benefits from living in a democratic community, it is right for the state to provide tax-supported ——— paid for by everybody." You can fill in the blank yourself.

We have seen this blank filled in with various words, as follows: schools, hospitals, cemeteries, golf courses, roads, postal service, police protection, swimming pools, jobs, pensions, guidance, medical service, research, housing, hot lunches, libraries, parks, playgrounds, sports, amusements, banking services, and so on and on.

Then, to clinch the argument the situation will be summed up as follows: "The case is clear that nobody in a democracy has a legitimate objection to ——— taxes." The word to be inserted in the blank here is supposed to correspond to the same word used above. And there you have it. The basic argument for any and all kinds of socialism.

Now, all that socialism is, is a theory respecting ethics, economics and politics. Ethically speaking, socialism contends that the highest good is found when we seek to evaluate the good on the basis of what is good for the "group." Economically speaking, socialism contends that the "group" can plan expenditures better than the individual since the "group" is bound to be more objective than any individual. Hence, central planning and "group" control are called upon to replace individual planning and individual contol of resources, even tho they may be privately owned.

Finally, in politics, socialism contends that force can be and should be applied to compel conformity where the "good" of the group is involved and where the money is to be obtained for the "good" of the group. Thus, in every particular, the foregoing sentences fall into the pattern of pure socialism.

Curiously, the statements we have quoted above are not simply a generalization supplied from memory. They were culled from a column written by one of our own columnists, a man who is supposed to be a staunch anti-socialist. All that inspired them was a failure on the part of our own columnist to come to grips with the socialist ideology concerning which he is supposed to be an expert.

In a given case, he thought he saw a justification for socialism. Our contention is that to defeat socialism one must be absolutely consistent and reject socialism, not where it is obviously evil but at all points and all levels. This may be difficult, but we know of no other way to oppose it, successfully.

If, for example, to have any of the advantages listed above, socialist practices must be employed, then there is little point in opposing socialism. If free marret rules work just fine for corner drug stores or for peanut stands or for life insurance firms or groceries, but when we are confronted with major objectives such as airports, dams, steamship lines and so on we have to call on the government and the democratic process, then we can offer little in opposition to socialism. If socialism is necessary to provide policing and roads and hospitals, and if the market place is not competent to deal with these things, then it would follow that socialism is more effective and more to be relied on than the market place.

Our contention is that there is no necessity for socialism at all. Indeed, we will seek to show that government is nothing but a group of men who are totally lacking in divinity or in other magic powers; and that they can do nothing that other men outside of government cannot also do.

Thus, the market place can provide all of the things which government can provide with the added advantage that when the market place provides a good or service, it is provided honestly, without violence, inexpensively and usually far more efficiently than government has ever learned how to function.

We are wholly unimpressed with the argument that because we live in a democracy, sharing of wealth or sharing of taxes is justified. Regardless of the form of our government we are never justified in advocating compulsory confiscation of wealth.

Matter of Fact

The true educator is content to acquaint you with the facts; the propagandist is intent upon securing a particular kind of action irrespective of the facts.

Exchanges Between Governments

If neither the American nor the Russian government had had anything to do with it, the exchange of American wheat for Russian gold would have been the most logical and the most healthful thing in the world.

Americans have more wheat than they can use, whereas Russians probably face some grim days without it. Americans have a deep shortage in gold. Russians apparently have quite a bit of gold, which, of course, they cannot eat, wear or use. The exchange is tailor-made by the factors of economics.

But the trouble is that the exchange hasn't been managed by private persons; it has been managed by the heads of state. And whatever happens, this will serve to undo someone somewhere.

For instance, what will the price of the exchange be? If the matter could be settled in the market place, there would be a fair opportunity for each side to receive the going rate in whatever it is they are trading. But with government in the saddle, we can be certain that political rather than market place considerations will be primary.

Only recently, Roger Blough, chairman of the board of U.S. Steel, had some observations to make about the pricing practices governments use when engaged in international dealings. He was talking, of course, about the steel business, and the fact that foreign steel producers charge one rate for their product in their own nations but quite another rate when a shipment of steel is brought to this country thru the respecting governments.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Bough made it clear that steel produced in other countries is sold in those countries at prices which are about on a par with prices charged in this country by American steel men. But when governments get into the trading business, the pricing process is distorted thru political objectives. And, altho Mr. Blough didn't say so, this is a two-way street relating as much to the products we sell overseas as to the products bought overseas and delivered here.

That brings us right back to the wheat deal. We have no objection at all to having the Russian people themselves purchase our wheat at a free market price in this country. Also, we have no objection to letting them pay for the transportation costs. This is what any of us have to do when we buy anything. We have to pay all of the costs involved, including the packaging, transporting, delivering, and so on. And this is exactly what would happen if we had a free market and if people were free to exchange in it.

But we don't. We are still toying with the ideas of mercantilism which went out of vogue with Queen Elizabeth I, or should have. Has it ever struck you as incongruous that governments are involved in exchange processes between nations? It should appear incongruous. Governments produce nothing. What business is it of theirs if John Smith grows wheat in America and Ivan Ivanovich wants to eat some of that wheat in Russia? If Ivan is willing and able to exchange with John so that John gets something he wants (gold) and Ivan gets something he wants (food), where do the intervening governments get into the picture at all?

Rightfully, they have no role to play there. They don't, or at least they shouldn't, possess or own any of the items to be traded. All the wheat and all the gold ought to be in private hands. Then there would be no real problem in effectuating an exchange.

But, alas, the Russian government has stolen from its people. It has taken their gold from them and so is in a position to act as tho it were a legitimate trading entity, which it is not. And, regretfully, the fact is that our own government has in its possession, tons and tons of wheat which it has purchased from the farmers with money taken by force from all the people. So the two governments are going to make an exchange. And the market place is going to get skewered. And the people in both lands have been deprived of their property and of their rights.

NO RIGHT

To the Editors:

Recently, an organization known as the Pikes Peak Council of Churches went on record as endorsing theft. A letter from this organization to City Council asked the council to take taxes from semi self-responsible and self-responsible real estate owners so that the irresponsible may have larger and more parks.

When I learn of covetousness, irresponsibility, theft sanction, immorality among church members I hang my head in shame. When in contact with self-responsible people who are not associated with the church I seldom admit that I belong to a group of ??.

As a churchman, as a Christian, I have no moral right to violate the Golden Rule against anyone who does not desire that which I desire.

I have no right to ask for or even desire that which is acquired by an immoral act, taxation.

All self-responsible individuals should understand morality, rightness of principles and practice honesty. What profit is there in understanding morality thru doing that which is immoral?

Church members, why should we not be self-responsible? Why should we not teach individual responsibility? If we will practice morality in and out of the church and teach morality along with self-responsibility in the church over a period of time, our children and grandchildren will not grow up to be irresponsible adults even as tens of millions of adults (married and unmarried) are today.

COLUMBUS DAY

To the Editor:

I am always at a loss to know why Italians go jubilant on Columbus Day, October 12. Columbus got no inspiration from Italy, no maps from Italy, no financial assistance from Italy, no sailors from Italy, no vessels from Italy, did not sail from nor returned from Italy in any of his voyages, never signed his name in Italian, did not write Italian, did not speak Italian, did not act like an Italian (important to those who know characteristics — psychology), and, if I am to believe informed researches, seems not to have been born in any of the seventeen Italian towns which claim him, did not marry an Italian, did not give his sons Italian names, did not give Italian names to any of the many places in the New World which he did name — nor did the Italians even colonize in the New World, (as did the Spaniards, French, English, Dutch).

Isn't Columbus Day Spain's day?

Editor's note: Possibly Italians are among the first to recognize the impact of the American free market on the ancient world. Perhaps they pay a glowing tribute to the full meaning of America. This is conjecture. Perhaps someone of Italian ancestry will come forward to clear up the mystery.

THE GOLD THAT HAS HIM WORRIED

Question Box

Question No. 348: "What is the answer to the claim that if we did not have compulsory attendance to schools some parents would not send their children to school and thus they would not have an equal opportunity to get an education?"

Answer: that is a loaded question. It assumes, in the first place, that the children are going to have an opportunity to get an education if they are compelled to attend schools sanctioned by the state. If they go to tax-supported schools they have no chance to get to understand economics. If they do not go to such schools they will have a much better chance to understand economics than if they go to the tax-supported schools. Economics is not a dismal science as some people claim, but is the daily acts of every individual (of the millions of people) thruout the world to keep themselves alive and to improve their well-being. The boy or girl who doesn't go to school but starts to work is beginning to learn economics by practical use. On the other hand, the boy or girl who attends tax-supported schools has no opportunity to get an education in economics because economics in a so-called civilized country is based on voluntary exchange of goods and services. Tax - supported schools are not operated on a voluntary basis. Therefore, they cannot teach that men should voluntarily cooperate to get an education or to get the material things they want to keep themselves alive.

Nowadays with automobiles, if you tell the boy or girl that without learning to read or write they could not operate an automobile or read the comics or the sports, this would be an incentive for them to learn to read. If they have any will to learn you cannot stop them from learning to read. With this incentive they would want to learn.

Albert J. Nock contends that it has never been demonstrated yet that it is to the advantage of society to have everybody able to read. If one only reads to escape life and stimulate his envy, passion and hate, better that he couldn't read, that he work with his hands and be useful to himself and to all mankind.

The primary cause of unemployment and continuous wars and stupendous debts is because the youth of the land who attend tax-supported schools under compulsion cannot learn the causes of unemployment. He cannot learn economics. It might be contended that the youth of the land who have no will to learn and are forced to go to school do not have an equal opportunity to learn how to make a living, to learn that business is just an exchange of goods and services. Anything that blocks that, like subsidies to one group at the expense of another, as we are subsidizing the farmers and the tax-supported teachers and the manufacturer by protective tariffs and the government loaning so-called money at a lower rate than the real value of it, gets the boy and the girl confused and they will have no will to learn why we have depressions, unemployment, continuous wars. Nor does he know what money is. He thinks it is an irredeemable paper money not redeemable to anything of value.

The same argument could be used that we should have compulsory attendance in church, as they used to have. They found that you can't get people to understand the Ten Commandments by violating them. The biggest step we could make in improving education would be to repeal the laws that require any youth to attend school. The law that requires school attendance by youths who have no will to learn makes it very difficult for the teacher to help those who want to learn.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

By G. BOARDMAN, Ph.D.

About midnight, a house in which a family of seven resided was burned out. All of the clothing, furniture and other belongings of the tenants of the rented house were destroyed. Less than 12 hours later, the local radio station announced that local residents had contributed more clothing, furniture, linens, dishes and other items than the burned-out family can use and that the unneeded items will be stored on the premises of the volunteer fire department for future emergency use. In addition, an owner of an unfurnished house has provided the family with a place to live on a temporary rent-free basis. The victims of the fire are relatively unknown having moved into the area only two months ago. Contributions to the burned-out family began to arrive while flames consumed the dwelling and a neighbor made space available for the storing of clothing, bed linens and other items indoors, while beds and other furniture were piled up in the yard. There was no organizational activity involved in this outpouring of consideration for the victims of the fire. The force and authority of government was not needed.

It appears that no one even attempted to find out if the family was in financial need. A single thought apparently prompted the purely charitable impulse which motivated the contributors; when a feller is burned out he needs a friend.

It is my contention that the people who went out into the night to befriend strangers behaved in an intelligent, rational and normal manner. I believe that individuals and churches and service organizations could and would attend to all emergency needs if we could rid ourselves of the dog-eat-dogism of socialism and the power-hungry greed of government. Of course the parasites who live upon the disasters which befall others, disagree with me but remember, the episode I have reported to you happened October 8, 1963, not fifty or sixty or a hundred years ago.

Fortunately, no children were orphaned by the fire but if such a thing had happened, responsible, decent human beings would have found ways and means to take care of the children and to lighten their grief — until government moved in and moved with force and authority to louse things up as only human beings greedy for power over others, can louse things up, forever and ever.

I like to think that human beings, if they could rid themselves of the parasites of government which cling to their backs and weight them down, would be as kind and considerate as ordinary house cats. Only about a month ago the tiny kitten named Mewsette, living with my children and grandchildren, was badly bitten by a rattlesnake. She was a very sick little cat. Casey, another cat in the household, noticed that Mewsette could not wash a very sore area under her jaw and took it upon himself to wash the bad bite for most of one entire afternoon while Mewsette rested. We have seen things of this kind happen in our own family of cats, many times. I believe the people who contributed to the burned-out family were motivated by the same natural instincts and I hope you'll forgive me for feeling that humans are naturally as decent as cats, despite a great deal of evidence to the contrary.

What do you think would have happened if government had ridden thru the streets of Kingman last night, blasting commands to the people that each contribute to the "needs" of the burned-out family? What do you think would have happened if my daughter had tried to force Casey to wash the wounds of Mewsette? In each case, the use of force could have only dulled instincts which are obviously natural, just as the socialist-fascist government which plagues our every making moment dulls every natural instinct. But don't get me wrong; any agency of force, government or otherwise, dulls every decent instinct and at the risk of seeming to be facetious, I don't believe any coercive force would have helped the Dodgers beat the Yankees in four straight games.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

To The Point

Architectural Heritage

By RUSSELL KIRK

In the old fishing-port of Pittenweem, on Scotland's Firth of Forth, your servant is restoring a charming little stone house, built about 1720, with crow - stepped gables. It has been empty for a generation, and will require much repair and improvement: yet when the work is done, this house should endure for another century and a half without great attention.

Venerable buildings are our chief visible link with past civilization. Living in them, one feels secure in a great continuity. I never have dwelt in a new house, and don't want to — especially in our modern cities, where the flashy new apartments usually are shoddily erected, incommodious, and noisy because of the thin partitions. (The rubble walls of my little house on The Square, Pittenweem, are nearly three feet thru.)

After shocking destruction of fine old buildings by both war and rehousing schemes, since the Second World War, some people are becoming aware of how boring a town must be if it has no architectural past. And, most of the time, restoration is cheaper than new construction.

I was pleased the other day, in Rome, to find an ancient dwelling of the Dark Ages, with Roman fragments in it — being restored with great care. When first I noticed that house, 14 years ago, in a remote corner of the picturesque slum of Trastevere, it was inhabited — but so thoroly decayed I thought it doomed. Now it will endure to interest many more Roman generations. If dwellings a thousand years old may be renovated, need we accept the shallow argument of the speculative builder that all nineteenth-century housing is obsolete?

Some Americans are intelligently concerned for their cultural and architectural heritage. In Indiana, for instance, the George Ade Memorial Association (Box 44, Brook, Indiana) is trying to raise contributions of $150,000 to restore and endow Hazeldon, the house of George Ade, one of the best of American humorists — which has been empty since Ade died in 1944. The homes of our men of letters are an especial bond connecting the dead, the living, and those yet unborn.

Occasionally, indeed, Americans do better than Europeans in the work of preservation. Modern Spain neglects the homes of her writers. Palma de Mallorca, capital of the Balearic Islands, in general is fallen upon evil days: one of the most dismaying examples of the triumph of cheap commercialism over civic and domestic beauty. Speculators, with powerful local political connections, plan to ravage the rim of the whole by an ugly and needless speedway, and to build skyscraper hotels that will form a kind of cliff cutting off the wonderful views. In the heart of the medieval town, Renaissance palaces are vanishing before the housebreaker — in the illusion that tourists will be pleased by flashy new shops.

Should We Return to Gold Coin Standard?

It can be written in any amount; it can be made payable to a specific person; payment of it can be halted even after it has been passed; and when returned to its maker it constitutes a perfect receipt or proof of payment.

A century or more of experience thruout the world has proven that checks as a medium of exchange are superior to either metallic or paper money. Hence, I am not in favor of returning to coins of gold or other metal, except to the extent that we need the latter for special purposes such as making change or operating vending machines.

Gold coins were commodity money. Like the tobacco which was used as money in colonial Virginia, they were valuable because the material of which they were made could be used or consumed as a commodity, and this was sometimes done.

Long after people had any intention of melting gold coins to make false teeth or bracelets, they clung to gold as superior money simply because they knew it COULD be utilized as a commodity at any time they wished. This was not true of paper money, which has no commodity value.

It is time that we put away this ancient notion that money, to be good, must have value as a commodity. It is time that we realize that money is a highly specialized device which has but once basic function, namely, as a medium of exchange. Modern man has no desire for a money which can double as an ornamental bauble or as leaf to make the dome of the capitol glisten.

Those who wish to return to the gold coin standard hold that inflation is inevitable, because of over-issuance of paper money, unless we restrict such issuance to the amount of paper that can be redeemed by our limited supply of gold. They say that the gold standard imposed such a restriction. It tied the hands of the inflationists and thus protected us from "legal counterfeiting."

There is much truth in this claim. When we were on the gold standard, prior to 1933, gold was, at least to a considerable extent, an automatic stabilizer of values. So was tobacco in early Virginia. So was wampum among the Indians. These things held their value because they were scarce and could not be rapidly increased, and also because the demand for them as commodities was keen and fairly constant.

However, shall we decree that one commodity, gold, shall be our only medium of exchange? Shall we bind our economy to one commodity whose supply is quite static?

If we had a static economy, this might be feasible but we do not. Our economy is highly dynamic, changing and growing rapidly. It includes many business enterprisers who are continually launching great ventures, and this is done largely not with money at all but with credit, which means that the product of the venture pays for its launching. To decree that the modern economy must expand only on money, not on credit, would be to tie the hands of enterprisers and impede our growth.

For many years, even before the gold standard was abandoned, the American economy has been moving away from a money standard to a credit standard. Note the increased use of bank checks as a means of payment. Increasing millions of such checks are written each year.

And let no one assume there is gold behind all these checks. There is not, nor is there any pretense of such. There is nothing behind them except somebody's promise to pay.

Are the promises fulfilled? Is payment made? It certainly is. It is made in terms of the goods and services which people buy with checks.

Our system of "credit money" is not perfect; far from it. But its weakness lies not in the fact that we are off the gold coin standard. To describe its weakness and suggest what might be done will require at least another article.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Decrease of Drilling Activity Is Reported

DENVER (UPI)— The Rocky Mountain Oil & Gas Association said today drilling activity decreased 25 per cent and crude oil production 9 per cent in Colorado for the first three quarters of 1963.

The association said 434 wells were completed during the nine month period, compared to 579 for the same period a year earlier. Crude production was 29,284,164 barrels, compared with 32,196,528, during the 1962 period.

RMOGA attributed the production drop to declines at older producing fields in the Denver-Julesburg Basin in northeastern Colorado.

RMOGA said the total number of scuccessful oil and gas wells, and total exploratory drilling were down, but wildcat successes remained almost the same.

Storing Up TV Episodes Is Reported Dangerous

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—When the average filmed television series makes its network debut at the beginning of the season, there usually are from 6 to 26 completed episodes ready for broadcasting.

In the case of one established hit, "Hazel," the crew and cast worked through last spring and early summer on the fall product. With this head start the show took a long summer holiday that ended only two weeks ago.

But in the case of the new programs, this practice of storing up episodes so far in advance is dangerous and, in some cases, fatal. The backlog, produced at vast cost, probhibits changes and shifts of emphasis that might turn failure into a passable success, even a hit.

When plans were announced for CBS' new "Judy Garland show," the network hoped to have 13 shows completed before the variety hour had its premiere.

Because of a shift of producers resulting in a month's suspension of tapings, there were only five, and maybe it was a lucky break.

With a flexibility rare indeed in television, network executives recently pulled one show from its schedule and substituted another, made only two days before. They decided that it was a better show. And it was.

Usually, however, a series must go its pre-determined course. Story lines, formats and concepts — even players — are chosen by a handful of "experts" months, sometimes years before the public finally passes judgement. And too many times those experts goof. For each smart, timely guess—like "Ben Casey" and Vince Edwards or "Beverly Hillbillies" — there are two or more shows that never get off their launching pads. There are the usual number this season.

A lot of experts thought this would be a big season for comedy. Shows like NBC's "Harry's Gilrs" and CBS' "Glynis" both must have looked pretty good while on the drawing board. Presumably if public reaction to both had been available, changes might have been made in episodes that would have made them more attractive.

Meanwhile, NBC apparently hasn't given up hope. It has shipped a new writer to Europe to brighten up the Larry Blyden comedy series. But with a big backlog of shows, it may be too late.

CBS' "Town Meeting of the World" which this morning was to bring together live-by-Telstar churchmen from Rome, London and Princeton, N.J., will be rebroadcast on the network Wednesday in the 7:30-8:30 p.m., EDT spot. That means that the scheduled "CBS Reports" on "The Great American Funeral" has been postponed until Oct. 23.

NBC's "Espionage" on Oct. 23 has a timely subject: a security leak in a British ministry . . . NBC plans to adapt Britain's "That Was the Week That Was," a satiric treatment of the news, to a weekly series for Americans next season—and will give a preview on Nov. 10 in its "Show of the Week" spot . . . The annual Christmas night broadcast of "Amahl and the Night Visitors" will be an all new NBC prdouction this season.

Annexation Slowdown Urged by Governor

PUEBLO (AP) — Legislation that would provide at least a temporary slowdown in Denver metropolitan area annexations was urged Monday by Gov. John A. Love.

The governor told participants at one of his forums that he wants a temporary solution at least until his 100-member commission on local government problems comes up with a permanent solution.

The governor did not say whether he endorses legislation to stop annexations completely. Such legislation has been proposed by Sen. Roy McVicker, D-Wheat Ridge. McVicker's proposal will be voted on by the commission's metropolitan affairs committee next month.

Storing Up TV Episodes Is Reported Dangerous

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—When the average filmed television series makes its network debut at the beginning of the season, there usually are from 6 to 26 completed episodes ready for broadcasting.

In the case of one established hit, "Hazel," the crew and cast worked through last spring and early summer on the fall product. With this head start the show took a long summer holiday that ended only two weeks ago.

But in the case of the new programs, this practice of storing up episodes so far in advance is dangerous and, in some cases, fatal. The backlog, produced at vast cost, probhibits changes and shifts of emphasis that might turn failure into a passable success, even a hit.

When plans were announced for CBS' new "Judy Garland show," the network hoped to have 13 shows completed before the variety hour had its premiere.

Because of a shift of producers resulting in a month's suspension of tapings, there were only five, and maybe it was a lucky break.

With a flexibility rare indeed in television, network executives recently pulled one show from its schedule and substituted another, made only two days before. They decided that it was a better show. And it was.

Usually, however, a series must go its pre-determined course. Story lines, formats and concepts — even players — are chosen by a handful of "experts" months, sometimes years before the public finally passes judgement. And too many times those experts goof. For each smart, timely guess—like "Ben Casey" and Vince Edwards or "Beverly Hillbillies" — there are two or more shows that never get off their launching pads. There are the usual number this season.

A lot of experts thought this would be a big season for comedy. Shows like NBC's "Harry's Gilrs" and CBS' "Glynis" both must have looked pretty good while on the drawing board. Presumably if public reaction to both had been available, changes might have been made in episodes that would have made them more attractive.

Meanwhile, NBC apparently hasn't given up hope. It has shipped a new writer to Europe to brighten up the Larry Blyden comedy series. But with a big backlog of shows, it may be too late.

CBS' "Town Meeting of the World" which this morning was to bring together live-by-Telstar churchmen from Rome, London and Princeton, N.J., will be rebroadcast on the network Wednesday in the 7:30-8:30 p.m., EDT spot. That means that the scheduled "CBS Reports" on "The Great American Funeral" has been postponed until Oct. 23.

NBC's "Espionage" on Oct. 23 has a timely subject: a security leak in a British ministry . . . NBC plans to adapt Britain's "That Was the Week That Was," a satiric treatment of the news, to a weekly series for Americans next season—and will give a preview on Nov. 10 in its "Show of the Week" spot . . . The annual Christmas night broadcast of "Amahl and the Night Visitors" will be an all new NBC prdouction this season.

Annexation Slowdown Urged by Governor

PUEBLO (AP) — Legislation that would provide at least a temporary slowdown in Denver metropolitan area annexations was urged Monday by Gov. John A. Love.

The governor told participants at one of his forums that he wants a temporary solution at least until his 100-member commission on local government problems comes up with a permanent solution.

The governor did not say whether he endorses legislation to stop annexations completely. Such legislation has been proposed by Sen. Roy McVicker, D-Wheat Ridge. McVicker's proposal will be voted on by the commission's metropolitan affairs committee next month.

Two Class Reunions to Be Held Homecoming Week

More than 100 members of the classes of 1938 and 1953 are expected to attend class reunions at Colorado College during homecoming weekend, which gets under way Thursday (10-17).

More than half the states from coast to coast will be represented by alumni returning for homecoming.

Homecoming this year will feature the inauguration of the college's first alumnus president, Dr. Lloyd E. Worner, who earned his bachelor's degree at Colorado College in 1942. The inaugural ceremony will be held on the central quadrangle at 2 p.m. Friday. In the event of rain, it will be in Shove Chapel. Rain checks may be secured from the college secretary's office.

Another major attraction for returning alumni of the independent liberal arts college will be the annual reunion of former Freedom and Authority seminar students. Freedom and Authority alumni will gather in the Charles Leaming Tutt Library at 9:15 a.m. to discuss "Racial Equality and Personal Freedom."

The two classes will hold separate reunion dinners at 7:30 p.m. Saturday (10-19). The class of 1938 will hold its Silver Anniversary dinner at the Peak-View Golf Club, 2901 Valley-Hi Ave. The tenth anniversary dinner of the class of 1953 will be in the Green Room at the Broadmoor Hotel.

A book of biographies of members of the class of 1938 is being completed and will be distributed at the reunion dinner, according to Alf Owens and Ruth Doughty Bitters, class co-presidents.

Entertainment at homecoming will be provided by the Colorado College Players who will stage George Bernard Shaw's comedy, "Arms and the Man," at 7:15 p.m. on Friday and Saturday in Perkins Hall.

Homecoming wekend gets under way at 8:15 p.m. in Shove Chapel when Rice University Chancellor Carey Croneis delivers the third annual Harold D. Roberts Memorial Lecture.

The Delta Zeta Alumnae Chapter is celebrating the anniversary of its founding with a luncheon at the Red Carpet at 12:30 Saturday.

Delta Zeta was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, Oct. 24, 1902 by six young women who may have found inspiration and challange from the "Miami Triad," the fraternities of Beta Theta Pi, Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Chi. Delta Zeta was the first sorority on the Miami campus.

There are 143 college chapters located all over the United States and 232 alumnae chapters.

Nationally Delta Zeta assists in the unique work done at Gallaudet College, Washington, D.C., the only college in the world devoted entirely to the needs, instruction, and training of young people who are deaf.

The sorority also "adopts" the blind patients at Carville, the only hospital in the United States where victims of Hansen's disease is treated.

The local alumnae chapter lends support and assistance to the Deaf and Blind School and to the Colorado Springs Day Nursery.

Dr. Shaw Talks on Change In American Family Life

"Change is the important concept in considering the American family today," declared Dr. Van B. Shaw, Saturday, as he spoke at the opening branch meeting of American Association of University Women at Valley-Hi Country Club.

Dr. Shaw, professor of sociology and anthropology at Colorado College, opened the discussion of "The American Family in a Changing World," one of the two areas to be considered by AAUW this year, by suggesting a constructive approach to the problem.

He detailed and illustrated the moral approach and the functional approach to two family problems — divorce and delinquency, showing how the one method tended to place blame and assign punishment, while the other sought a workable solution.

He further discussed the loss of some family functions and the need to strengthen the few which remain. He also explored some of the causes of family instability and briefly discussed possible legal changes to help solve some of the problems.

Arrangements for the luncheon and program were made by Mrs. John Orsborn, assisted by Mrs. Phineas Bernstein, Mrs. Robert Dunlap, Mrs. George C. Kaufman, Mrs. Joe Simansky, Mrs. Orville Suhre, and Mrs. R. James Watson.

A book display with titles on the subject of the American family was arranged by Chinook Book Shop.

Two Class Reunions to Be Held Homecoming Week

More than 100 members of the classes of 1938 and 1953 are expected to attend class reunions at Colorado College during homecoming weekend, which gets under way Thursday (10-17).

More than half the states from coast to coast will be represented by alumni returning for homecoming.

Homecoming this year will feature the inauguration of the college's first alumnus president, Dr. Lloyd E. Worner, who earned his bachelor's degree at Colorado College in 1942. The inaugural ceremony will be held on the central quadrangle at 2 p.m. Friday. In the event of rain, it will be in Shove Chapel. Rain checks may be secured from the college secretary's office.

Another major attraction for returning alumni of the independent liberal arts college will be the annual reunion of former Freedom and Authority seminar students. Freedom and Authority alumni will gather in the Charles Leaming Tutt Library at 9:15 a.m. to discuss "Racial Equality and Personal Freedom."

The two classes will hold separate reunion dinners at 7:30 p.m. Saturday (10-19). The class of 1938 will hold its Silver Anniversary dinner at the Peak-View Golf Club, 2901 Valley-Hi Ave. The tenth anniversary dinner of the class of 1953 will be in the Green Room at the Broadmoor Hotel.

A book of biographies of members of the class of 1938 is being completed and will be distributed at the reunion dinner, according to Alf Owens and Ruth Doughty Bitters, class co-presidents.

Entertainment at homecoming will be provided by the Colorado College Players who will stage George Bernard Shaw's comedy, "Arms and the Man," at 7:15 p.m. on Friday and Saturday in Perkins Hall.

Homecoming wekend gets under way at 8:15 p.m. in Shove Chapel when Rice University Chancellor Carey Croneis delivers the third annual Harold D Roberts Memorial Lecture.

Founders Day To Be Observed By Delta Zetas

The Delta Zeta Alumnae Chapter is celebrating the anniversary of its founding with a luncheon at the Red Carpet at 12:30 Saturday.

Delta Zeta was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, Oct. 24, 1902 by six young women who may have found inspiration and challange from the "Miami Triad," the fraternities of Beta Theta Pi, Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Chi. Delta Zeta was the first sorority on the Miami campus.

There are 143 college chapters located all over the United States and 232 alumnae chapters.

Nationally Delta Zeta assists in the unique work done at Gallaudet College, Washington, D.C., the only college in the world devoted entirely to the needs, instruction, and training of young people who are deaf.

The sorority also "adopts" the blind patients at Carville, the only hospital in the United States where victims of Hansen's disease is treated.

The local alumnae chapter lends support and assistance to the Deaf and Blind School and to the Colorado Springs Day Nursery.

"Change is the important concept in considering the American family today," declared Dr. Van B. Shaw, Saturday, as he spoke at the opening branch meeting of American Association of University Women at Valley-Hi Country Club.

Dr. Shaw, professor of sociology and anthropology at Colorado College, opened the discussion of "The American Family in a Changing World," one of the two areas to be considered by AAUW this year, by suggesting a constructive approach to the problem.

He detailed and illustrated the moral approach and the functional approach to two family problems — divorce and delinquency, showing how the one method tended to place blame and assign punishment, while the other sought a workable solution.

He further discussed the loss of some family functions and the need to strengthen the few which remain. He also explored some of the causes of family instability and briefly discussed possible legal changes to help solve some of the problems.

Arrangements for the luncheon and program were made by Mrs. John Orsborn, assisted by Mrs. Phineas Bernstein, Mrs. Robert Dunlap, Mrs. George C. Kaufman, Mrs. Joe Simansky, Mrs. Orville Suhre, and Mrs. R. James Watson.

A book display with titles on the subject of the American family was arranged by Chinook Book Shop.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♣	Pass

Opening lead: Deuce of ◇

North opened the bidding with one club. It should be pointed out that this was not intended in any conventional manner. It was simply the most convenient way in which to get the bidding under way. South responded with one spade, and North raised to two spades. South might at this point have proceeded to game for his hand becomes valued at 13 points when partner offers a raise. South chose however to bid only three spades, and North in consideration of the fact that he had opened a minimum hand declined his partner's invitation to proceed.

West opened the deuce of diamonds. East played the ace and another diamond which West ruffed. The shift was to a heart, since this was the only suit in which East could possibly have a card of reentry. Declarer put up the ace of hearts from dummy, and paused to consider his prospects.

It may be oberved that, if South, in his haste to extract trumps, leads spades immediately, he will go set. West plays the ace of spades and then puts his partner in with a second heart to obtain another diamond ruff.

Declarer foresaw this possibility, and he devised a method for cutting his opponents' line of the ace of clubs and then continued with the queen. When East followed with a small club, South discarded his losing heart. West won the trick with the king of clubs and returned a heart. Declarer ruffed and now drove out the ace of spades. West was in again, but there was no way to reach his partner to obtain another diamond ruff. When South regained the lead, he drew the remaining spade and claimed his contract.

South's lead of the queen of clubs from dummy was a form of "loser on loser" play that cost him nothing in the attempt. If East has the king of clubs and covers the queen, declarer merely ruffs in his hand and then makes an effort to take advantage of a trump break.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Deuce of ◇

North opened the bidding with one club. It should be pointed out that this was not intended in any conventional manner. It was simply the most convenient way in which to get the bidding under way. South responded with one spade, and North raised to two spades. South might at this point have proceeded to game for his hand becomes valued at 13 points when partner offers a raise. South chose however to bid only three spades, and North in consideration of the fact that he had opened a minimum hand declined his partner's invitation to proceed.

West opened the deuce of diamonds. East played the ace and another diamond which West ruffed. The shift was to a heart, since this was the only suit in which East could possibly have a card of reentry. Declarer put up the ace of hearts from dummy, and paused to consider his prospects.

It may be oberved that, if South, in his haste to extract trumps, leads spades immediately, he will go set. West plays the ace of spades and then puts his partner in with a second heart to obtain another diamond ruff.

Declarer foresaw this possibility, and he devised a method for cutting his opponents' line of the ace of clubs and then continued with the queen. When East followed with a small club, South discarded his losing heart. West won the trick with the king of clubs and returned a heart. Declarer ruffed and now drove out the ace of spades. West was in again, but there was no way to reach his partner to obtain another diamond ruff. When South regained the lead, he drew the remaining spade and claimed his contract.

South's lead of the queen of clubs from dummy was a form of "loser on loser" play that cost him nothing in the attempt. If East has the king of clubs and covers the queen, declarer merely ruffs in his hand and then makes an effort to take advantage of a trump break.

TWO-WAY GLASS BOOM

"The employes may know the mirror is two-way," said glass company operator Albert Taylor. "But they don't know whether the boss is looking or not. It's a psychological thing and usually keeps them busy."

Some libraries also use the mirrors to keep an eye on youngsters inclined to "do a little smooching" among the book stacks.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

How many of your readers have ever used discarded nylon stockings for pillow stuffing? It's absolutely terrific!

Wash and sort your light-colored stockings and cut down the back of the stockings removing the seam. Then stuff your pillows with the stockings.

These pillows can be washed in the washing machine, run through the wringer and dry quickly. They are always "springy", never get musty and are a delight to use. It takes lots of stockings to stuff a pillow, so you girls start saving now!

The beauty of using stockings to stuff pillows is that no matter what condition the stocking is in, they can be used for this purpose.

From Heloise's Kitchen

Dear Ladies:

Did you know that you could take a piece of thin plastic wrap . . . cut it to fit the bottom of your silver tray and then put your deviled eggs on it for your parties and it "won't even show"? Try it, it's so!

And it won't tarnish the silver! Use this method for all silver trays and protect them especially the acid foods (which eat silver) such as pickles, olives, etc. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

What do you do when you shop only once a month and you find that bag of potatoes getting old and wrinkled? And "eyes" looking at you? —S. T.

Dear S. T.:

I start making potato salad . . . real quick! (or scalloped potatoes, potato pancakes, etc.) —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

To mothers with growing daughters, whose waistlines are always changing . . .

Buy gathered and pleated skirts a little larger in the waist band, then sew a strip of narrow elastic inside the back of the band. Stretch the elastic while stitching. Four or five inches of elastic is plenty. After the skirt is on, it doesn't show at all and the skirt always fits.

Thanks for all of your interest in us "slaves." Three cheers for you. Love, love, love. —Mary Wilson

Tips Offered On Preparation Of Swiss Steak

With the coming of cooler weather and your desire to prepare braised meat dishes once again, swiss steak naturally comes into focus. This is one of the most well known ways of serving less-tender beef steak.

Reba Staggs, meat cookery authority, offers a few pointers as a review on the preparation of excellent swiss steak. Usually economical beef round steak is chosen, but arm or blade steak could also be used. The meat is pounded with a meat hammer or the edge of a sturdy pie plate to help break down connective tissue and shorten cooking time. The beef should be cooked very slowly until tender in a tightly covered utensil.

This particular recipe for individual swiss steak calls for the usual tomatoes and onions, as well as celery and thyme for variety.

Individual Swiss Steaks

¼ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon thyme
1 medium onion, sliced
½ cup sliced celery
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes.

Cut steak into 4 to 6 pieces. Combine flour, salt and pepper. Pound seasoned flour into steak. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add thyme, onion, celery and tomatoes Cover tightly and cook slowly 1½ to 2 hours or until meat is tender. 4 to 6 servings.

Tenderloin and Tomatoes Star In Tasty Stacks

As summer wanes and you're taking advantage of the last of the season's special foods, try some unusual combinations for a menu pep up.

Fresh tomatoes will play an important supporting role in a succulent meat entree called Pork Tenderloin Supreme. Each intriguing serving stacks a pork tenderloin patty, a tomato slice and an onion slice. . .all enclosed with bacon strips.

Meat expert Reba Staggs says that tenderloin patties, sometimes called cutlets, are the most tender cut of pork and recommends them for a top-notch meal.

Pork Tenderloin Supreme

12 slices bacon
6 pork tenderloin patties
Salt
Pepper
6 slices tomato, cut ½ inch thick
6 slices onion, cut ¼ inch thick

Prepare each serving as follows: Cross 2 slices bacon, place tenderloin patty on the center, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place a slice of tomato on the patty, season, and top with a slice of onion. Season. Bring bacon ends up over onion slice and fasten with a wooden pick. Place in a baking pan, cover tightly and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) 30 minutes. Remove cover and continue baking 30 minutes or until done. 4 to 6 servings.

½ cup sliced celery
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes

Cut steak into 4 to 6 pieces. Combine flour, salt and pepper. Pound seasoned flour into steak. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add thyme, onion, celery and tomatoes. Cover tightly and cook slowly 1½ to 2 hours or until meat is tender. 4 to 6 servings.

Tenderloin and Tomatoes Star In Tasty Stacks

As summer wanes and you're taking advantage of the last of the season's special foods, try some unusual combinations for a menu pep up.

Fresh tomatoes will play an important supporting role in a succulent meat entree called Pork Tenderloin Supreme. Each intriguing serving stacks a pork tenderloin patty, a tomato slice and an onion slice. . .all enclosed with bacon strips.

Meat expert Reba Staggs says that tenderloin patties, sometimes called cutlets, are the most tender cut of pork and recommends them for a top-notch meal.

Pork Tenderloin Supreme

12 slices bacon
6 pork tenderloin patties
Salt
Pepper
6 slices tomato, cut ½ inch thick
6 slices onion, cut ¼ inch thick

Prepare each serving as follows: Cross 2 slices bacon, place tenderloin patty on the center, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place a slice of tomato on the patty, season, and top with a slice of onion. Season. Bring bacon ends up over onion slice and fasten with a wooden pick. Place in a baking pan, cover tightly and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) 30 minutes. Remove cover and continue baking 30 minutes or until done. 4 to 6 servings.

SCREAMING TRAFFIC'S BOOM

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A noise-level survey rates Johannesburg a full six units above New York, which inspired Cole Porter to write of "the roaring traffic's boom."

Prof. Guerino Renzo Bozzoli, chief of the electrical engineering department at Johannesburg's Witwatersrand University, says:

"American cars are low-revving and give out a deep rumble which is not terribly upsetting. Here we use a great many high-revving British and European cars which scream at you."

New U. S. Rodeo Records Set, Group Reports

DENVER (UPI)— The Rodeo Information Commission said Tuesday professional rodeo, with the end of the season six weeks away, already has set records for approved rodeos and total prize money.

The commission said 580 rodeos had been approved already and $3.2 million already divided up among cowboy competitors.

Previous records were 578 rodeos in 1953 and $3.1 million payoff in 1959.

With only three big-money rodeos left before the national finals "world series of rodeo" Nov. 26-Dec. 1 at Los Angeles, big Dean Oliver, 34, of Boise, Idaho, was leading in total money winnings with $28,400, the commission said.

He was $3,000 ahead of runnerup Guy Weeks of Abilene, Tex., in the dollar-a-point standings for all-around cowboy.

Oliver had a virtually unbreakable hold on the calf-roping crown, however. He led Bob Wiley of Porterville, Calif., by more than $9,000 in that division.

Other first and second-ranked competitors respectively, include Weeks, with $16,732, and Marty Wood, with $15,000, in saddle bronc riding; Paul Mayo, Grinnell, Iowa, $16,102, and John Hawkins, Twain Harte, Calif., $13,196, in bareback bronc riding; Bill Kornell, Palm Springs, Calif., $12,009, and Dickie Cox, McKinney, Tex., $11,957, bull ridng; Jim Bynum, Waxahachie, Tex., $16,335, and C.R. Boucher, Burkburnett, Tex., $11,352, steer wrestling; and Les Hirdes, Turlock, Calif., $11,310, and Al Hooper, Escalon, Calif., $10,755, team steer roping.

GRANT VISITS HOME

BRISTOL, England (UPI) — British-born actor Cary Grant paid a surprise visit to an old folks' home Monday and was mobbed by elderly autograph seekers.

Grant, who planned to return to the United States later this week, had promised in an exchange of letters to visit the Old Aged Pensioners Club in suburban Bedminster, but his appearance came as a surprise.

PARIS — A French concern has contracted to supply broadcasting equipment to South African radio stations.

'Town Meeting Of World' Aided By Telstar

To accommodate Telstar II it was shown at 8:30 a.m., EDT, but CBS, American host of the hour-long program will rebroadcast it tonight at 7:30-8:30.

Four eminent churchmen sat down together, electronically speaking, to discuss what CBS called "The Christian revolution."

In Rome there was Cardinal Rugambwa of Tanganyika and a Catholic writer, the Rev. Hans Kung of West Germany. From London came the Right Rev. Leslie Newbigin, a Presbyterian who is head of his church in South India. From Princeton, N.J. Theological Seminary came the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry of the American Lutheran Church.

Telstar was temperamental throughout the program and on several ocasions the sound was lost from Rome.

The big questions raised, many involving Christian unity and the population explosion, sounded controversial but the answers were never heated. Sometimes the answers left viewers-unsatisified but it probably was a combination of language problems and Telstar's behavior.

But as moderator Eric Servereid noted during the broadcast, the interesting and inspiring thing was that an "artifical star" had formed a bridge which brought Catholics and Protestants together as millions of lay persons were privileged to listen in on their talk.

Richard Boone's recent automobile accident disrupted, along with his own NB Cseries, this week's "Password" plans. The CBS game show, taped recently in Hollywood, had booked Boone for its day-time panel along with Jane Wyatt.

When Boone was unable to appear on the Monday and Tuesday shows, host Allen Ludden joined the panel while announcer Jack Clark took over Ludden's job. As a player, Ludden committed all of the sins which he, as moderator, frowns upon. He used his hands to amplify clues and once threw out a two-word clue which brought a reprove from the judges.

That CBS "Judy Garland Show" should be equipped with swinging doors, the traffic coming and going is so heavy. Now director Bill Hobin has given his notice and Jack Carter has been added as the show's official funnyman, replacing Jery Van Dyke.

Deaths

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Sherman Morse, 93, former New York Herald and New York World reporter, died Monday. Morse, who worked on the Herald under James Gordon Bennett Jr., was a reporter and city editor of the New York World and business manager of the Niagara Falls, N.Y. Gazette. He was born in Canandaigua, N.Y.

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Alan Coutis, 56, associate professor of speech at Dickinson College since 1957 and a magazine writer and author of dramatic skits for radio, died Monday. Coutis earlier had taught at the University of Vermont and New York University. He was born in Tacoma, Wash.

Pearson Survives Votes of Confidence

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's minority Liberal government survived two more votes of no-confidence Tuesday night.

It was a small revolt in the House of Commons over farm policies in Eastern Canada, such as dairy subsidies and the use of fertilizer, and posed no real threat to the government.

The first motion, introduced by the Conservatives, was defeated 134-95, with the help of the Social Credit and New Democrat parties.

The second motion, introduced by the Social Credit party and supported by the New Democrats, was turned down 208-22. The Conservatives and the Quebec faction of Social Credit voted with Pearson's Liberals.

The tests were the fifth and sixth the Liberals have weathered since taking over the government last April. The Liberals command 129 votes against a combined opposition of 136.

SPUDS IN DIET

BOISE, Idaho (UI) — The Idaho Potato and Onion Commission wants to set the dieters straight.

In its monthly bulletin, the commission says baked potatoes have fewer calories than dieters think. The commission says a medium-sized baked Idaho potato has only 97 calories in it against 201 for a cup of boiled rice.

FIGHTING EXHIBITS

WALNUT GROVE, Calif. (UPI) — The prosecution has been having trouble keeping its star exhibits from killing each other.

The witnesses are fighting cocks, seized in a raid last month near Isleton, Calif. Possession of the birds is illegal, and the prosecutor wants to use them as evidence against George Maghoney, who is charged as their owner.

Guard Is Arrested On Arson Charge

NEW YORK (AP)—A guard at a children's home on Staten Island was arrested on an arson charge today several hours after a fire forced about 350 boys to flee.

The guard ran into a blazing unoccupied building with a fire extinguisher and was carried out unconscious from smoke inhalation.

None of the boys was reported injured. They fled from three dormitories at Mount Loretto, run by the New York City Catholic Charities. The fire, which for a time threatened the dormitories, was in the boys' section of the campus-like grounds. The home has about 850 children.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Thomas R. Sullivan said the guard, Edward Moresco, 18, of Oakwood, Staten Island, admitted to him and Fire Marshal Denis Hurley that he set the fire.

Moresco was jailed.

Denver Income Tax Is Being Proposed

DENVER (AP) — A state-imposed income tax for all persons who work in Denver — no matter where they live — was proposed Monday by the Budget and Finance Committee of Denver City Council. The proceeds would go to the city.

The council has been prohibited by the state Supreme Court from levying a local income tax.

Improvement of State Fair Grounds Planned

PUEBLO (AP) — State fair manager Clyde Fugate revealed Monday a $5 million plan for development of the fair, including the construction of a coliseum and industrial building.

Fugate said he will ask the Colorado Legislature this winter for $224,000 to start the first phase of the plan, under which several buildings will be remodeled and natural gas will be brought in.

Sheep's Clothing for Winter Is Planned

CASTLE CARROCK, England (AP) — Farmer William Wilson is putting his 3,000 sheep in sheep's clothing for the winter.

The sheep are being clad in special coats of jute sacking, made to Wilson's design at 70 cents each at an Edinburgh factory.

"They not only keep the sheep snug and warm," he said, "but they make the fleece thicker and softer."

NEWS for truck owners who need a new one now

Things Chevrolet has developed since the last time you bought to give you more for your money:

Double-wall construction. This feature of Chevrolet cabs and the Fleetside pickup body has two advantages. Insulation and sound-deadening material is sandwiched between the two layers of steel in the cab to give you more comfort; in the body, the lower inner wall acts as a buffer against load damage, preserving the outer appearance of the truck.

Suspension to fit the truck. Conventional half- and three-quarter-ton models have independent front suspension with variable rate coils in the rear. Variable rate coils do not "bottom out" as readily.

Mediums and heavies have I-beam suspension with variable-rate leaf springs. It automatically stiffens as the load increases—and vice versa. It means a smoother, flatter ride regardless of load, a better handling truck.

The right engine. Chevrolet never has been in better position to give you the type and size you need for maximum efficiency. Today there are many different capacities of gasoline and diesel Chevrolet truck engines—fours, sixes, V8's.

Stronger frames. Every conventional 1964 Chevrolet truck has a ladder-type frame. This type is more resilient, better able to give with the load and terrain. Its simple design also makes it easier to mount special bodies on the truck. Its riveted side rails are stronger.

Greater model selection. This time you're going to find it a simple matter to pick the exact type of Chevrolet truck for the kind of work you do. In delivery trucks, for instance, in addition to regular panels and pickups, we have eleven different sizes of ready-made walk-in vans, some with full-width rear doors.

Quality and value. Chevrolets today are a lot more truck than your money bought the last time, and yet the price tag is just about the same as 5 or 6 years ago. Call your Chevrolet dealer for information or for a demonstration.

Employes Protest Letter Mars Manitou Budget Meet

By SHIRLEY COCHRAN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

A quiet budget hearing in Manitou Springs was marred Tuesday by a protest letter signed by the majority of city employes regarding a proposed five per cent salary increase.

The letter, signed by 17 of the 28 regular city employes, was submitted to the city council Tuesday night at the onset of the first public hearing of the 1964 city budget.

Council members, as well as the 14 citizens who attended the hearing, displayed concern over the employes request that a higher salary increase be established, but no one was able to come up with a means of providing additional money.

The letter was not regarded by council members as a threat but only as an official complaint that the "token increase of five per cent is unrealistic and therefore unacceptable."

It was suggested in the letter that city council take action to bring the pay scale into line with that of the city of Colorado Springs and that automatic annual raises be incorporated into budget planning.

Mayor Earl Pitcock said the five per cent increase for 21 of the employes in 1964 was regarded basically as a cost of living increase and that it is unfortunate that additional funds are not available at this time to be earmarked for salaries.

The last salary boost for city employes was in 1960 when the budget provided for a $25 across the board increase for department heads and an hourly wage increase for other employes.

The first reading of the 1964 budget was unanimously approved by city council Tuesday and the second and final reading is set for 7:30 p.m. Tues., Oct. 29, at Memorial Hall.

The 1964 budget calls for a .31 mill increase which would set the total mill levy at 21.14 for Manitou Springs property owners, compared to 20.83 in 1953.

Of the total proposed mill levy, 16.26 mills is designated for general fund use and 4.88 for bonded indebtedness.

The proposed budget includes general fund expenditures in the amount of $216,904.27. Estimated revenues for 1964 total $107,990, which is nearly a $10,000 increase over the current budget.

Increase in revenues is attributed principally to the new Crystal Hills subdivision which has also helped boost the city valuation to $4,853,270. This is the first sizeable valuation increase in several years for Manitou Springs.

The largest increase in expenditures is for the Fire and Light Dept. and stands at $40,909.27, compared to $33,142.57. The jump is primarily due to the inclusion of a new $6,000 fire truck in the department budget.

Council members expressed pleasure over the budget which reflects a sizeable increase in revenue and only a slim mill increase.

Funds for the controversial $750,000 bond for the water improvement program were not included in the budget. Pitcock explained that the bond indebtedness cannot be included in the proposed budget until a court decision is reached.

A suit was filed in District Court in August by Edrice L. Hiatt and Laura M. Publow and "other interested parties" asking that the $750,000 water bond ordinance approved by the city council be declared null and void.

The case was dismissed by District Judge William M. Calvert on Sept. 13 on the grounds that the city had complied with the law in issuing bonds for a water improvement program.

According to Pitcock, the case has been appealed to a higher court and action to issue the bonds cannot be taken until a decision is reached.

WASHINGTON. (Special to Gazette Telegraph). — Pentagon officials are real pleased with the rapidity with which the services have handled the administrative "headaches" that come with the execution of the provisions of the new pay act. Only item not resolved is family separation allowance.

As of now, Defense does not expect to complete "paperwork" on subsistence allowances until the last of the year. Due to "reconsiderations," the word now is that 30,000 additional enlisted men will receive overseas duty pay. Defense must still clear away some questions relating to personnel assigned 30 days or more to shipboard duty or on temporary duty for the same period of time.

Included on the list for foreign duty pay are: Christmas Island, Guam, Ryukyu Islands; and in Hawaii, Molokai, Maui, Kure Island LTS, Kauai, UPOLUT PT LTS only, and French Frigate Shoals LTS.

Capt. Ray M. Pitts, USN retired, and presently a vice president of Special Projects Consultants, has been named a consultant to the chairman of Navy's Deep Submergence Systems Review Group. This group was formed after loss of the Thresher, having as its objective the inquiry into all feasible methods of locating and salvaging large bodies ranging from nose cones to submarines from any depth.

On the heels of a statement by Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, Navy's No. 1 atomic specialist, that atomic submarines were being held up by inefficiency of contractor performance, the Navy conceded that 31 submarines now under construction have been delayed because of flaws in workmanship.

Are the Navy and Marines really "lagging" behind the Army and Air Force not only in the number of Negro officers, but also in the ratings Negroes have achieved? Such is the tone of the report of the Civil Rights Commission. In earlier press statements on this subject the Army and Air Force took most of the impact for reputed discriminations.

House passes and sends to Senate HJR 475 to proclaim December 7, 1966, as Pearl Harbor Day in commemoration of the 25th anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor.

The 1963 report of Board of Visitors to Air Force Academy calls for a light plane flying indoctrination program at the Academy to provide for minimum of 10 flying hours for all cadets. Progress is being made in the reduction of unproductive harassing practices in the Fourth class system, and the Board noted its approval of the decision to allow Fourth class cadets Christmas leave. The Board gave a "pat on the back" to the Academy Superintendent's efforts to reduce the cost of cadet training thru good management, and commended the Superintendent and his entire staff for outstanding performance in directing the Academy.

ASSIST FROM PUEBLO—Mrs. Eleanor Oaks, chief deputy to Mrs. Harriet Beals, county clerk, displays the last available 1963 license plate in El Paso County (left) and the first of 1,500 license plates delivered here Tuesday from Pueblo County. A total of 64,000 state plates were ordered for this county's use in 1963 and Tuesday morning only 46 were in stock. An SOS to Pueblo County brought an additional supply which will be issued in this county for the balance of the year. Mrs. Oaks said only 57,763 plates were issued here in 1962, but that 90,000 plates are now on hand for 1964. An increase in passenger cars as well as trucks and mobile homes contributed to the depletion of the 1963 plates. The last plate pictured here—KD 4006 was issued to Mr. and Mrs. John F. Employes Protest Letter Mars Manitou Budget Meet

By SHIRLEY COCHRAN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

A quiet budget hearing in Manitou Springs was marred Tuesday by a protest letter signed by the majority of city employes regarding a proposed five per cent salary increase.

The letter, signed by 17 of the 28 regular city employes, was submitted to the city council Tuesday night at the onset of the first public hearing of the 1964 city budget.

Council members, as well as the 14 citizens who attended the hearing, displayed concern over the employes request that a higher salary increase be established, but no one was able to come up with a means of providing additional money.

The letter was not regarded by council members as a threat but only as an official complaint that the "token increase of five per cent is unrealistic and therefore unacceptable."

It was suggested in the letter that city council take action to bring the pay scale into line with that of the city of Colorado Springs and that automatic annual raises be incorporated into budget planning.

Mayor Earl Pitcock said the five per cent increase for 21 of the employes in 1964 was regarded basically as a cost of living increase and that it is unfortunate that additional funds are not available at this time to be earmarked for salaries.

The last salary boost for city employes was in 1960 when the budget provided for a $25 across the board increase for department heads and an hourly wage increase for other employes.

The first reading of the 1964 budget was unanimously approved by city council Tuesday and the second and final reading is set for 7:30 p.m. Tues., Oct. 29, at Memorial Hall.

The 1964 budget calls for a .31 mill increase which would set the total mill levy at 21.14 for Manitou Springs property owners, compared to 20.83 in 1953.

Of the total proposed mill levy, 16.26 mills is designated for general fund use and 4.88 for bonded indebtedness.

The proposed budget includes general fund expenditures in the amount of $216,904.27. Estimated revenues for 1964 total $107,990, which is nearly a $10,000 increase over the current budget.

Increase in revenues is attributed principally to the new Crystal Hills subdivision which has also helped boost the city valuation to $4,853,270. This is the first sizeable valuation increase in several years for Manitou Springs.

The largest increase in expenditures is for the Fire and Light Dept. and stands at $40,909.27, compared to $33,142.57. The jump is primarily due to the inclusion of a new $6,000 fire truck in the department budget.

Council members expressed pleasure over the budget which reflects a sizeable increase in revenue and only a slim mill increase.

Funds for the controversial $750,000 bond for the water improvement program were not included in the budget. Pitcock explained that the bond indebtedness cannot be included in the proposed budget until a court decision is reached.

A suit was filed in District Court in August by Edrice L. Hiatt and Laura M. Publow and "other interested parties" asking that the $750,000 water bond ordinance approved by the city council be declared null and void.

The case was dismissed by District Judge William M. Calvert on Sept. 13 on the grounds that the city had complied with the law in issuing bonds for a water improvement program.

According to Pitcock, the case has been appealed to a higher court and action to issue the bonds cannot be taken until a decision is reached.

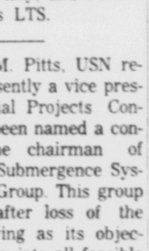
WASHINGTON. (Special to Gazette Telegraph). — Pentagon officials are real pleased with the rapidity with which the services have handled the administrative "headaches" that come with the execution of the provisions of the new pay act. Only item not resolved is family separation allowance.



As of now, Defense does not expect to complete "paperwork" on subsistence allowances until the last of the year. Due to "reconsiderations," the word now is that 30,000 additional enlisted men will receive overseas duty pay. Defense must still clear away some questions relating to personnel assigned 30 days or more to shipboard duty or on temporary duty for the same period of time.

Included on the list for foreign duty pay are: Christmas Island, Guam, Ryukyu Islands; and in Hawaii, Molokai, Maui, Kure Island LTS, Kauai, UPOLUT PT LTS only, and French Frigate Shoals LTS.

Capt. Ray M. Pitts, USN retired, and presently a vice president of Special Projects Consultants, has been named a consultant to the chairman of Navy's Deep Submergence Systems Review Group. This group was formed after loss of the Thresher, having as its objective the inquiry into all feasible methods of locating and salvaging large bodies ranging from nose cones to submarines from any depth.

On the heels of a statement by Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, Navy's No. 1 atomic specialist, that atomic submarines were being held up by inefficiency of contractor performance, the Navy conceded that 31 submarines now under construction have been delayed because of flaws in workmanship.

Are the Navy and Marines really "lagging" behind the Army and Air Force not only in the number of Negro officers, but also in the ratings Negroes have achieved? Such is the tone of the report of the Civil Rights Commission. In earlier press statements on this subject the Army and Air Force took most of the impact for reputed discriminations.

Dillon was originally charged on two counts; confidence game and conspiracy, and was due to be tried Tuesday.

However, the trial date was vacated when Dillon changed his plea from not guilty to guilty. The confidence game charge was dismissed.

ASSIST FROM PUEBLO—Mrs. Eleanor Oaks, chief deputy to Mrs. Harriet Beals, county clerk, displays the last available 1963 license plate in El Paso County (left) and the first of 1,500 license plates delivered here Tuesday from Pueblo County. A total of 64,000 state plates were ordered for this county's use in 1963 and Tuesday morning only 46 were in stock. An SOS to Pueblo County brought an additional supply which will be issued in this county for the balance of the year. Mrs. Oaks said only 57,763 plates were issued here in 1962, but that 90,000 plates are now on hand for 1964. An increase in passenger cars as well as trucks and mobile homes contributed to the depletion of the 1963 plates. The last plate pictured here—KD 4006 was issued to Mr. and Mrs. John F. Walsh, 217 Cheyenne Blvd. Tuesday and adorns a brand new 1964 model automobile. The first of the Pueblo County Plates— GU 7501 was sold Tuesday to Joe M. Bontrager, 115 N. 31st St., for a 1949 model car. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

United Fund Drive Soars To Half Way Mark Today

The United Fund drive soared half way to completion at the second report meeting Wednesday morning in the drive to raise $480,000. The report was the signal for two more bulbs to glow on the Mount Manitou Incline. Seven of the fourteen bulbs, representing $34,000 apiece will burn tonight.

The Business and Industry Division, the Public Service Division, Ent Air Force Base and the United States Air Force Academy shared the spotlight at the halfway report meeting.

The Public Service Division thru which schools, clubs and government offices are solicited reported $21,056, a total of 43 per cent of the quota. Freyschlag praised employees, faculty members, and students of School District 11 for a combined pledge of $17,652.

K. G. Freyschlag, campaign chairman announced that two firms boosted the Business and Industry division substantially since the last report meeting. The Fashion Bar company and employees contributed $1088 and the employees of the Colorado Springs National Bank pledged $2478. The gift of the management of that bank will be included in the bank clearing house check later in the campaign.

Miss Ruth Richards, treasurer of the employee GO (Give Once) Club, was introduced by Col. Broun H. Mayall, board member of the United Fund, who praised her for her leadership in the bank's drive. The contribution was an average of $30.00 per employee.

The United States Air Force Academy and Ent Air Force Base each reported pledges of $6,000, $9,433, respectively.

Also singled out for special recognition by Freyschlag is the Service Club Division headed by Col. Howard Cloud and the board and staff of the Boy Scouts. Audited returns for this division total $22,618, 84 per cent of the quota.

Man Pleads Guilty to Reduced Charge

Obide Williams, 28, originally charged with assault with a deadly weapon, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of assault and battery in District Court Tuesday and had his case continued until Nov. 1 for pre-sentence investigation.

Williams, of 17 W. Costilla St., had originally pleaded not guilty to a charge alleging he assaulted Bruce Leon Anderson, 24, of 643 E. Maple St., with a straight-edged razor on Sept. 3.

According to police reports issued at the time, Anderson required 80 stitches in his chest and neck after he got in a fight with Williams over a girl. The fight took place in an alley in the 300 block of E. Cimarron St.

Judge Hunter D. Hardeman dismissed a charge of simple robbery against Williams at the request of Deputy District Attorney Jack Roeser. A robbery charge against Pauline Marie Gallegos in a companion case was also dismissed.

Adolph Kruger, 30, of Los Angeles, Calif., who had pleaded not guilty to a charge of burglary, changed his plea to guilty and had his case continued until Oct. 18 for the taking of testimony.

Kruger had originally been scheduled for trial Tuesday, but on his change of plea the trial date was vacated.

He is accused of the Aug. 9 burglary of E-Z Clothing and Jewelers Inc., 112 S. Nevada Ave.

Mrs. Hollister was sentenced to six months in the county jail; however, Judge McShane placed her on probation for the period.

R. George Silvola was the attorney for the defendant.

Court Clerk Takes Pill Overdose

A Municipal Court clerk took an overdose of sleeping pills Tuesday and was in fair condition this morning at Memorial Hospital, it was reported.

Police said Donn R. Chapman, 49, of 928 N. Weber St. was undergoing intensive therapy at the hospital.

Officers John E. Humphrey and Kenneth L. Trapp were summoned to the home of Hedwig Shipley, 204 E. Boulder St. Tuesday night. She told the officers that Chapman had come to her door and asked for help.

Humphrey and Trapp said Chapman was lying on the front lawn when they arrived. They said Chapman told them he had taken 38 sleeping pills.

Detectives John C. Orwig and Thomas Kosley Jr. said they contacted Mrs. Chapman and she told them that she and her husband had a quarrel Tuesday about him drinking.

Junction Next Chore for T-Birds After Close Win From Wildcats

Wasson's Gib Funk turned his squad's attention toward Grand Junction early this week after terming vanquished Pueblo Central "as good a team as we've met" and expressing pleasure over the Thunderbirds' performance in last Friday's 13-12 victory.

"Central was better defensively than we had anticipated," the Wasson coach said. "They were set up to stop our middle game but they stopped us off tackle and outside as well. We just didn't do much running against them."

Funk said that he was pleased with the defensive efforts of his own team as well and the sentiment was seconded by line coach Dick Westbay. "Our kids did a real good job defensively," Westbay said. "After that one drive (when the Wildcats scored early in the game) they didn't do much against us on the ground."

Both Funk and Westbay had special praise for guard Roy Gault and defensive back, John Wickham. In addition to blocking the punt that proved the turning point of the game, Gault was a defensive fireball in the middle of the line and was instrumental in halting the Wildcats' inside game.

Wickham brought oohs and aahs from the crowd with several vicious tackles and was an all-around outstanding player defensively. This, despite the fact that he is one ot the squad's smallest players at 140 pounds.

This Friday, the T-Birds will be attempting to stretch a current win streak to five and their string of consecutive conference victories to 13. But to do so, the local team will have to overcome the "Western Slope jinx" which has sidetracked many a favored club while visiting Grand Junction.

Altho the Tigers have been less than impressive in league play to date, they still came up with a 7-0 victory over Pueblo East on their home field last Friday. Earlier, they made Centennial, currently tied for the lead, scramble furiously to capture a 20-12 verdict on that same field. In pre-league play the Tigers won three straight and thus will enter Friday's game with an overall record of 4-2.

Funk reported that Wasson will make the trip "in no worse physical condition than we were a week ago." The Thunderbirds will still be without the three key players injured in the Pueblo South contest two weeks back—but then they are faced with missing them the remainder of the campaign. No one, however, was injured in the Central game which, strangely enough, is often the case when the football is hard-hitting as it was that night.

The Wasson coach did say he was removing fullback Mike Teague from contact work this week in an attempt to allow a bad leg bruise a chance to heal somewhat. Teague has been playing with the injury since early in the campaign but last Friday was the first time that he was noticeably slowed by it.

Nevertheless Teague again paced the Wasson rushing game with 49 yards in 18 carries to boost his total for the season to 557 yards in 119 carries. At that rate he is averaging 92 yards per game and 20 carries per contest.

Teague also is tied for the scoring lead with 26 points and has scored the most touchdowns, four.

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Even given the finest diamond in the world, it takes experience and craftmanship to smooth the rough edges and turn out a gem.

So it is with football players, also. But there's a real "gem" in the making at the Air Force Academy.

Four years ago a muscular young man of near ideal athletic build — 6-1 and 185 pounds— came to the Academy from the state of Washington. It was easy to see that Parke Hinman had fine potential; he was the only cadet in the short history of the AFA who passed the physical aptitude exams with a perfect score. He had almost unbelievable spring in his legs, dexterity and quick reflexes, and strength in his excellently toned muscles.

Parke, tho, was almost solely interested in basketball. And a fine player he was. But having played one season of varsity ball at Washington State before transfering to the Air Force, his eligibility in the winter sport ran out as a junior.

Thus, last spring Coach Ben Martin welcomed Hinman to his football squad for spring practice, getting extra roadwork running back and forth between the gridiron and the cinder track where he was also a star performer with the AFA harriers in the broad jump, hop-skip-and-jump, and javelin.

Football wasn't entirely new to Hinman as he had played during his high school days at White Swan, Wash. But that had been several years ago, and it was only natural that Parke looked a little rusty at the game.

Martin, tho, recognized the natural talent in the 23-year-old senior. He was perhaps as fast as anyone on the team, even exchanging the shorts and T-shirt of basketball for the heavy pads of football. And Hinman could undoubtedly jump higher than any other player on the Falcons roster.

It was also in Martin's plans to give his All-America candidate for quarterback, Terry Isaacson, as much rest as possible on defense so that he could concentrate on running the AFA's Flexible-T attack. So it was decided to give Hinman a chance at playing defensive safety, replacing the quarterback when the ball changed hands.

In workouts last spring, Hinman was probably a little too eager. Often he was caught charging into the middle of the play, only to be caught off-guard when the pattern changed and he found he should have zagged when he zigged and touchdown passes went over his head. He learned that it's far more dangerous to be caught out of position on the football field than to let a fast break get past him on the basketball court.

But it's the rule rather than the exception with the Cadets that learning comes quick. And before long, Hinman was erasing his mistakes in practice.

When the season's opener came this fall, Parke was listed among the starters on defense for the Falcons. His reactions, speed and leg spring had paid off and Martin was willing to risk his lack of experience against his physical ability and natural desire.

In the first two games, he was nearly a forgotten man deep in the AFA defensive backfield. Washington completed five of eight passes, but only for a total of 35 yards on short ones. And against Colorado State University, the visitors hardly had a chance to do anything with the Falcons running up a 69-0 score.

But then the next week the Air Force traveled to Dallas for a meeting with Southern Methodist, then ranked first in the nation in passing. And Hinman made one mistake which led to SMU's lone touchdown and a 10-0 defeat. He waited for the ball to come to him on a pass that appeared as a likely interception, but instead the SMU receiver leaped high and tipped the ball away for a 30-yard gain to within the Air Force 10 yard line.

Last week, however, Hinman came of age as a varsity football player. He wisely remained in position to guard against the long pass and covered Nebraska's fast ends and backs as they tried to dent the Academy's air defense.

Then late in the first quarter at Lincoln, Hinman leaped high to pick off a Dennis Claridge pass at the AFA eight yard line. The highly favored Cornhuskers had twice penetrated near the Air Force 20, but this time the interception halted the heavy Huskers in their tracks.

The reversal by Hinman also sparked the Falcons into action. After Parke's catch, Isaacson replaced him on offense and started the Cadets rolling. With a 42-yard aerial to halfback Dick Czarnota as the key play, the Falcons traveled 92 yards in 11 plays for the first score of the game.

It's history now that the Air Force passed their way to another TD within the last four minutes of the game to upset mighty Nebraska, 17-13. But thanks a great deal to the defensive coverage of Hinman and his mates, NU's All-America nominee Claridge was limited to only four completions in 10 tries for a mere 44 yards.

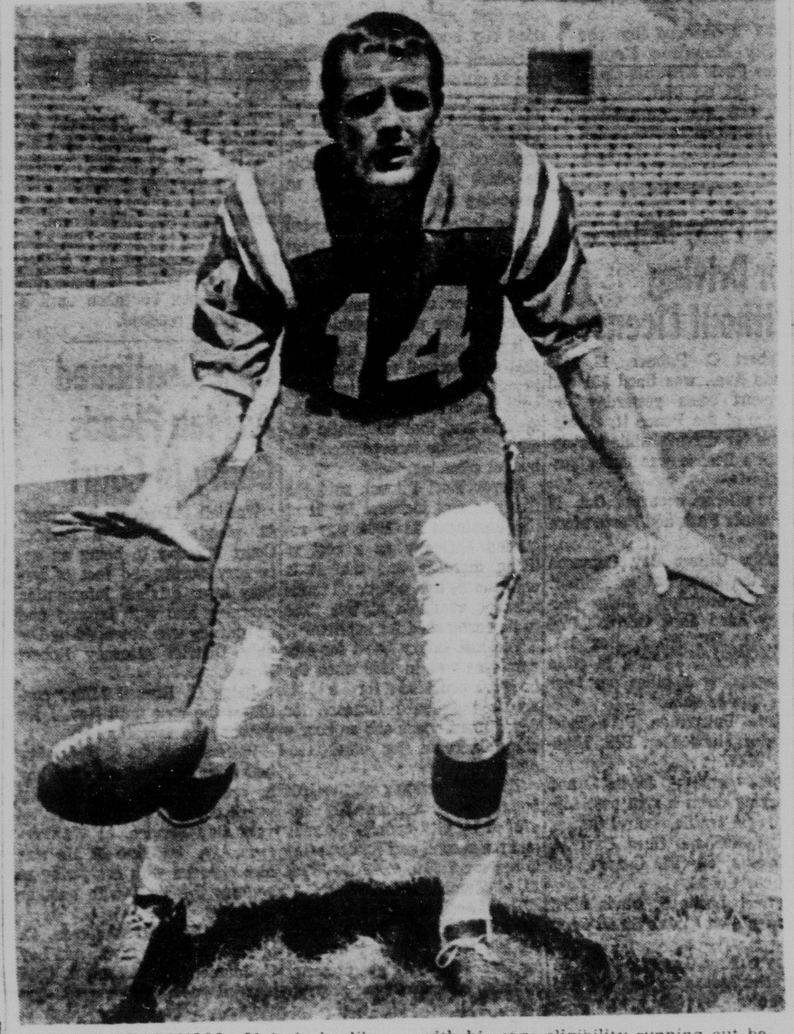
Hinman — plus another year of experience for the other backs — is the only difference between this season's pass defense and the leaky coverage the Falcons had last year.

This week, tho, comes another stiff test for this revamped defense. The Air Force travels this Saturday to College Park, Md., and the University of Maryland has one of the nation's top passers in quarterback Dick Shiner. Should the Falcons need any reminder, Shiner faced them two years ago in Denver and completed no less than 11 of 21 attempts for 196 yards and two touchdowns in the 21-0 defeat.

That was the last time the AFA was held scoreless until this year's SMU game — a span of 18 games.

This season Maryland has yet to win a game in four outings, but still Shiner makes the Terps an ever-dangerous opponent. He has completed 36 of 76 passes for 357 yards and three touchdowns. Shiner has also run with the ball 41 times and picked up 54 yards.

So don't be surprised if this Saturday a couple of guys named Hinman and Shiner have a clash of talents. Oddsmakers have already said that their money rides with Hinman.



WRONG SEASON???—If it looks like Parke Hinman of the Air Force Academy is dribbling a football in basketball style—that's right. The 185-pound senior from White Swan, Wash., has been playing only basketball during his three previous years at the AFA, but with his cage eligibility running out because of play with another school, Hinman has taken up football with the Falcons. Exceptional physical ability has earned Parke a starting berth on the AFA defensive unit as a safetyman.

Wilkinson Bothered By Charges

By NORMAN ROWLAND

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma football Coach Bud Wilkinson, obviously upset over charges that he was looking for a scapegoat when he dismissed halfback Joe Don Looney, said "it was just something that had to be done."

Looney said if he had had a good day against Texas, and if Oklahoma had won, 'everything would have been okay." And his father, Don Looney of Fort Worth, Tex., a former star at Texas Christian said, "somebody's got to be the fall guy for losing to Texas. I guess Joe Don is it."

Wilkinson disagreed Tuesday. "I don't think Joe Don lost the Texas game for us," Wilkinson said. "No individual is going to lose a game by himself."

Wilkinson said the decision to oust Looney, who led the nation in punting last season and was fifth in yards gained rushing, resulted from an accumulation of incidents.

But the final decision, he said, came when several team leaders came to his office Monday morning.

"They told me they thought the presence of Looney on the squad was hurting the team," Wilkinson said.

"Until then, I had no intention of kicking Joe Don off the team," Wilkinson said. "But I had an understanding with the team leaders that if Joe Don's attitude became infectious and began hurting the team, he would have to go."

Wilkinson said he had been concerned with Looney's attitude toward practice ever since the 224-pound speedster transferred to Oklahoma from Cameron Junior College at Lawton, Okla.

"I tried to talk him into leaving the team after last season," Wilkinson said. "I told him I didn't think he would be able to make it because of his attitude.

"My biggest regret is that I allowed him to come back to the team this year. But he wanted to come back and I let him. This way, it's harder on Joe Don.

Terrors Hope to Snap Back Against South Altho Cool May Miss Homecoming Game

Behind for the first time this season — in the league standings, that is — the once-beaten Terrors of Palmer High will be out for a little blood-letting revenge this Saturday afternoon in their annual Homecoming game.

This weekend the Terrors must snap back with a victory over Pueblo South if they intend to remain in the race for South Central League honors. One loss hasn't eliminated Palmer, but it's unlikely that any SCL team will take the title with two defeats.

Facing the league's toughest at the end of the schedule, the Tribe has its work cut out. But by eliminating the mistakes that have plagued them all season, the Terrors would have a definite chance to win their first championship since the division of schools in Colorado Springs.

"We still have as good a chance as anybody," Coach Bill Westbay said this week after his Terrors dropped a 7-6 decision to Pueblo Centennial last weekend — the first defeat of the entire season.

"The team had several opportunities to score again, but we couldn't seem to take advantage of them," Westbay continued. Palmer was stopped in the shadow of the Centennial goal line twice in the fourth period last weekend, but each time key penalties stopped their momentum.

This week the Terrors may be without their ace fullback Ray Cool, who was injured in the Centennial contest and at best will be available only for limited duty against South's Colts. Cool, Palmer's leading runner with 474 yards and a 5.3 average, twisted a knee at Pueblo last Friday night and has been carrying a cast on the leg during the early part of this week.

Westbay said he will have to wait on a doctor's report on the injury sometime today before deciding whether Cool will be ready to play. If the senior co-captain is unable to run, there probably will be a shift in the Palmer backfield which has worked as a unit thru the first six games.

Hard-running Jim Glaskin, who alternated at fullback last last year, could be moved into Cool's slot with halfback Ron Cheek or Wardell Patterson jumping into Glaskin's place among the starters, but the Terrors would definitely miss Cool's play both on offense and defense.

Westaby warned that altho South has won only one game in six this season and has yet to dent the victory column in South Central action, they "have a big team that can hurt you and give plenty of trouble all thru any game."

The Palmer pilot reminded his team that South played league-leading Wasson to a 14-12 score before falling in the final minutes of the game, and that the bulky Colts sent several of the Thunderbirds limping off the field. Wasson lost three regulars for the season in their game against South.

As for the Centennial game, which sent undefeated teams against each other, Westbay blaimed key penalties and their only fumble of the game on the loss. In the second quarter the Terrors blew a chance on the five yard line with a fumble, and twice in the final period they marched inside Centennial's 20 only to be driven back by penalties.

This has been a familiar story for the Terrors this season, however, altho before they have been able to recover with only one close game on the books. This fall Palmer has come close to setting all-time records with infractions.

In six games they have been tooted 60 times for 577 yards. That's an average of 10 penalties per game and nearly 100 yards in every contest!

Junction Next Chore for T-Birds After Close Win From Wildcats

Wasson's Gib Funk turned his squad's attention toward Grand Junction early this week after terming vanquished Pueblo Central "as good a team as we've met" and expressing pleasure over the Thunderbirds' performance in last Friday's 13-12 victory.

"Central was better defensively than we had anticipated," the Wasson coach said. "They were set up to stop our middle game but they stopped us off tackle and outside as well. We just didn't do much running against them."

Funk said that he was pleased with the defensive efforts of his own team as well and the sentiment was seconded by line coach Dick Westbay. "Our kids did a real good job defensively," Westbay said. "After that one drive (when the Wildcats scored early in the game) they didn't do much against us on the ground."

Both Funk and Westbay had special praise for guard Roy Gault and defensive back, John Wickham. In addition to blocking the punt that proved the turning point of the game, Gault was a defensive fireball in the middle of the line and was instrumental in halting the Wildcats' inside game.

Wickham brought oohs and aahs from the crowd with several vicious tackles and was an all-around outstanding player defensively. This, despite the fact that he is one ot the squad's smallest players at 140 pounds.

This Friday, the T-Birds will be attempting to stretch a current win streak to five and their string of consecutive conference victories to 13. But to do so, the local team will have to overcome the "Western Slope jinx" which has sidetracked many a favored club while visiting Grand Junction.

Altho the Tigers have been less than impressive in league play to date, they still came up with a 7-0 victory over Pueblo East on their home field last Friday. Earlier, they made Centennial, currently tied for the lead, scramble furiously to capture a 20-12 verdict on that same field. In pre-league play the Tigers won three straight and thus will enter Friday's game with an overall record of 4-2.

Funk reported that Wasson will make the trip "in no worse physical condition than we were a week ago." The Thunderbirds will still be without the three key players injured in the Pueblo South contest two weeks back—but then they are faced with missing them the remainder of the campaign. No one, however, was injured in the Central game which, strangely enough, is often the case when the football is hard-hitting as it was that night.

The Wasson coach did say he was removing fullback Mike Teague from contact work this week in an attempt to allow a bad leg bruise a chance to heal somewhat. Teague has been playing with the injury since early in the campaign but last Friday was the first time that he was noticeably slowed by it.

Nevertheless Teague again paced the Wasson rushing game with 49 yards in 18 carries to boost his total for the season to 557 yards in 119 carries. At that rate he is averaging 92 yards per game and 20 carries per contest.

Teague also is tied for the scoring lead with 26 points and has scored the most touchdowns, four.

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Even given the finest diamond in the world, it takes experience and craftmanship to smooth the rough edges and turn out a gem.

So it is with football players, also. But there's a real "gem" in the making at the Air Force Academy.

Four years ago a muscular young man of near ideal athletic build — 6-1 and 185 pounds— came to the Academy from the state of Washington. It was easy to see that Parke Hinman had fine potential; he was the only cadet in the short history of the AFA who passed the physical aptitude exams with a perfect score. He had almost unbelievable spring in his legs, dexterity and quick reflexes, and strength in his excellently toned muscles.

Parke, tho, was almost solely interested in basketball. And a fine player he was. But having played one season of varsity ball at Washington State before transfering to the Air Force, his eligibility in the winter sport ran out as a junior.

Thus, last spring Coach Ben Martin welcomed Hinman to his football squad for spring practice, getting extra roadwork running back and forth between the gridiron and the cinder track where he was also a star performer with the AFA harriers in the broad jump, hop-skip-and-jump, and javelin.

Football wasn't entirely new to Hinman as he had played during his high school days at White Swan, Wash. But that had been several years ago, and it was only natural that Parke looked a little rusty at the game.

Martin, tho, recognized the natural talent in the 23-year-old senior. He was perhaps as fast as anyone on the team, even exchanging the shorts and T-shirt of basketball for the heavy pads of football. And Hinman could undoubtedly jump higher than any other player on the Falcons roster.

It was also in Martin's plans to give his All-America candidate for quarterback, Terry Isaacson, as much rest as possible on defense so that he could concentrate on running the AFA's Flexible-T attack. So it was decided to give Hinman a chance at playing defensive safety, replacing the quarterback when the ball changed hands.

In workouts last spring, Hinman was probably a little too eager. Often he was caught charging into the middle of the play, only to be caught off-guard when the pattern changed and he found he should have zagged when he zigged and touchdown passes went over his head. He learned that it's far more dangerous to be caught out of position on the football field than to let a fast break get past him on the basketball court.

But it's the rule rather than the exception with the Cadets that learning comes quick. And before long, Hinman was erasing his mistakes in practice.

When the season's opener came this fall, Parke was listed among the starters on defense for the Falcons. His reactions, speed and leg spring had paid off and Martin was willing to risk his lack of experience against his physical ability and natural desire.

In the first two games, he was nearly a forgotten man deep in the AFA defensive backfield. Washington completed five of eight passes, but only for a total of 35 yards on short ones. And against Colorado State University, the visitors hardly had a chance to do anything with the Falcons running up a 69-0 score.

But then the next week the Air Force traveled to Dallas for a meeting with Southern Methodist, then ranked first in the nation in passing. And Hinman made one mistake which led to SMU's lone touchdown and a 10-0 defeat. He waited for the ball to come to him on a pass that appeared as a likely interception, but instead the SMU receiver leaped high and tipped the ball away for a 30-yard gain to within the Air Force 10 yard line.

Last week, however, Hinman came of age as a varsity football player. He wisely remained in position to guard against the long pass and covered Nebraska's fast ends and backs as they tried to dent the Academy's air defense.

Then late in the first quarter at Lincoln, Hinman leaped high to pick off a Dennis Claridge pass at the AFA eight yard line. The highly favored Cornhuskers had twice penetrated near the Air Force 20, but this time the interception halted the heavy Huskers in their tracks.

The reversal by Hinman also sparked the Falcons into action. After Parke's catch, Isaacson replaced him on offense and started the Cadets rolling. With a 42-yard aerial to halfback Dick Czarnota as the key play, the Falcons traveled 92 yards in 11 plays for the first score of the game.

It's history now that the Air Force passed their way to another TD within the last four minutes of the game to upset mighty Nebraska, 17-13. But thanks a great deal to the defensive coverage of Hinman and his mates, NU's All-America nominee Claridge was limited to only four completions in 10 tries for a mere 44 yards.

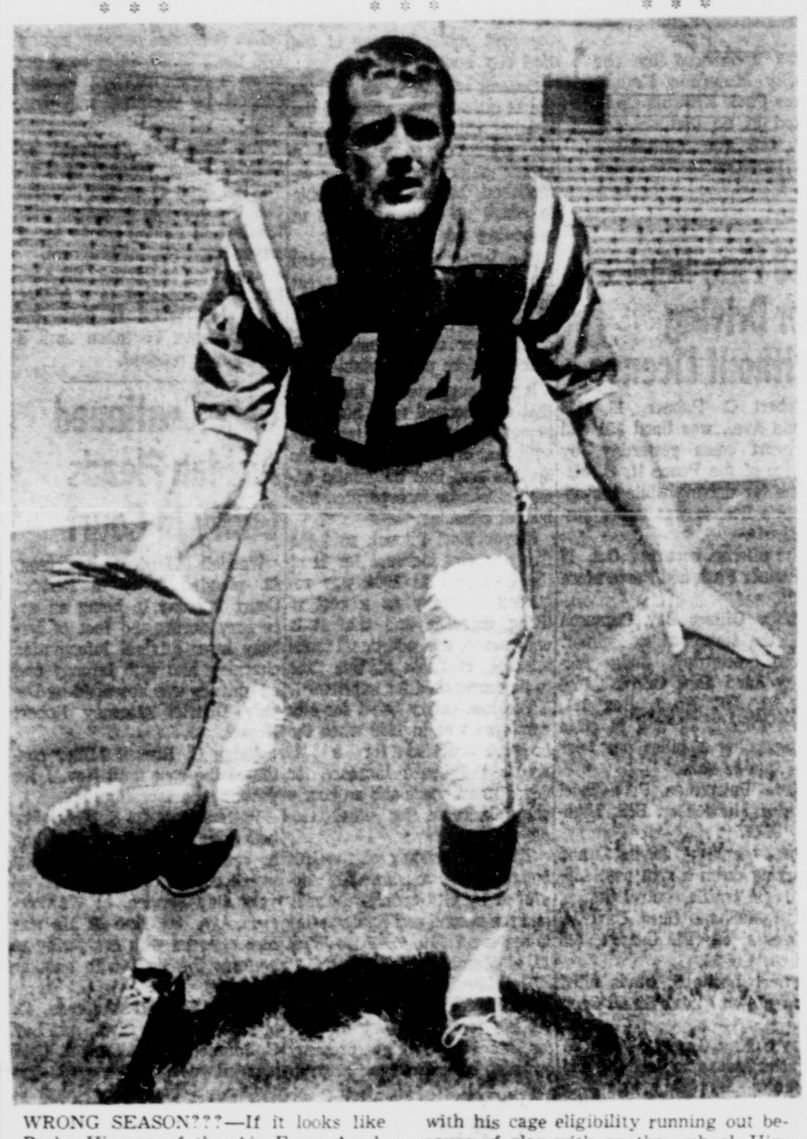
Hinman — plus another year of experience for the other backs — is the only difference between this season's pass defense and the leaky coverage the Falcons had last year.

This week, tho, comes another stiff test for this revamped defense. The Air Force travels this Saturday to College Park, Md., and the University of Maryland has one of the nation's top passers in quarterback Dick Shiner. Should the Falcons need any reminder, Shiner faced them two years ago in Denver and completed no less than 11 of 21 attempts for 196 yards and two touchdowns in the 21-0 defeat.

That was the last time the AFA was held scoreless until this year's SMU game — a span of 18 games.

This season Maryland has yet to win a game in four outings, but still Shiner makes the Terps an ever-dangerous opponent. He has completed 36 of 76 passes for 357 yards and three touchdowns. Shiner has also run with the ball 41 times and picked up 54 yards.

So don't be surprised if this Saturday a couple of guys named Hinman and Shiner have a clash of talents. Oddsmakers have already said that their money rides with Hinman.



WRONG SEASON???—If it looks like Parke Hinman of the Air Force Academy is dribbling a football in basketball style—that's right. The 185-pound senior from White Swan, Wash., has been playing only basketball during his three previous years at the AFA, but with his cage eligibility running out because of play with another school, Hinman has taken up football with the Falcons. Exceptional physical ability has earned Parke a starting berth on the AFA defensive unit as a safetyman.

Wilkinson Bothered By Charges

By NORMAN ROWLAND

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma football Coach Bud Wilkinson, obviously upset over charges that he was looking for a scapegoat when he dismissed halfback Joe Don Looney, said "it was just something that had to be done."

Looney said if he had had a good day against Texas, and if Oklahoma had won, 'everything would have been okay." And his father, Don Looney of Fort Worth, Tex., a former star at Texas Christian said, "somebody's got to be the fall guy for losing to Texas. I guess Joe Don is it."

Wilkinson disagreed Tuesday. "I don't think Joe Don lost the Texas game for us," Wilkinson said. "No individual is going to lose a game by himself."

Wilkinson said the decision to oust Looney, who led the nation in punting last season and was fifth in yards gained rushing, resulted from an accumulation of incidents.

But the final decision, he said, came when several team leaders came to his office Monday morning.

"They told me they thought the presence of Looney on the squad was hurting the team," Wilkinson said.

"Until then, I had no intention of kicking Joe Don off the team," Wilkinson said. "But I had an understanding with the team leaders that if Joe Don's attitude became infectious and began hurting the team, he would have to go."

Wilkinson said he had been concerned with Looney's attitude toward practice ever since the 224-pound speedster transferred to Oklahoma from Cameron Junior College at Lawton, Okla.

"I tried to talk him into leaving the team after last season," Wilkinson said. "I told him I didn't think he would be able to make it because of his attitude.

"My biggest regret is that I allowed him to come back to the team this year. But he wanted to come back and I let him. This way, it's harder on Joe Don.

Behind for the first time this season — in the league standings, that is — the once-beaten Terrors of Palmer High will be out for a little blood-letting revenge this Saturday afternoon in their annual Homecoming game.

This weekend the Terrors must snap back with a victory over Pueblo South if they intend to remain in the race for South Central League honors. One loss hasn't eliminated Palmer, but it's unlikely that any SCL team will take the title with two defeats.

Facing the league's toughest at the end of the schedule, the Tribe has its work cut out. But by eliminating the mistakes that have plagued them all season, the Terrors would have a definite chance to win their first championship since the division of schools in Colorado Springs.

"We still have as good a chance as anybody," Coach Bill Westbay said this week after his Terrors dropped a 7-6 decision to Pueblo Centennial last weekend — the first defeat of the entire season.

"The team had several opportunities to score again, but we couldn't seem to take advantage of them," Westbay continued. Palmer was stopped in the shadow of the Centennial goal line twice in the fourth period last weekend, but each time key penalties stopped their momentum.

This week the Terrors may be without their ace fullback Ray Cool, who was injured in the Centennial contest and at best will be available only for limited duty against South's Colts. Cool, Palmer's leading runner with 474 yards and a 5.3 average, twisted a knee at Pueblo last Friday night and has been carrying a cast on the leg during the early part of this week.

Westbay said he will have to wait on a doctor's report on the injury sometime today before deciding whether Cool will be ready to play. If the senior co-captain is unable to run, there probably will be a shift in the Palmer backfield which has worked as a unit thru the first six games.

Hard-running Jim Glaskin, who alternated at fullback last last year, could be moved into Cool's slot with halfback Ron Cheek or Wardell Patterson jumping into Glaskin's place among the starters, but the Terrors would definitely miss Cool's play both on offense and defense.

Westaby warned that altho South has won only one game in six this season and has yet to dent the victory column in South Central action, they "have a big team that can hurt you and give plenty of trouble all thru any game."

The Palmer pilot reminded his team that South played league-leading Wasson to a 14-12 score before falling in the final minutes of the game, and that the bulky Colts sent several of the Thunderbirds limping off the field. Wasson lost three regulars for the season in their game against South.

As for the Centennial game, which sent undefeated teams against each other, Westbay blaimed key penalties and their only fumble of the game on the loss. In the second quarter the Terrors blew a chance on the five yard line with a fumble, and twice in the final period they marched inside Centennial's 20 only to be driven back by penalties.

This has been a familiar story for the Terrors this season, however, altho before they have been able to recover with only one close game on the books. This fall Palmer has come close to setting all-time records with infractions.

In six games they have been tooted 60 times for 577 yards. That's an average of 10 penalties per game and nearly 100 yards in every contest!

Frosh at Wyoming . . .

All Academy Teams on Road This Weekend

Not a single home contest is on the slate this weekend at the Air Force Academy with football teams on the varsity, junior varsity and freshman levels all hitting the road. The other teams in action will have the AFA cross-country squad traveling to Kearney, Neb., Saturday, and the soccer team taking on Navy and Annapolis on Friday.

With a much-needed rest under their pads, Coach "Doc" Blanchard's Falcon Freshmen squad saddles up this week to meet the Cowboys of Wyoming. The frosh, much pummeled by the varsity squad in preparing them for their weekend tilts, have had little chance to polish up their own offense, and consequently have yet to post a victory after two outings.

The trip to Laramie will be the last road game for the freshman, as they will return to the Academy for four straight home stands, starting with a Colorado State University match, Oct. 25.

Next stop for Coach Jim Bowman's winning wizards is Grand Rapids, Mich., where the Falcon Jay-Vee's will play Grand Rapids J.C. there Saturday.

Last Saturday, Bowman's squad tallied their third consecutive win, downing McCook College of McCook, Neb., 26-13. Falcon fans who were pitying Ben Martin's squad for having to wage a David-And-Goliath battle against Nebraska can spare a little sympathy for the Jay-Vee's. They, too, found themselves facing a tough McCook line that averaged 240 pounds from end to end. Like the varsity, tho, Bowman's squad emerged like victorious Davids.

In two other tilts, the Jay-Vees downed their opponents, 54-6 and 49-0.

Last Saturday the soccer team hosted Colorado College at the Academy and won handily, 4-1. It was Strickland's first win after losing four straight to a contingent of foes that included defending national champion St. Louis University.

In a rarity of scheduling, the Falcon soccer squad will also meet the Black Knights of West Point this year when they engage them at Chicago, Nov. 2, where both squads will journey for the Air Force-Army football classic.

Coming out of a week's retirement, the AFA cross country team will travel to Falcon-stunned Nebraska, Saturday, to see if they can pick up where the football squad left off.

NBA Franchise

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Walter Van Camp, managing director of a Seattle civic promotion agency, said Tuesday studies are being made concerning the possibility of obtaining a National Basketball League franchise for this West Coast city.

"Still looking for their first win, Coach Arne Arnesen's harriers will try to find it at the expense of Nebraska (Kearney) State Teachers College, their third opponent of the year.

In two earlier meets, the cross country squad tied with Western Michigan, and lost to the Aggies of Oklahoma State University.

Sno-Jet Ski Club To Meet Tonight

The Sno-Jet Ski Club will meet at 8 tonight at the Patty Jewett Club House, instead of on Thursday night as previously planned.

Bill Mann, president, said members and prospective members are invited to attend the meeeting to discuss plans for the skiing season.

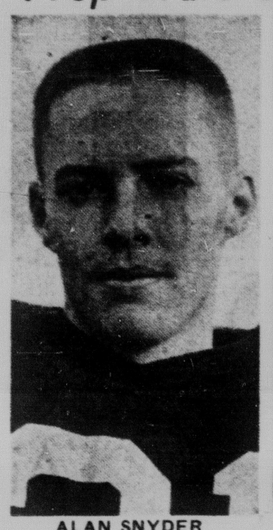
Prep Stars of the Week



ALAN SNYDER
Defensive Star

Alan Snyder, 141 pound halfback of the Palmer Terrors, has been named Back of the Week by the Gazette Telegraph Sports Department for his outstanding play in Palmer's 7-6 loss to Pueblo Centennial last Friday.

Altho Snyder carried the ball infrequently during the hotly contested South Central League game, he again turned in an exceptional defensive effort, something he has been doing all season. Despite his lack of size, Snyder is one of the league's top pass defenders and he has also compiled an 8.1 per carry rushing average.

Others considered for the honor this week were Bob Richardson and Greg Cramblit of Cheyenne Mountain, Rodney Coates of Widefield, Roger Karolick of Academy High, Sam Zavatti and Jerry Knauf of St. Mary's, and John Wickham and Clay Chambers of Wasson.

ROY GAULT
'Cat Tamer

LINEMAN

Roy Gault, 159-pound senior guard of the Wasson Thunderbirds, has been named Lineman of the Week by the sports staff of the Gazette Telegraph for his outstanding performance in the T-Birds' victory over Pueblo Central last Friday.

Gault, one of the smaller linemen in the conference, nevertheless was a standout defensively against the Wildcats, blocking up Central's middle game consistently and making numerous tackles. In addition Gault initiated the play that proved to be the turning point of the game when he broke thru the Central line to solidly block a punt in the third quarter. The blocked ball soared into the arms of end Hal Meller who returned it to the end zone for Wasson's first touchdown.

Other players rating high mention for their performances were Bobby Joe Williams and Roderick Ross of Palmer, Joe Folk and Jack O'Brien of Cheyenne Mountain, Bill Culver of Academy High, Ron Nighswonger and Hal Meller of Wasson, and David Grantz and Marty Booth, St. Mary's.

Nava, Chapparo Lead SCL Scoring Race

Luther Nava of Centennial and Bill Chapparo of Pueblo Central continue to lead the South Central League in scoring altho neither added to his total of 18 points over the past weekend.

Moving up were Jim Glaskin of Palmer and Clay Chambers of Wasson, both of whom scored a touchdown while Chambers also added an extra point. The two are currently tied for third place with 15 points each. Gary Wright of Trinidad is fifth with 13 points. Another seven players have scored two touchdowns apiece for 12 points and no one else is even in double figures.

The low total after three games (which has the leaders averaging a single touchdown per contest) is easily explained by a glance at the overall figures in the defensively rugged SCL. In the 12 league contests played to date, the combined scores of the two participants have averaged just 22.1 points.

In addition there have been five shutouts.

At present, Nava and Chapparo share the touchdown lead with three each, Charles Mastrini of Centennial is tops in extra points with five, and Chambers has kicked the league's only two field goals.

Frosh at Wyoming . . .

All Academy Teams on Road This Weekend

Not a single home contest is on the slate this weekend at the Air Force Academy with football teams on the varsity, junior varsity and freshman levels all hitting the road. The other teams in action will have the AFA cross-country squad traveling to Kearney, Neb., Saturday, and the soccer team taking on Navy and Annapolis on Friday.

With a much-needed rest under their pads, Coach "Doc" Blanchard's Falcon Freshmen squad saddles up this week to meet the Cowboys of Wyoming. The frosh, much pummeled by the varsity squad in preparing them for their weekend tilts, have had little chance to polish up their own offense, and consequently have yet to post a victory after two outings.

The trip to Laramie will be the last road game for the freshman, as they will return to the Academy for four straight home stands, starting with a Colorado State University match, Oct. 25.

Next stop for Coach Jim Bowman's winning wizards is Grand Rapids, Mich., where the Falcon Jay-Vee's will play Grand Rapids J.C. there Saturday.

Last Saturday, Bowman's squad tallied their third consecutive win, downing McCook College of McCook, Neb., 26-13. Falcon fans who were pitying Ben Martin's squad for having to wage a David-And-Goliath battle against Nebraska can spare a little sympathy for the Jay-Vee's. They, too, found themselves facing a tough McCook line that averaged 240 pounds from end to end. Like the varsity, tho, Bowman's squad emerged like victorious Davids.

In two other tilts, the Jay-Vees downed their opponents, 54-6 and 49-0.

Last Saturday the soccer team hosted Colorado College at the Academy and won handily, 4-1. It was Strickland's first win after losing four straight to a contingent of foes that included defending national champion St. Louis University.

In a rarity of scheduling, the Falcon soccer squad will also meet the Black Knights of West Point this year when they engage them at Chicago, Nov. 2, where both squads will journey for the Air Force-Army football classic.

Coming out of a week's retirement, the AFA cross country team will travel to Falcon-stunned Nebraska, Saturday, to see if they can pick up where the football squad left off.

"Still looking for their first win, Coach Arne Arnesen's harriers will try to find it at the expense of Nebraska (Kearney) State Teachers College, their third opponent of the year.

In two earlier meets, the cross country squad tied with Western Michigan, and lost to the Aggies of Oklahoma State University.

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Walter Van Camp, managing director of a Seattle civic promotion agency, said Tuesday studies are being made concerning the possibility of obtaining a National Basketball League franchise for this West Coast city.

Sno-Jet Ski Club To Meet Tonight

The Sno-Jet Ski Club will meet at 8 tonight at the Patty Jewett Club House, instead of on Thursday night as previously planned.

Bill Mann, president, said members and prospective members are invited to attend the meeeting to discuss plans for the skiing season.

Prep Stars of the Week

ALAN SNYDER
Defensive Star

Alan Snyder, 141 pound halfback of the Palmer Terrors, has been named Back of the Week by the Gazette Telegraph Sports Department for his outstanding play in Palmer's 7-6 loss to Pueblo Centennial last Friday.

Altho Snyder carried the ball infrequently during the hotly contested South Central League game, he again turned in an exceptional defensive effort, something he has been doing all season. Despite his lack of size, Snyder is one of the league's top pass defenders and he has also compiled an 8.1 per carry rushing average.

Others considered for the honor this week were Bob Richardson and Greg Cramblit of Cheyenne Mountain, Rodney Coates of Widefield, Roger Karolick of Academy High, Sam Zavatti and Jerry Knauf of St. Mary's, and John Wickham and Clay Chambers of Wasson.

ROY GAULT
'Cat Tamer

LINEMAN

Roy Gault, 159-pound senior guard of the Wasson Thunderbirds, has been named Lineman of the Week by the sports staff of the Gazette Telegraph for his outstanding performance in the T-Birds' victory over Pueblo Central last Friday.

Gault, one of the smaller linemen in the conference, nevertheless was a standout defensively against the Wildcats, blocking up Central's middle game consistently and making numerous tackles. In addition Gault initiated the play that proved to be the turning point of the game when he broke thru the Central line to solidly block a punt in the third quarter. The blocked ball soared into the arms of end Hal Meller who returned it to the end zone for Wasson's first touchdown.

Other players rating high mention for their performances were Bobby Joe Williams and Roderick Ross of Palmer, Joe Folk and Jack O'Brien of Cheyenne Mountain, Bill Culver of Academy High, Ron Nighswonger and Hal Meller of Wasson, and David Grantz and Marty Booth, St. Mary's.

Nava, Chapparo Lead SCL Scoring Race

Luther Nava of Centennial and Bill Chapparo of Pueblo Central continue to lead the South Central League in scoring altho neither added to his total of 18 points over the past weekend.

Moving up were Jim Glaskin of Palmer and Clay Chambers of Wasson, both of whom scored a touchdown while Chambers also added an extra point. The two are currently tied for third place with 15 points each. Gary Wright of Trinidad is fifth with 13 points. Another seven players have scored two touchdowns apiece for 12 points and no one else is even in double figures.

The low total after three games (which has the leaders averaging a single touchdown per contest) is easily explained by a glance at the overall figures in the defensively rugged SCL. In the 12 league contests played to date, the combined scores of the two participants have averaged just 22.1 points.

In addition there have been five shutouts.

At present, Nava and Chapparo share the touchdown lead with three each, Charles Mastrini of Centennial is tops in extra points with five, and Chambers has kicked the league's only two field goals.

YAL Football Slate Hits Mid-Point

This Saturday marks the mid-point of the Young American Football season. There are six teams sporting undefeated records at this time.

In the lightweight division the Braves, Broncos and Eagles have all victories to their credit. The Braves and Broncos are in the American League and the Eagles are in the National League. The Middleweight Division finds the Bulldogs with four wins and the AFA Falcons and Braves with three wins and one loss in second place. The Indians and Rams are currently undefeated in the Heavyweight Division. These two teams meet in the final game of the season, Nov. 9, in what might be the championship game of the Heavyweight Division.

Feature game for this Saturday will be played between the middleweight Bulldogs and AFA Falcons. Game time is 8:30 a.m. on field No. 8. The two teams have played two common foes. Bulldogs downed the Wolfpack, 14-13, while the Falcons lost to the Wolfpack, 27-25. Deaf and Blind School lost to both teams — the Falcons 14-7, and the Bulldogs, 18-6. Woman Seeks Racing Mark

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (UPI)— A woman driver will try her skill Thursday on the world's fastest speedway when Paula Murphy visits western Utah's Bonneville Salt Flats.

The talented woman driver will make a bid to become the world's fastest woman on wheels in a modified stock car (Studebaker) over the same course where Craig Breedlove of Los Angeles set a world land speed record earlier this year.

Veteran driver Andy Granatelli also will make endurance runs on the circular course at the Salt Flats. Granatelli hopes to break records he set at Bonneville last summer.

Liston May Have Fight With London

DENVER (UPI)— Promoter Milt Willner said Tuesday former British and Empire heavyweight champion Brian London still might fight champion Sonny Liston for the world title in Denver this winter.

Willner said Al Phillips, London's manager, wired him Tuesday that British promoter Harry Levene would contact Willner "immediately."

"I read that as meaning there is a chance of a fight," Willner said. "If London wasn't going to fight I think he would have said no right then."

In England, Phillips said he was "in two minds" about accepting Liston's offer because he has other important bouts lined up for London, including a triple titles match (British, Empire and European) with Henry Cooper and a non-title fight with former world champion Floyd Patterson.

Cooper, current Empire champion, also was offered a chance to fight Liston in Denver next in December but, according to Willner, turned it down.

Willner announced Monday night that Liston and Cassius Clay would fight in February, possibly at Chavez Ravine in Los Angeles. In New York, Swedish promoter Edwin Ahlqvist said that former champion Ingemar Johansson was training in Geneva, Switzerland, for a possible fight with Liston.

Haden-DeVola Bout

BOSTON (UPI) — New England featherweight champion Tommy Haden of New Medford will meet Dick De Vola of Charlestown in a 10-round, non-title bout at the Boston Arena Monday, it was announced Tuesday night by promoter Sam Silverman.

Cheyenne's Gary Graham Heads PPL Scoring

Gary Graham, who directs Cheyenne Mountain's devastating attack, maintained the leadership in the individual Pikes Peak League scoring race when the 160-pound senior quarterback booted six of seven conversion attempts last week to up his total points to 72.

Greg Cramblit, the Indians' ramrod fullback, remained in the second scoring position when the 182-pounder scored his 10th TD against the Panthers. Cramblit has scored 60 points in five games.

Rodney Coates of Widefield ripped thru the beefy Salida defenses last Friday to tally three touchdowns to rate as the PPL's third top scorer. Coates has compiled 45 points on seven TDs and three PAT conversions.

Air Academy High's hard-charging fullback, Roger Karolick, moved into the fifth spot when he scored four TDs against Manitou last week. Claude Burke of Widefield managed to hang onto the four position with 39 points.

Reds Deadlock Clippers, 2-2

By United Press International

The slender center, who spent seven seasons with Hershey, scored twice Tuesday night to earn the Reds a 2-2 overtime tie against the Baltimore Clippers.

The Clippers were rolling along with a 2-0 lead on goals by Bryan Hextall and Sandy McGregor when Marshall went to work in the second period. He scored an unassisted goal at 15:36 and added the equalizer on a pass from Pierre Brillant at 18:30 of the third period.

Houk Decisive Choice As AL's Top Manager

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Houk, who guided the New York Yankees to the American League pennant in 1963 despite injuries to star outfielders Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, was an overwhelming choice as the American League Manager of the Year today.

In the balloting by 71 baseball writers in the annual Associated Press poll, Houk received 58 votes. Al Lopez, pilot of the second-place Chicago White Sox, was the runner-up with 6 votes.

The voting was based on the regular season performances.

Sam Mele of the third-place Minnesota Twins and Chuck Dressen, who took over as Detroit Tigers' manager on June 18 and led them into a fifth-place tie with Cleveland, each collected two votes.

Bill Rigney of the Los Angeles Angels, the AL manager-of-the-Year in 1962; Johnny Pesky of Boston and Gil Hodges of Washington had one each.

At the time the Yanks were tied for first place with the Orioles and White Sox. Houk moved Tom Tresh from left field to Mantle's position in center and also got considerable mileage out of John Blanchard, Maris' replacement in right field.

Mantle, who was out of the regular line-up for almost three months, played in only 65 games. Despite this, the Yanks won the pennant by 10½ games.

Prizefighter Ernie Knox Dies of Boxing Injuries

Doctors said a blood clot on the brain killed him, and that even had he lived he would have been partly crippled.

Knox was knocked out in the ninth round of his fight with Wayne Bethea of New York Monday night. He had been floored for a nine-count earlier in the round.

Knox was carried from the ring and ordered to the hospital as a precaution.

Between bouts, he sometimes worked as a hod carrier. He was collecting unemployment insurance when he stepped into the ring at the Coliseum to face Bethea.

YAL Football Slate Hits Mid-Point

This Saturday marks the mid-point of the Young American Football season. There are six teams sporting undefeated records at this time.

In the lightweight division the Braves, Broncos and Eagles have all victories to their credit. The Braves and Broncos are in the American League and the Eagles are in the National League. The Middleweight Division finds the Bulldogs with four wins and the AFA Falcons and Braves with three wins and one loss in second place. The Indians and Rams are currently undefeated in the Heavyweight Division. These two teams meet in the final game of the season, Nov. 9, in what might be the championship game of the Heavyweight Division.

Feature game for this Saturday will be played between the middleweight Bulldogs and AFA Falcons. Game time is 8:30 a.m. on field No. 8. The two teams have played two common foes. Bulldogs downed the Wolfpack, 14-13, while the Falcons lost to the Wolfpack, 27-25. Deaf and Blind School lost to both teams — the Falcons 14-7, and the Bulldogs, 18-6. Based on these scores, the Bulldogs are favored by one touchdown.

This game, as are all Young American games, is played at Memorial Park, Pikes Peak and Hancock.

Woman Seeks Racing Mark

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (UPI)— A woman driver will try her skill Thursday on the world's fastest speedway when Paula Murphy visits western Utah's Bonneville Salt Flats.

The talented woman driver will make a bid to become the world's fastest woman on wheels in a modified stock car (Studebaker) over the same course where Craig Breedlove of Los Angeles set a world land speed record earlier this year.

Veteran driver Andy Granatelli also will make endurance runs on the circular course at the Salt Flats. Granatelli hopes to break records he set at Bonneville last summer.

Liston May Have Fight With London

DENVER (UPI)— Promoter Milt Willner said Tuesday former British and Empire heavyweight champion Brian London still might fight champion Sonny Liston for the world title in Denver this winter.

Willner said Al Phillips, London's manager, wired him Tuesday that British promoter Harry Levene would contact Willner "immediately."

"I read that as meaning there is a chance of a fight," Willner said. "If London wasn't going to fight I think he would have said no right then."

In England, Phillips said he was "in two minds" about accepting Liston's offer because he has other important bouts lined up for London, including a triple titles match (British, Empire and European) with Henry Cooper and a non-title fight with former world champion Floyd Patterson.

Cooper, current Empire champion, also was offered a chance to fight Liston in Denver next in December but, according to Willner, turned it down.

Willner announced Monday night that Liston and Cassius Clay would fight in February, possibly at Chavez Ravine in Los Angeles. In New York, Swedish promoter Edwin Ahlqvist said that former champion Ingemar Johansson was training in Geneva, Switzerland, for a possible fight with Liston.

Haden-DeVola Bout

BOSTON (UPI) — New England featherweight champion Tommy Haden of New Medford will meet Dick De Vola of Charlestown in a 10-round, non-title bout at the Boston Arena Monday, it was announced Tuesday night by promoter Sam Silverman.

Cheyenne's Gary Graham Heads PPL Scoring

Gary Graham, who directs Cheyenne Mountain's devastating attack, maintained the leadership in the individual Pikes Peak League scoring race when the 160-pound senior quarterback booted six of seven conversion attempts last week to up his total points to 72.

Greg Cramblit, the Indians' ramrod fullback, remained in the second scoring position when the 182-pounder scored his 10th TD against the Panthers. Cramblit has scored 60 points in five games.

Rodney Coates of Widefield ripped thru the beefy Salida defenses last Friday to tally three touchdowns to rate as the PPL's third top scorer. Coates has compiled 45 points on seven TDs and three PAT conversions.

Air Academy High's hard-charging fullback, Roger Karolick, moved into the fifth spot when he scored four TDs against Manitou last week. Claude Burke of Widefield managed to hang onto the four position with 39 points.

Englert's Story Telling Brings Out Big Attendance

By DONNA LOGAN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Kenny Englert's "Drippings from the Springs" drew almost 100 members and guests to Tuesday night's meeting of the Historical Society of the Pikes Peak Region.

Not everyone knew or had heard of the eagle with the nine-foot wingspread that was captured and held in a dry goods box until the Fourth of July, 1873.

Two bright young men decided to liberate the symbol of American freedom on that patriotic day. Bands played and crowds gathered at the northwest corner of Nevada Avenue and Kiowa Street, across from the present YMCA, to see the feature event.

But the eagle, more than satisfied with his daily ration of meat and comfortable lodging, refused to take off on schedule and wouldn't leave the dry goods box. His disgraced owner finally prodded the eagle out of his house and stomped on the box, but to no avail. The eagle wasn't flying. Instead, he drifted around town for days, eating leftover scraps, until finally taking off for points unknown.

Englert's tales also included the disastrous $25,000 water tap bond issue brought before the public in 1876. Judge George H. Stewart, an early pioneer, brought the public's attention to the need for the water taps because the 50-foot city wells were bringing up a terrible - tasting alkali water. The judge and his supporters wanted water tapped from Bear Creek.

Oppostion forces succeeded in making a laughing stock out of the issue by parading a huge ox up and down the city's streets with signs draped across his gigantic frame: "I drank Bear Creek water look what happened to me!"

Then there were the tales about the depression of 1876 when one bank closed and the First National and People's Banks could hardly keep in operation. About that time two men "discovered" gold-bearing quartz which S. C. Robinson assayed at $40 a ton!

Immediately the gold bug bit, and people worked overtime, staking out claims between Manitou Springs and Glen Eyrie. But all the rock they found eventually proved worthless. The year was 1877.

Englert's first-hand tales from the late Dr. Henry William Hogeland recollected the doctor's days as a school boy at Colorado College when he and another youth dragged a goat to the top of Cutler Hall, and mashed limburger cheese over the heating ventilators.

The youths and the college were soon parted.

The biggest tale, which eventually was published in the European press, was John O'Keefe's 1876 hoax about rats over-running the summit of Pikes Peak!

This brought on discussion by some oldtimers at the meeting about the 35-pound floppy-eared, bushy-tailed rats of their acquaintance in the high country around Divide. Englert said he suspected the "rats" could have been marmots, but the oldtimers disagreed.

Among guests at the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. M. Scott Carpenter of Palmer Lake. Carpenter, whose son is famed U.S. astronaut Scott Carpenter, is secretary of the Palmer Lake Historical Society, and Mrs. Carpenter is program chairman.

It could be that someday Mrs. Carpenter may succeed in bringing her son to the region to talk on "Early American Space Feats."

Drag Racing Brings $25 Fine In Quine's Court

Leland Thomas Rusk, 19, Route 3, Black Forest, was fined $25 and $4 court costs yesterday by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine Jr. for drag racing on U. S. Highway 24 west of North Circle Drive.

The offense occurred on Aug. 23, and was cited by State Patrolman James Mathis.

In Judge Quine's court also yesterday, Fred R. Keller, 25, 321 St. 8th St., was fined $15 and $4 costs for speeding 60-miles per hour in a 45-mile zone.

A charge of speeding 40-miles per hour in a 30-mile zone brought Bryce Enos Minster, 19, Templeton Gap Rd., a fine of $10 and $4 costs.

Leroy F. Huber, 32, 1206 Richards Ave., was fined $5 and $4 costs for driving with an expired temporary permit.

The offense occured Oct. 4 on South 8th Street.

Patrolman K. W. Shiflet was the ticketing officer.

Two other fines of $5 and costs of $4 were imposed yesterday by Judge Quine against each of two persons.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

His Ego Is Showing

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a husband who tells his wife that he KNOWS he could win any woman in the world if he were given an introduction to her? This man is not rich. He is definitely nothing to look at. And unless he is in a very good mood, he is lousy company. So please tell me where he gets ideas like this. —HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: I've heard of self-confidence, but this is ridiculous! But, in case your husband has a secret weapon, you'd better be careful to whom you introduce him.

DEAR ABBY: My mother keeps "lending" me out to the eighbors to baby-sit for nothing. Very often I have had to change my plans at the last minute because my mother tells me she promised someone in the neighborhood that I would sit for them. Other girls my age get paid for sitting for these same people, so now they are mad at me for sitting for nothing, because they look greedy when they take the money. My mother is the kindest soul in the world, Abby, but do you think it is fair that she should offer my services to the neighbors for nothing? —SWEET AND SOUR SIXTEEN

DEAR SIXTEEN: Bless your mother's heart. She means well, but she isn't being fair to you. She shouldn't promise your services without having first checked with you. And she shouldn't expect you to sit for nothing.

DEAR ABBY: Why do men have to wear DARNED socks? Do you know any women these days who would wear a darned stocking? Men's socks don't cost any more than women's, so why, when a woman finds a wee hole in her husband's sock, does she try to "save" it? Let her throw it in the rag bag along with her own. —LOVING WIFE

DEAR LOVING: Just keep crusading for equal rights for men and you'll soon write a DEAR ABBY letter with a husband problem. Come to think of it, I haven't seen a darning egg since the depression.

Oil Companies Invest Heavily In Chemical Plants

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Oil companies have been in the business of taking something—petroleum — out of the ground. Now they're going into the business of putting something back—fertilizer.

Socony Mobil Oil Co. stockholders will meet Nov. 20 to vote on the proposed acquisition of Virginia-Carolina Chemical corp. for an $80 million in stock.

The oil companies have come to the conclusion that in an ever more populous world where cultivated land will have to produce more and more food, the role of fertilizers, and other agricultural chemicals, becomes obviously urgent.

They are concerned by such a sudden increase in industrial concentration and are apprehensive that the trend might put the remaining independent fertilizer companies at a sharp disadvantage with the well-financed oil company subsidiaries.

Justice department lawyers are taking a look at the pending acquisition proposals with the idea of stepping in if it is thought that they might tend to reduce competition and thus violate the antitrust laws.

Englert's Story Telling Brings Out Big Attendance

By DONNA LOGAN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Kenny Englert's "Drippings from the Springs" drew almost 100 members and guests to Tuesday night's meeting of the Historical Society of the Pikes Peak Region.

Englert's widely-known story telling ability amused the historical buffs as he related tales of the 1870's in Colorado Springs.

Not everyone knew or had heard of the eagle with the nine-foot wingspread that was captured and held in a dry goods box until the Fourth of July, 1873.

Two bright young men decided to liberate the symbol of American freedom on that patriotic day. Bands played and crowds gathered at the northwest corner of Nevada Avenue and Kiowa Street, across from the present YMCA, to see the feature event.

But the eagle, more than satisfied with his daily ration of meat and comfortable lodging, refused to take off on schedule and wouldn't leave the dry goods box. His disgraced owner finally prodded the eagle out of his house and stomped on the box, but to no avail. The eagle wasn't flying. Instead, he drifted around town for days, eating leftover scraps, until finally taking off for points unknown.

Englert's tales also included the disastrous $25,000 water tap bond issue brought before the public in 1876. Judge George H. Stewart, an early pioneer, brought the public's attention to the need for the water taps because the 50-foot city wells were bringing up a terrible - tasting alkali water. The judge and his supporters wanted water tapped from Bear Creek.

Oppostion forces succeeded in making a laughing stock out of the issue by parading a huge ox up and down the city's streets with signs draped across his gigantic frame: "I drank Bear Creek water look what happened to me!"

The bond issue lost.

Then there were the tales about the depression of 1876 when one bank closed and the First National and People's Banks could hardly keep in operation. About that time two men "discovered" gold-bearing quartz which S. C. Robinson assayed at $40 a ton!

Immediately the gold bug bit, and people worked overtime, staking out claims between Manitou Springs and Glen Eyrie. But all the rock they found eventually proved worthless. The year was 1877.

Englert's first-hand tales from the late Dr. Henry William Hogeland recollected the doctor's days as a school boy at Colorado College when he and another youth dragged a goat to the top of Cutler Hall, and mashed limburger cheese over the heating ventilators.

The youths and the college were soon parted.

The biggest tale, which eventually was published in the European press, was John O'Keefe's 1876 hoax about rats over-running the summit of Pikes Peak!

This brought on discussion by some oldtimers at the meeting about the 35-pound floppy-eared, bushy-tailed rats of their acquaintance in the high country around Divide. Englert said he suspected the "rats" could have been marmots, but the oldtimers disagreed.

Among guests at the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. M. Scott Carpenter of Palmer Lake. Carpenter, whose son is famed U.S. astronaut Scott Carpenter, is secretary of the Palmer Lake Historical Society, and Mrs. Carpenter is program chairman.

It could be that someday Mrs. Carpenter may succeed in bringing her son to the region to talk on "Early American Space Feats."

Drag Racing Brings $25 Fine In Quine's Court

Leland Thomas Rusk, 19, Route 3, Black Forest, was fined $25 and $4 court costs yesterday by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine Jr. for drag racing on U. S. Highway 24 west of North Circle Drive.

The offense occurred on Aug. 23, and was cited by State Patrolman James Mathis.

In Judge Quine's court also yesterday, Fred R. Keller, 25, 321 St. 8th St., was fined $15 and $4 costs for speeding 60-miles per hour in a 45-mile zone.

A charge of speeding 40-miles per hour in a 30-mile zone brought Bryce Enos Minster, 19, Templeton Gap Rd., a fine of $10 and $4 costs.

Leroy F. Huber, 32, 1206 Richards Ave., was fined $5 and $4 costs for driving with an expired temporary permit.

The offense occured Oct. 4 on South 8th Street.

Patrolman K. W. Shiflet was the ticketing officer.

Two other fines of $5 and costs of $4 were imposed yesterday by Judge Quine against each of two persons.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

His Ego Is Showing

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a husband who tells his wife that he KNOWS he could win any woman in the world if he were given an introduction to her? This man is not rich. He is definitely nothing to look at. And unless he is in a very good mood, he is lousy company. So please tell me where he gets ideas like this —HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: I've heard of self-confidence, but this is ridiculous! But, in case your husband has a secret weapon, you'd better be careful to whom you introduce him.

DEAR ABBY: My mother keeps "lending" me out to the eighbors to baby-sit for nothing. Very often I have had to change my plans at the last minute because my mother tells me she promised someone in the neighborhood that I would sit for them. Other girls my age get paid for sitting for these same people, so now they are mad at me for sitting for nothing, because they look greedy when they take the money. My mother is the kindest soul in the world, Abby, but do you think it is fair that she should offer my services to the neighbors for nothing? —SWEET AND SOUR SIXTEEN

DEAR SIXTEEN: Bless your mother's heart. She means well, but she isn't being fair to you. She shouldn't promise your services without having first checked with you. And she shouldn't expect you to sit for nothing.

DEAR ABBY: Why do men have to wear DARNED socks? Do you know any women these days who would wear a darned stocking? Men's socks don't cost any more than women's, so why, when a woman finds a wee hole in her husband's sock, does she try to "save" it? Let her throw it in the rag bag along with her own. —LOVING WIFE

DEAR LOVING: Just keep crusading for equal rights for men and you'll soon write a DEAR ABBY letter with a husband problem. Come to think of it, I haven't seen a darning egg since the depression.

Oil Companies Invest Heavily In Chemical Plants

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Oil companies have been in the business of taking something—petroleum — out of the ground. Now they're going into the business of putting something back —fertilizer.

A rush is on by major oil companies to get into the chemical fertilizer business. It involves investment of hundreds of million of dollars.

Socony Mobil Oil Co. stockholders will meet Nov. 20 to vote on the proposed acquisition of Virginia-Carolina Chemical corp. for an $80 million in stock.

The oil companies have come to the conclusion that in an ever more populous world where cultivated land will have to produce more and more food, the role of fertilizers, and other agricultural chemicals, becomes obviously urgent.

They are backing with big money their opinion that they are well-suited to fill that role.

The waive of oil company acquisitions of independent fertilizer has aroused the interest of the government's antitrust officials.

They are concerned by such a sudden increase in industrial concentration and are apprehensive that the trend might put the remaining independent fertilizer companies at a sharp disadvantage with the well-financed oil company subsidiaries.

Justice department lawyers are taking a look at the pending acquisition proposals with the idea of stepping in if it is thought that they might tend to reduce competition and thus violate the antitrust laws.

National Hat Week Seeks For Proof

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is National Hat Week, and hat lovers are throwing their soft felts, their sombreros and their high silks joyfully into the air.

For the National Hat Council reported today that Allan Webb a hat salesman and a close friend of John F. Kennedy since their wartime PT-boat days, has gotten this presidential endorsement, "A man is not well dressed without a hat."

This may sound like a dubious victory, since President Kennedy rarely is seen wearing a hat, although keen observers occasionally spot him carrying one.

Indeed a hat was almost an FDR trademark, and the one he wore in his first campaign, sweat-stained and battered, was later sold for $3,200 at a Hollywood benefit.

"Politicians should always have three hats handy at all times," Sandburg said. "One for throwing into the ring, another for talking through, and a third for pulling rabbits out of if elected."

Smoking Stopped By Men in New Experiment

EDITOR'S NOTE: A month has gone by since AP Staff Writer Michael Keating and 59 other men attempted to quit smoking in an experimental clinic sponsored by Roswell Park Memorial Institute, New York State's cancer-research center. Here is Keating's third report.

By MICHAEL KEATING

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—After 15 years and 109,500 cigarettes, I have quit smoking.

So have 29 other men—all of us taking part in an experimental stop-smoking clinic that bolsters will power with drugs and psychology.

The clinic has been under way for a month and I have not had a cigarette since it began. Desire for one is almost negligible. A month ago it dominated me.

Although clinic doctors are withholding final judgment on their work until six months have passed, my mind is made up—Roswell Park Memorial Institute has a technique that help a smoker stop without too much of a wrench.

Of the 60 men who started in the clinic a month ago, 30 no longer are smoking, 19 have reduced their smoking by at least half, one man has cut back less than half, and 10 others dropped out.

When the clinic began, Dr. Charles A. Ross, the director, said that if 50 per cent quit smoking for six months he would consider the clinic a success.

Besides will power, the clinic employs the psychology of group action and two drugs — to substitute for nicotine, the other to control appetite, which often increases sharply in the absence of smoking.

Drugs were given for the first two weeks to 30 of the men. Other 30 received imitations. Neither the doctors nor the participants know who received the drugs. This information is contained in a code that will not be broken until the six months have passed.

Ross began a new clinic with another 60 men last week. He will start a new clinic every month for a year.

Participants in the experiment report varying reactions.

Donald R. Denk, 38, a lawyer who decided to quit smoking after suffering a perforated ulcer, reports "I stayed off about 10 days." Then came a cocktail party, and he flunked.

I have passed the cocktail test and the other tests — drinking coffee, facing tense situations, arguing politics, all without benefit of cigarettes.

I even bought a pack of cigarettes for a friend — and delivered it unopened.

Croneis Will Lecture at CC Homecoming

Rice University chancellor Carey Croneis will open homecoming weekend at Colorado College Thursday evening when he delivers the third annual Harold D. Roberts Memorial Lecture.

The lecture, open to the public without charge, will be given at 8:15 p.m. in Shove Chapel on the college campus.

Harold D. Roberts, former chairman of the Colorado College board of trustees, was a prominent Denver attorney at the time of his death in 1956. He earned his bachelor's degree at Colorado College in economics.

Chancellor Croneis was president of Beloit College prior to his appointment at Rice as provost and professor of geology. A noted scholar and administrator, he received his Ph.D. from Harvard and his bachelor's degree from Denison University.

A high point of homecoming this year will be the inauguration of Dr. Lloyd E. Worner as the college's first alumnus president at 2 p.m. Friday on the central quadrangle. In the event of rain the ceremony will be held in Shove Chapel. Rain checks may be secured at the secretary's office on campus.

Mental Health Group Elects Rev. Bryan

The Rev. William C. Bryan was named president Tuesday of the El Paso County Association for Mental Health at the organization's 10th annual meeting held at the Valley Hi Country Club.

Elected to serve with the Rev. Mr. Bryan, who is pastor of the Village Christian Church, were Frank Cremonesi and Dr. E. James Brady, vice presidents.

J. D. Bilderback and Mrs. Naomi Fredericks were re-elected to serve as treasurer and secretary.

The Rev. Christian Thearle, Matthew B. Wills and Dr. Lloyd Smith were named to the board of directors. Re-elected to the board were Judge Allen Asher, Mrs. Thomas Doherty, Jr., Miss Bernice E. Kennedy, Mrs. William Mack and Cremonesi.

Speaker for the dinner meeting was Stanley W. Boucher of Boulder. Boucher, assistant director for the Mental Health Planning Project, discussed "Communities and the Search for Mental Health."

Supper, Speaker At Congregational

First Congregational Church group will host speaker Rev. Russell Williams, pastor of the Protestant Inner City Parish of Denver at 7:30 Thursday, in the church Founder's Room.

His topic will be "The Changing City" and a film on the same subject will be shown.

An all church pot-luck supper will precede the speaker's program at 6:30 p.m.

GOOD EXCUSE GONE

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI)—The common cold no longer will be an acceptable excuse for missing school, the Chatham County School Board said Tuesday.

Acting on a recommendation of the Georgia Medical Society, the board said that a student with a cold should go to school unless he has a temperature of 99.8 degrees or higher.

The board took the action to counteract a high percentage of absences from school because of the common cold.

Croneis Will Lecture at CC Homecoming

Rice University chancellor Carey Croneis will open homecoming weekend at Colorado College Thursday evening when he delivers the third annual Harold D. Roberts Memorial Lecture.

The lecture, open to the public without charge, will be given at 8:15 p.m. in Shove Chapel on the college campus.

Harold D. Roberts, former chairman of the Colorado College board of trustees, was a prominent Denver attorney at the time of his death in 1956. He earned his bachelor's degree at Colorado College in economics.

Chancellor Croneis was president of Beloit College prior to his appointment at Rice as provost and professor of geology. A noted scholar and administrator, he received his Ph.D. from Harvard and his bachelor's degree from Denison University.

A high point of homecoming this year will be the inauguration of Dr. Lloyd E. Worner as the college's first alumnus president at 2 p.m. Friday on the central quadrangle. In the event of rain the ceremony will be held in Shove Chapel. Rain checks may be secured at the secretary's office on campus.

Mental Health Group Elects Rev. Bryan

The Rev. William C. Bryan was named president Tuesday of the El Paso County Association for Mental Health at the organization's 10th annual meeting held at the Valley Hi Country Club.

Elected to serve with the Rev. Mr. Bryan, who is pastor of the Village Christian Church, were Frank Cremonesi and Dr. E. James Brady, vice presidents.

J. D. Bilderback and Mrs. Naomi Fredericks were re-elected to serve as treasurer and secretary.

The Rev. Christian Thearle, Matthew B. Wills and Dr. Lloyd Smith were named to the board of directors. Re-elected to the board were Judge Allen Asher, Mrs. Thomas Doherty, Jr., Miss Bernice E. Kennedy, Mrs. William Mack and Cremonesi.

Speaker for the dinner meeting was Stanley W. Boucher of Boulder. Boucher, assistant director for the Mental Health Planning Project, discussed "Communities and the Search for Mental Health."

GOOD EXCUSE GONE

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI)—The common cold no longer will be an acceptable excuse for missing school, the Chatham County School Board said Tuesday.

Acting on a recommendation of the Georgia Medical Society, the board said that a student with a cold should go to school unless he has a temperature of 99.8 degrees or higher.

The board took the action to counteract a high percentage of absences from school because of the common cold.

Experts See Great Future For Oil Shale

DENVER (UPI)— An investment of nearly $5 billion and changes in federal laws will be needed to launch Colorado's oil shale industry, a team of consulting engineers reported to state officials today.

But, despite the huge investment required and other problems, the engineers urged the state to begin an aggressive program for development of an "almost unbelievable potential" in oil shale.

The report said that possible production from Colorado's shale deposits might exceed $1 trillion—which is six times the value of liquid oil produced in the United States.

The report, prepared by the consulting engineering firm of Cameron & Jones of Denver for $6,000 at the request of state natural resources officials, also listed several other problems facing the industry, including improvement of technology, adequate water supplies and methods to meet foreign competition.

The engineers, in the study to Gov. John Love, made several recommendations, including:

— An appropriation by the Legislature to aid in establishing the oil shale industry in the United States.

— A conference, to be called by the state, to consider problems involved in establishing the industry.

— A full-time director, to be named by Love, to oversee the state's efforts in oil shale.

— An effort by the state's congressional delegation to win approval of certain changes in federal law to make oil shale lands available for lease.

The report centered on the 1,500 square mile Piceance Creek Basin, about 200 miles west of Denver. It is believed that at least 1,000 square miles in the area is underlaid with oil - bearing marlstone, which has a minimum potential production of 15 gallons of oil to a ton of rock.

How to Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

(© 1963: By the Chicago Tribune)

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

LUNG ABNORMALITY IN NEWBORNS

The death of Patrick Bouvier Kennedy created interest in hyaline membrane disease of the lung in infants. Newborns with this condition are well at delivery but become acutely short of breath within a few hours. This occurs when the inner lining of the smaller bronchi and air sacs is being coated with a secretion that "jells" on contact with the air.

The coating prevents oxygen from entering the lungs and carbon dioxide from leaving. The seriousness of the situation depends upon the number of air sacs that are put out of commission. The problem centers about the secretions that ooze thru the walls of the lung tissue. They are so rich in fibrin or protein, they tend to solidify.

Why does a membrane form in some newborns? The condition can be duplicated in animals by poisoning them with oxygen at birth. At one time, it was believed that the cause was congestion or inhaling the fluid from the amniotic sac (bag of waters) but these possibilities are now considered unlikely.

This serious respiratory condition occurs most frequently in infants born prematurely, by cesarean section, or of diabetic mothers. This suggests that the baby is not ready or mature enough to cope with its new environment.

One theory centers about the circulating hormones in the expectant mother. Estrogens (female sex hormones) tighten cells and their membranes, which makes them less porous. This reduces the amount of secretions pouring out. Progresterone, on the other hand, increases permeability. The level of this hormone tends to fall at the approach of a normal delivery. But in prematures this drop does not occur so that the membranes are more porous and the secretions increase.

Still another concept involves heredity and enzymes. Most of us come into the world with enzymes capable of dissolving unnecessary and harmful fibrin in the lung secretions. They are stimulated by several blood and tissue activators. These enzymes are noted in the lungs of normal babies by the third month of gestation but are lacking in infants with hyaline membrane formation. Apparently these children failed to inherit the genes that produce these activators.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Darkened Knees

Mrs. D. M. writes: I have been doing housework on my knees for many years and have developed brown spots that are ugly to look at. Is there any bleach or cream to remove this discoloration?

Reply

A bleach may help but it is easier to use a camouflaging powder or darker hose.

Olive Oil Treatment

J. W. M. writes: Will eating olive oil cure peptic ulcer?

Reply

Sun and TB

R. W. writes: Is it harmful for a person who is being treated for tuberculosis to expose his skin to the sun?

Reply

Prolonged exposure is said to aggravate tuberculosis.

New Limits Set On Imported Dairy Products

Several dairy exporting nations have agreed to a temporary limit on dairy shipments to the United States, the Secretary of Agriculture announced last week. The agreements cover Colby cheese, Junex, and frozen cream.

Imports of these products have resulted in millions of dollars of added cost to the domestic agricultural programs. The National Milk Producers Federation had requested that they be controlled.

Imports of Colby cheese from the three largest exporters, New Zealand, Australia and Ireland, will be held to 11.2 million pounds for the fiscal year 1963-64. The secretary estimates that total Colby imports will be reduced about 10 percent below the 12.8 million pounds imported in 1962-63. The imports of Colby developed after it was discovered that they could be used to circumvent the import quota on cheddar cheese.

Australia has agreed that its exports of Junex to the United States in the calendar year 1964 will not exeed 2,240,000 pounds. This is a reduction of about one-third from the 1963 level. Junex is described as a butterfat-sugar mixture containing just under 45 percent butterfat. This also is an import developed after import controls were applied to such mixtures containing 45 percent or more of butterfat, the federation stated.

Frozen cream imports from Zealand will be held to 1.5 million gallons for the calendar year 1964. This is an increase of approximately 50 percent over the level expected for the current year.

The secretary has agreed in the announcement that if these arrangements do not hold imports to the indicated levels, action will be initiated under section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act for the more effective controls.

While this arrangement is not what had been hoped for, commented E. M. Norton, secretary of the federation, it is a step in the right direction and a recognition by the administration of the seriousness of the problem. "We are aware of the roadblocks which the Secretary of Agriculture faced," he added, "and we appreciate the sincere efforts made in behalf of American dairy farmers in this difficult area."

Weather Helps State Farmers With Harvest

The Colorado Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said in their weekly summary report that threshing of dry beans is nearly complete and harvest of corn silage is virtually over.

The report stated that seeding of wheat is almost complete except for a few dry localities in the southeast and the higher elevations on the Western Slope. Over 90 per cent of the acreage was up to excellent stand and the condition of the crop is reported to be unusually good.

Digging of sugar bets jumped to full swing Thursday when quota assignments were lifted and stockpiling of beets began. Reported tonnage from harvested fields was good but the sugar content was below average. Some growers had to irrigate in order to loosen fields for digging and the report said cooler temperatures are now needed to favor beet stockpiling.

Harvest of late vegetable crops continued as frost held off in most regions. Picking of apples was also still in progress and warm temperatures were preventing optimum coloring of apples.

The reporting service said livestock continued to make gains on good fall grazing. Sales of cattle were picking up and contracting of feeder sheep continued at about the usual rate.

The only precipitation reported in the state in the past week were traces in northwest Colorado. Temperatures in the Arkansas River Basin reached maximums of 90 and lows of 40.

THESE REALISTIC TOYS

LOUISVILLE (AP) — If the Police Department seems jittery, there's a reason. Too many toys.

Two cruisers sped to St. Leonard Catholic Church recently after the Rev. Joseph Emrich spotted a tommy gun and a rifle lying under a tree. Both were toys.

Yoder Boy Named To CSU Livestock Judging Team

Sam A. Tanner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Tanner of Yoder, has been selected as a member of the Colorado State University Senior Livestock Judging Team.

Tanner and other five members of the team, coached by T. R. Blackburn, returned to the campus Tuesday after a weekend trip to Kansas City, Mo. where they competed against 22 other college teams at the American Royal Livestock Show.

In addition to Tanner, other team members this year are Joe D. Taylor, Moab, Utah; Merrill V. Bond, Ordway; Norman E. Brown, Fort Collins; Forrest F. Nelson, Meeker; and Murlin W. Goeken, Boulder.

CSU Check Dam Now Complete

The check dam is easily installed and does not require anchoring. It was designed by William J. Pugh, engineering aide with the CSU Agricultural Experiment Station at Grand Junction.

Pugh says the check dam is constructed with heavy-wall electrical conduit and a nylon sheet. The new design overcomes the problems of conventional canvass check dams which become heavy when wet and are difficult to anchor.

The check dam is adjustable and will fit any shape or size ditch up to 5 feet wide at the top and 3 feet deep. Total cost of materials for the dam is about $14.

Colorado residents can obtain a free copy of a progress report on the dam which includes plans, assembly plot and list of materials needed.

Send a post card to Bulletin Room, Colorado State University, Fort Collins, and request Progress Report 110, "Portable Irrigation Check Dam."

Winterize Rose Plants Before Dip In Temperature

How will your rose garden grow next spring after the long, cold winter?

If you trim, spray and mound late this fall after your established plants go dormant, you'll have little if any winter loss and lots of healthy, flowering bushes next season, advises All-America Rose Selections.

These winter safeguards, according to AARS, the leading pre-testing and educational group in the rose world, are the same practices followed at the official AARs trial gardens thruout the nation where freezing weather demands precautions.

AARS advises home gardeners to apply some form of protection if temperatures in the region dip down the 15-degree level or lower. The simple three-stop program enables plants to winter well by providing insulation against alternating freezing and thawing, and by guarding against loss and cane damage from whipping winds and crushing snow.

When growth is well hardened — usually after the first freezing frost, when the cold weather is here to stay — follow this routine recommended by the All-America Rose group:

1. TRIM: Cut back canes on hybrid teas, grandifloras and floribundas to at least 18 to 24 inches. Remove all dead wood. Long canes left on the bush will whip in the wind, become laden with snow and thus tend to loosen the protective mound around the plant.

2. CLEAN AND SPRAY FALL sanitation around the bushes destroys disease and insects and minimizes carryover infection into next spring. Remove all fallen leaves. Give on last spray to the entire plant as well as to the surrounding soil.

3. MOUND: Form a pile of soil, eight to ten inches high, around the canes of each plant. Use soil from another part of the garden rather than from between the plants.

Where winters are really severe, with temperatures zero and well below, another two to four inches of mounding as well as a covering of evergreen, fir or pine boughs will provide added protection. Avoid materials that retain moisture.

The modern rose of today is a hardy breed. The All-America Rose Selections winners and other quality introductions from the major rose nurseries have hardiness bred in. They will withstand the rigors of winter with just a little help from the home gardener.

Attending to the simple winter safeguards will assure you that next spring all of your plants will be ready to burst forth with the incomparable color and fragrance you'll be eagerly awaiting from the queen of flowers.

Farmers Advised To Check Cold Symptoms in Herd

This is the season for runny noses, coughs and other respiratory diseases in cattle just as it is in humans, according to a warning to cattle owners issued today by the American Foundation for Animal Health.

Farmers were urged to watch for danger signs of these diseases, because they are many, often confusing, and can cause serious losses... and the alert should be kept up from now into winter.

A special watch should be kept for a condition known as "red nose", or IBR, says the foundation. This may strike from 25 to 100 per cent of the cattle in a lot. It causes heavy economic losses in feeder cattle and a sharp drop in milk production in dairy cattle.

Fortunately, vaccination by a veterinarian in advance of an outbreak can do much toward holding down losses from "red nose", the foundation reports. Also, farmers should isolate new stock for 30 days before allowing it to mingle with the home herd. This will give latent infections a chance to show up before they can be passed on to healthy cattle.

Things a farmer should watch for — runny noses, a low, throaty cough, rapid breathing, loss of condition. If any of these appear, a prompt diagnosis is in order.

Trouble Follows Tank Neglect

FORT COLLINS—Neglecting a septic tank can lead to trouble, warns O. J. Trenary, extension agricultural engineer at Colorado State University.

The disposal field can become clogged if the septic tank is not cleaned regularly. Once the field becomes clogged, the system will not work and new lines must be laid in the field.

Trenary says the sludge level should not be allowed to build to more than one-third of the depth of the tank before it is pumped out. He adds that there should be a crust over the liquid in a tank that is working properly.

Usually, it is not necessary to add anything to the liquid in the tank to start bacterial action and breakdown of the solids, the engineer says. "Don't use caustic cleaners of additives to start bacterial action," he advises. "and, while yeast is often suggested, it does not give any beneficial results."

A small electrically powered grain auger can be used to clean the tank. A 16-foot auger, operated at about motor speed, will do the job. Haul the sludge to a field and plow it under deeply. However, Trenary recommends, don't raise vegetables.

If you hire the cleaning done, be wary of transient tank cleaners. Hire a local man—one you know is dependable.

New Limits Set On Imported Dairy Products

Several dairy exporting nations have agreed to a temporary limit on dairy shipments to the United States, the Secretary of Agriculture announced last week. The agreements cover Colby cheese, Junex, and frozen cream.

Imports of these products have resulted in millions of dollars of added cost to the domestic agricultural programs. The National Milk Producers Federation had requested that they be controlled.

Imports of Colby cheese from the three largest exporters, New Zealand, Australia and Ireland, will be held to 11.2 million pounds for the fiscal year 1963-64. The secretary estimates that total Colby imports will be reduced about 10 percent below the 12.8 million pounds imported in 1962-63. The imports of Colby developed after it was discovered that they could be used to circumvent the import quota on cheddar cheese.

Australia has agreed that its exports of Junex to the United States in the calendar year 1964 will not exeed 2,240,000 pounds. This is a reduction of about one-third from the 1963 level. Junex is described as a butterfat-sugar mixture containing just under 45 percent butterfat. This also is an import developed after import controls were applied to such mixtures containing 45 percent or more of butterfat, the federation stated.

Frozen cream imports from Zealand will be held to 1.5 million gallons for the calendar year 1964. This is an increase of approximately 50 percent over the level expected for the current year.

The secretary has agreed in the announcement that if these arrangements do not hold imports to the indicated levels, action will be initiated under section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act for the more effective controls.

While this arrangement is not what had been hoped for, commented E. M. Norton, secretary of the federation, it is a step in the right direction and a recognition by the administration of the seriousness of the problem. "We are aware of the roadblocks which the Secretary of Agriculture faced," he added, "and we appreciate the sincere efforts made in behalf of American dairy farmers in this difficult area."

Members of the new committee are attending PTA meetings thruout the city and county and are available to speak at service club meetings to explain the 4-H program. After contacting adults and defining adult responsibility for the program, recruiters will talk with fourth, fifth and sixth grade students who are interested in 4-H, which is designed for urban as well as rural children. Observing Miss Horn's recruitment technique are (from left) Mrs. Willard Haase, Mrs. Edwin Rieb and Miss Barbara Haase, all members of the committee whose goal is to increase membership from the current 670 to over 1,000. Weather Helps State Farmers With Harvest

Another week of ideal weather enabled Colorado farmers to continue fall harvest at full blast.

The Colorado Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said in their weekly summary report that threshing of dry beans is nearly complete and harvest of corn silage is virtually over.

The report stated that seeding of wheat is almost complete except for a few dry localities in the southeast and the higher elevations on the Western Slope. Over 90 per cent of the acreage was up to excellent stand and the condition of the crop is reported to be unusually good.

Digging of sugar bets jumped to full swing Thursday when quota assignments were lifted and stockpiling of beets began. Reported tonnage from harvested fields was good but the sugar content was below average. Some growers had to irrigate in order to loosen fields for digging and the report said cooler temperatures are now needed to favor beet stockpiling.

Full-scale digging of potatoes continued in the San Luis Valley and harvest neared the midpoint by the weekend. Yields are reported to be good and quality about normal.

Harvest of late vegetable crops continued as frost held off in most regions. Picking of apples was also still in progress and warm temperatures were preventing optimum coloring of apples.

The reporting service said livestock continued to make gains on good fall grazing. Sales of cattle were picking up and contracting of feeder sheep continued at about the usual rate.

The only precipitation reported in the state in the past week were traces in northwest Colorado. Temperatures in the Arkansas River Basin reached maximums of 90 and lows of 40.

DAZZLING DAHLIA — Mrs. Willis Strakin, 1907 N. Nevada Ave., reaches for one of the giant dahlias blooming in front of her home. The plant towers above her some 10 feet high and the blooms are deep yellow in color. Mrs. Strakin, a resident and gardener for 60 years in the Pikes Peak region, planted the dahlia bulbs this spring and reports the tall plant to be a record for her green thumb efforts. THESE REALISTIC TOYS

LOUISVILLE (AP) — If the Police Department seems jittery, there's a reason. Too many toys.

Two cruisers sped to St. Leonard Catholic Church recently after the Rev. Joseph Emrich spotted a tommy gun and a rifle lying under a tree. Both were toys.

An hour later in the same neighborhood, another call and another cruiser.

The six-inch snake a housewife found on the kitchen table was a rubber imitation.

MINNEAPOLIS, Kan. (AP)—For some time Mrs. Harold Wlamsley had been fishing with a regular rod and reel — without success.

Disgusted, she put it aside and cut a twig from a tree. She fastened the twig with a piece of plastic line and baited the hook. Within minutes she had landed an eight-pound catfish.

Yoder Boy Named To CSU Livestock Judging Team

Sam A. Tanner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Tanner of Yoder, has been selected as a member of the Colorado State University Senior Livestock Judging Team.

Tanner and other five members of the team, coached by T. R. Blackburn, returned to the campus Tuesday after a weekend trip to Kansas City, Mo. where they competed against 22 other college teams at the American Royal Livestock Show.

In addition to Tanner, other team members this year are Joe D. Taylor, Moab, Utah; Merrill V. Bond, Ordway; Norman E. Brown, Fort Collins; Forrest F. Nelson, Meeker; and Murlin W. Goeken, Boulder.

CSU Check Dam Now Complete

The check dam is easily installed and does not require anchoring. It was designed by William J. Pugh, engineering aide with the CSU Agricultural Experiment Station at Grand Junction.

Pugh says the check dam is constructed with heavy-wall electrical conduit and a nylon sheet. The new design overcomes the problems of conventional canvass check dams which become heavy when wet and are difficult to anchor.

The check dam is adjustable and will fit any shape or size ditch up to 5 feet wide at the top and 3 feet deep. Total cost of materials for the dam is about $14.

Colorado residents can obtain a free copy of a progress report on the dam which includes plans, assembly plot and list of materials needed.

Send a post card to Bulletin Room, Colorado State University, Fort Collins, and request Progress Report 110, "Portable Irrigation Check Dam."

Winterize Rose Plants Before Dip In Temperature

How will your rose garden grow next spring after the long, cold winter?

If you trim, spray and mound late this fall after your established plants go dormant, you'll have little if any winter loss and lots of healthy, flowering bushes next season, advises All-America Rose Selections.

These winter safeguards, according to AARS, the leading pre-testing and educational group in the rose world, are the same practices followed at the official AARs trial gardens thruout the nation where freezing weather demands precautions.

AARS advises home gardeners to apply some form of protection if temperatures in the region dip down the 15-degree level or lower. The simple three-stop program enables plants to winter well by providing insulation against alternating freezing and thawing, and by guarding against loss and cane damage from whipping winds and crushing snow.

When growth is well hardened — usually after the first freezing frost, when the cold weather is here to stay — follow this routine recommended by the All-America Rose group:

1. TRIM: Cut back canes on hybrid teas, grandifloras and floribundas to at least 18 to 24 inches. Remove all dead wood. Long canes left on the bush will whip in the wind, become laden with snow and thus tend to loosen the protective mound around the plant.

2. CLEAN AND SPRAY FALL sanitation around the bushes destroys disease and insects and minimizes carryover infection into next spring. Remove all fallen leaves. Give on last spray to the entire plant as well as to the surrounding soil.

3. MOUND: Form a pile of soil, eight to ten inches high, around the canes of each plant. Use soil from another part of the garden rather than from between the plants.

Where winters are really severe, with temperatures zero and well below, another two to four inches of mounding as well as a covering of evergreen, fir or pine boughs will provide added protection. Avoid materials that retain moisture.

The modern rose of today is a hardy breed. The All-America Rose Selections winners and other quality introductions from the major rose nurseries have hardiness bred in. They will withstand the rigors of winter with just a little help from the home gardener.

Attending to the simple winter safeguards will assure you that next spring all of your plants will be ready to burst forth with the incomparable color and fragrance you'll be eagerly awaiting from the queen of flowers.

Farmers Advised To Check Cold Symptoms in Herd

This is the season for runny noses, coughs and other respiratory diseases in cattle just as it is in humans, according to a warning to cattle owners issued today by the American Foundation for Animal Health.

Farmers were urged to watch for danger signs of these diseases, because they are many, often confusing, and can cause serious losses... and the alert should be kept up from now into winter.

A special watch should be kept for a condition known as "red nose", or IBR, says the foundation. This may strike from 25 to 100 per cent of the cattle in a lot. It causes heavy economic losses in feeder cattle and a sharp drop in milk production in dairy cattle.

Fortunately, vaccination by a veterinarian in advance of an outbreak can do much toward holding down losses from "red nose", the foundation reports. Also, farmers should isolate new stock for 30 days before allowing it to mingle with the home herd. This will give latent infections a chance to show up before they can be passed on to healthy cattle.

Things a farmer should watch for — runny noses, a low, throaty cough, rapid breathing, loss of condition. If any of these appear, a prompt diagnosis is in order.

Trouble Follows Tank Neglect

FORT COLLINS—Neglecting a septic tank can lead to trouble, warns O. J. Trenary, extension agricultural engineer at Colorado State University.

The disposal field can become clogged if the septic tank is not cleaned regularly. Once the field becomes clogged, the system will not work and new lines must be laid in the field.

Trenary says the sludge level should not be allowed to build to more than one-third of the depth of the tank before it is pumped out. He adds that there should be a crust over the liquid in a tank that is working properly.

Usually, it is not necessary to add anything to the liquid in the tank to start bacterial action and breakdown of the solids, the engineer says. "Don't use caustic cleaners of additives to start bacterial action," he advises. "and, while yeast is often suggested, it does not give any beneficial results."

A small electrically powered grain auger can be used to clean the tank. A 16-foot auger, operated at about motor speed, will do the job. Haul the sludge to a field and plow it under deeply. However, Trenary recommends, don't raise vegetables.

If you hire the cleaning done, be wary of transient tank cleaners. Hire a local man—one you know is dependable.

PROFESSION?

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Is engineering a profession? "Probably," said Joseph G. Wilson, of the Shell Oil Co., New York, at a recent petroleum conference sponsored by the American Society of Chemical Engineers. But he added there still may be some doubt about the propriety of calling engineering a profession.

"It is to the engineer's credit that his record exists more in what he has done than what he has said about himself or what others have said about him," Wilson said.

France Evacuates Base at Bizerte

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—France today evacuated the Bizerte base over which about 3,000 men died in a battle in July 1961.

The evacuation of the base was hailed by Tunisia as eliminating the last obstacle on the path of cooperation between the two nations.

Flags were hoisted throughout the country and crowds celebrated the victory in the long and thorny struggle to force France from its last military base on Tunisian territory.

Yemen Thrives On Civil War In Market Place

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SAN'A, Yemen (AP) -- The duty market places of backward Yemen are thriving on civil war. Hundreds of tiny shops in the pungent "souks" are literally bulging with goods.

Along the twisting, narrow alleys you can find almost everything—Japanese transistor radios and cameras, Hong Kong electrical equipment, Czechoslovak shoes, East German razor blades, Red Chinese silks, British shirts and even bottled soft drinks from Saudi Arabia.

The trade boom has created problems for President Nasser who has sent about 30,000 of his Egyptian troops here to help President Abdullah Al Sallal fight rebellious tribesmen loyal to deposed King Mohamed El Badr.

The Egyptians find in Yemen many consumer goods which have all but disappeared from Nasser's socialist state. And they readily spend their monthly $15 allowance in the souks.

Aware of the need to maintain friendship with the Yemenis, Nasser has not pushed for import controls. Instead, he has continued to dip into his country's treasury to help Yemen.

The Yemeni rial, actually the silver Maria Theresa thaler, is flowing out of the country at an alarming rate to pay for the influx of consumer goods. To balance the demand, Nasser has agreed to mint new rials for Yemen and has advanced about $7 million worth of silver.

It is estimated that Egypt has poured about $10 million to finance Sallal's regime since last year's revolt—in addition to doing most of the fighting and attempting to build up Yemen's ill-trained 3,000-man army.

For its part, Sallal's government is of little help. Administration was left in a chaos when Mohamed was ousted.

The government really doesn't know where to begin to set its finances in order. There are no statistics and no statisticians. A few figures are being gathered and by next year Sallal has promised a formal national budget—the country's first.

When Imam Ahmed died about a year ago, it was assumed that his son, Imam Mohamed, gradually would steer the country out of its backwardness. He knew something of the outside world and made much of a supposed friendship with Nasser.

But before Imam Mohamed had ruled 11 days, he was shelled out of his mud and stone palace by Salla, then a 45-year-old army colonel. Sallal discovered that he inherited a backward nation and all its problems.

The balance of power was against him. Although he had the support of the townspeople and flatland farmers—a majority of the country's five million population—he found they were no match for the fierce mountain tribesmen who delighted in fighting and normally supported the Imam.

Tribes fighting on both sides have a tendency to vacillate or settle old tribal scores, often at the expense of ignoring the civil war. Last summer, Sallal's government had to execute some of its own tribal followers.

Under these circumstances it is impossible for the overwhelming majority of Yemenis to take an international view of their stalemated little war. But the war is international, potentially dangerous in the Middle East and distasteful to almost everyone.

London pay TV expects O.K. soon.

Reduced Colorado Potato Crop Seen

DENVER (AP) — Colorado fall potato crop is expected to total 9,782,000 hundredweight this year, the U.S. and Colorado Departments of Agriculture reported today.

An extremely late frost in the San Luis Valley delayed the harvest. Vines had to be killed by chemicals or poison until the very end of September.

Size generally was not as large as normal and will result in a smaller proportion of marketable potatoes, the report said.

Dry bean production in the state now is estimated at 2,221,000 bags a gain of 160,000 bags over the estimate of a month ago. The report said the crop will run about 29 per cent over last year and 19 per cent over the 1957-61 average.

The harvest in most sections is completed and threshing is in full swing.

JAYWALKING COWS

NATIONAL CITY, Calif. (UPI)—When an excited motorist telephoned that "a bunch of cows walked through a red light," police embarked on an impromptu cattle roundup Monday.

It took eight policemen two hours to corral 40 animals which had strolled away from a meat packing pen near this San Diego suburb.

Kidney Transplant From Monkey Reported Well

NEW ORLANS (UPI) — A young woman into whose body Tulane University surgeons transplanted monkey kidneys a week ago was reported in fair condition today at Charity Hospital.

Her case is the first in which the organ of a lower animal was transplanted into a human. Her identity was not disclosed.
